Raging Seas, Heavy Snow Batter Nation

Tornado Alerts Issued In Four Midwest States

By The Associated Press

The year's worst combination of bad weather—raging seas, heavy snow and windstorms — battered the nation Tuesday.

The wind-whipped Pacific Ocean dashed waves 40 feet high against coastal areas of northern California and Oregon.

Winter revived with a bang in the midcontinent, mixing damaging windstorms with heavy snow and sub-zero cold.

Tornado warnings were issued in four states. A severe windstorm killed two men in Arkansas.

Damage in storm-battered Pacific Coast areas ran into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Scores of coastal residents fled their homes, following more than 1,000 evacuated Monday.

Off San Francisco, helicopters lifted crewmen off a tanker wallowing helplessly with its cargo of 2½ million gallons of wine.

Anchor Finally Holds

But four hours after the tanker, the Angelo Petri, lost its power an anchor grabbed hold 3.7 miles southeast of the San Francisco beach. The skipper said he believed his seven-million-dollar ship and the 25 men still aboard could be saved so rescue operations were halted.

The raging Pacific claimed at least one victim. Seventy-five miles south of San Francisco, near Pacific Grove, four youths were swept into the sea. Only three could fight their way back to shore.

A Coast Guard lighthouse high on a rock near Ft. Bragg, Calif., was smashed by high waves and its fog horns silenced. Metal doors two inches thick were stove in.

A million board feet of lumber were hurled into the sea as seas whipped by 110-mile-an-hour winds wrecked a $100,000 dock at Port Orford, Ore. One wave smashed over a seawall at Nelscott, Ore., and spilled over a garage a half block away.

Possible Tornadoes Forecast

A storm moving northeast from Texas, eastern Kansas and western Missouri led the Weather Bureau to forecast possible tornadoes in parts of northern Arkansas, western Tennessee, and southern Illinois and Indiana.

A windstorm struck McDermott, Ark., blowing a roof off a high school building but no one was injured.

A man and his son were killed when the winds blew a large tree across their truck cab. The truck caught fire and the trapped men perished.

A treacherous mixture of snow, sleet and freezing rain created hazardous driving conditions in northern Illinois and Indiana.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for Nebraska, Iowa, and extreme southeast South Dakota. Up to eight inches of snow were expected in the area.

Helicopter Crashes

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) —A Marine helicopter with 10 men aboard crashed and sank short of a Navy carrier while attempting to land Monday night, killing one man and critically injuring two others, the Navy said Tuesday.

The accident occurred off Puerto Rico where a joint Navy-Marine exercise is under way.

Ike To Inspect Cape Canaveral Missile Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will fly to Florida Wednesday to inspect the missile test center at Cape Canaveral.

Eisenhower has been trying for some time, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said, to arrange his schedule to work in a visit to Cape Canaveral, the big base from which space probes have been fired and military missiles tested.

The President flew to Gettysburg, Pa., by helicopter Tuesday to have dinner wwih the First Lady and stay overnight at their farm estate. Mrs. Eisenhower stayed on at Gettysburg after she and the President spent the weekend there.

The trip to Florida will be made by jet airliner. Eisenhower plans to spend three or four hours at the missile test base, then return immediately to Washington.

Hagerty told reporters Eisenhower will not witnesss any missile firings during his brief stay.

Eisenhower's Florida trip means he will not hold his usual Wednesday news conference. Hagerty left open the possibility such a session may be held later in the week.

Head Of Joint Chiefs Shuns Burke Project

Sen. Cotton Backs Proposal For More Missile U-Boats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's top military chief Tuesday opposed the Navy's new proposal to thrust the Polaris program forward by building six more of the missile-firing submarines than present plans allow.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, rejected the plan only a day after that proposal was disclosed by Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations — and from the same forum, a hearing of the Senate Space Committee and Preparedness subcommittee.

But Republican Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire came to Burke's support, urging President Eisenhower to accept the admiral's proposal to spend another 975 million dollars to build six additional Polaris subs.

"If you want terrific striking power at minimum cost — this is it," Cotton said in a speech for the Senate.

Twining, Power Disagree

Under questioning, of triphammer intensity at times, Twining testified he doesn't go along with Gen. Thomas S. Power's view that Power's force of long range bombers should be put on 24-hour airborne alert as soon as possible, and that more money should be spent now to get ready.

Twining contended the important thing is to be capable of mounting such an alert, if and when a need arises. "What's in the budget will take care of that," he said.

And the onetime Air Force chief brushed aside as exaggerated a claim by Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, the Army's chief of staff, that U.S. capability to airlift troops and equipment to deal with any limited war is woefully inadequate.

Defends Ike's Budget

However, Twining indicated he did not favor the drastic cutback in the program to produce the B70 bomber, a 2,000-mile-an-hour plane intended to replace the slower B52 bomber now making up this country's long-range striking arm.

In rejecting pet projects of some of his close associates, Twining put up a stout defense of Eisenhower's 41-billion-dollar defense budget.

He voiced the conviction no nation could attack the United States now or in time to come "without receiving unacceptable damage."

Appearing before the Senate groups Monday, Adm. Burke claimed the Polaris subs will be invulnerable weapons, able to deal nuclear destruction to Soviet targets from beneath the sea, up to 1,500 miles away. The Navy chief said 45 such craft would pack enough firepower to destroy the Soviet Union.

Ex-DJ Admits Getting $15,500 Outside Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former disc jockey who figures he used to earn around $40,000 a year told Tuesday how he picked up more on the side.

He kept an eye out for "good records" produced by certain companies and in return for his consideration collected $15,500, for example, in one two-year period.

The testimony came from Joseph Finan, who was fired by Cleveland radio station KYW on Dec. 3 during last year's exposure of payola scandals — the slipping of undercover money as an inducement for plugging certain records over others.

Finan told a House subcommittee investigating payola the $15,500 figure of outside income was for 1958-59.

The subcommittee is looking into payola on the grounds the inducement system deceives the public as to a record's worth or popularity, and maybe a law is needed.

Finan, 30, told the congressmen his total income from radio and TV was around $38,000 to $40,000 a year before he was fired—unjustly, he maintained.

He swore that only in the case of one firm — Big Top Records—had he agreed to play specified records over his radio record program in exchange for payments. Big Top paid him $450 for promoting three records, he said.

Finan said that in the rest of the cases in which he received outside money he agreed only to give special consideration to certain records.

As he explained this consideration, he would keep a special watch for certain labels among all the great number of records that came each week to station KYW. Then, when he saw a label for which he had promised consideration, he would give the record a try and if he liked it he would play it over the air. If he didn't like it, he said, that was the end of it as far as he was concerned.

The subcommittee also heard from Lester Lanin, an orchestra leader who said he plays for "the top society set of America." He told of a deal by which, he said, station WBZ of Boston was to plug some of his records in connection with a Boston charity party in 1958. The party, Lanin said, was essentially a record promotion stunt.

Lanin said Dan Dumont, New England distributor for Epic Records, offered him $1,000 to play at the party but so far has come across with only $400.

Eisenhower Hands Congress Challenge On Wheat Surplus

President Outlines Farm Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower presented his election year farm program Tuesday and challenged the Democratic - controlled Congress to come up with a better solution to the critical wheat surplus problem than he proposed.

"I will approve any constructive solution," Eisenhower said. Thus, as expected, he modified past administration insistence the wheat crisis be met by lowering price supports and eliminating production controls.

But in his special message, the President stressed it is imperative for Congress to move promptly to deal with a situation that is costing the government 1½ million dollars every day — $1,000 a minute to stabilize wheat prices and income.

Without prompt action by both Congress and the government, he said, "This entire program will collapse under the pressure of public indignation and thousands of our farming people will be hurt."

Eisenhower's message was generally welcomed by Republicans, including some who had opposed his previous proposals. Many of the GOP legislators said the President has put the problem where it belongs, up to Congress.

Some Democrats called Eisenhower's proposals disappointing. But Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said the message "casts a ray of hope that we may soon enact wheat legislation."

However, Ellender said, if there is to be any real cooperation between Congress and the administration in enacting wheat legislation "it is necessary that we obtain the active support" of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

Benson has been under particularly heavy fire since Eisenhower last year vetoed a bill that would have required wheat growers to cut their planting in return for higher price supports.

Eisenhower's message outlined four recommendations outside his solution to the wheat problem:

1. A three-year extension of the soil bank land retirement program and an expansion from the present 28 million acres to 60 million acres. This program is designed to help curtail overproduction.

Eisenhower said the secretary of agriculture should have authority to direct the major expansion to areas of greatest need. He proposed, too, that the government be permitted to make rental payments on retired land in the form of crop surpluses as well as cash.

2. A vigorous advancement of the government's food for peace program to combat hunger by moving U.S. surpluses to needy areas abroad.

3. An aggressive research program to develop new markets and new uses for farm products.

4. An expansion of the rural development program to help low income rural families find better opportunity on and off the land.

In his challenge to Congress to solve the wheat problem, Eisenhower repeatedly used the word "constructive" in describing what he would accept. He laid down as guidelines this definition of what he considers acceptable:

1. "That price support levels be realistically related to whatever policy the Congress chooses in respect to production control, it being recognized that the higher the support the more regimented must be the farmer."

2. "That price support levels not be so high so as to stimulate still more excessive production, reduce domestic markets, and increase the subsidies required to hold world outlets."

3. "For reasons long expressed by the administration, that we avoid direct subsidy payment programs for crops in surplus; likewise, we must avoid programs which would invite harmful counter measures by our friends abroad, or which, while seeking to assist one group of farmers, would badly hurt other farmers."

Barnstorming Khrush Heads For India Today

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev leaves Wednesday on a new barnstorming tour in Asia, leaving behind him a diplomatic colony puzzled by his blunt presummit demands on the key international issues of Germany and West Berlin.

The foreign diplomatic corps in Moscow, which witnessed his animated exchange of views with visiting Italian President Giovanni Gronchi, has been invited to be present when he takes off for India.

President Gronchi is not scheduled to leave Moscow until Thursday. He spends Wednesday in Leningrad, freshly and personally briefed by a candid Khrushchev on the Soviet position with regard to the German and Berlin questions. The Soviet leader still demands that the big powers sign separate treaties with Communist East and Federal West Germany and that the occupation status of Berlin be ended by making West Berlin a "free city."

(In Bonn, a West German Foreign Office spokesman said Khrushchev's blasts "show a noticeable toughening of Soviet policy." Spokesmen for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party said Khrushchev's latest statements were "not calculated to strengthen faith in the sincerity and good will of the Soviet Union." An opposition Socialist leader, Karl Mommer, took issue with Khrushchev's insistence that Germany's present borders could be changed only by war. This statement, the Socialist said, was superfluous, since West Germany has renounced revision of frontiers by force.)

Gronchi's meetings ended officially with the signing of a joint communique and an agreement for cultural cooperation.

Dirksen Hints At Senate Probe Of Defense Leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois hinted Tuesday at the possibility of a Senate probe of reported leaks of secret testimony by Central Intelligence Director Allen W. Dulles.

"I think it is something that merits further attention by the Senate," Dirksen said in a speech.

Later, Dirksen told newsmen concern over leaks of military information from closed-door congressional hearings had been discussed at a morning meeting between Republican House and Senate leaders and President Eisenhower. The Illinois senator said he also was concerned that some generals were talking too much in public.

Dirksen described Eisenhower as "intense but not mad" about the situation.

Emerging from that meeting, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana accused certain Democratic presidential hopefuls of being "more interested in making headlines than headway so far as defense of our country is concerned."

Halleck further charged that these Democrats were trying to make the United States appear as a second rate power.

The House GOP leader sparred with reporters when asked whether he was talking about Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

"You know who they are as well as I do," Halleck said.

Both Johnson and Symington are available for the Democratic presidential nomination, and both have been strongly critical of Eisenhower military policy, contending it is exposing the United States to possible missile attack by the Soviet Union.

Task Force Hunts Negro Toughs Who Shot Pastor

CHICAGO (AP)—Police organized a special South Side task force Tuesday to hunt down a gang of teen-age Negroes who shot a white campaigner for brotherhood.

The shooting of the Rev. Leo K. Bishop, 48, vice president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, occurred as he and his wife were going home from a meeting of a neighborhood betterment society Monday night.

The young toughs shot the minister in the groin. Another bullet from a .32 caliber pistol grazed his back in the robbery attempt. He is recovering in Illinois Central Hospital.

An ordained clergyman of the Disciples of Christ, the Rev. Mr. Bishop and his wife, Pauline, 47, were accosted at 69th St., and Crandon Ave., by five boys and two girls using a rifle and a pistol in a robbery attempt.

Police Capt. Jerome McCarthy said four other South Side holdups Monday night seem to have involved the same gang. A rifle was used in each.

Acting Police Commissioner Kyran Phelan said he will saturate the South Side with task force policemen in an effort to solve the robberies, attempted stickups and attacks in the area.

The Rev. Mr. Bishop held pastorates in the Disciples of Christ churches in Kentucky, Oklahoma and Iowa before joining the NCCJ in Iowa. He has been a militant foe of racial and religious prejudices for years.

Md. Factory Owner Killed, Five Injured

Explosions Touch Off Mammoth Fire At Havre De Grace

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP)—A series of explosions ripped through a sprawling fireworks plant here Tuesday touching off a mammoth fire and killing the owner.

The body of James Archie Fabrizo, 35, owner of the Havre de Grace Fireworks Co., was identified by a medical examiner from two false teeth and his belt buckle. A man saw him walk into one of the buildings just before it blew up.

"Everything was burned off him," said Police Chief William A. Bullock. "No arms, no legs, no nothing. It was horrible."

A Negro woman who lived in the area, Nellie Stansbury, 62, died at a hospital of a heart attack or stroke suffered during the excitement.

Five persons were injured, including two employes. They were treated and released from a hospital.

A workman who escaped, Allan Simpers, 20, said:

"We were working when we heard a machine making a popping noise and we turned it off. We heard somebody shout 'Fire' and we saw No. 3 building on fire.

Five Minutes Notice

"We saw Fabrizio running toward the building with a hose in his hand. The next thing I knew, No. 3 went up with a boom.

"Everybody had about five minutes notice between discovery of the fire and the explosion.

"We were all running away from the burning building when this explosion came. We were all knocked on our faces and a shower of debris fell around us."

Chief Bullock estimated damage at half a million dollars, including $150,000 damage to nearby homes.

Tin roofs of the fireworks buildings crumpled like foil as one explosion followed another.

The plant, which opened in 1922, is just north of U.S. 40—the main east-west highway between Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Mayor Walter McIlhenney said the continuing explosions kept the 100-125 firemen from getting close to the burning buildings.

Army Team Cleaning Up

"We've been in here dozens of times for minor fires," he said, "but today we couldn't get in. We were helpless."

One big tractor trailer loaded with fireworks was twisted around and destroyed when the fire reached it. The fire threatened a plant dump containing seven or eight barrels of highly combustible powdered aluminum but it did not go up.

Burned-out fireworks lay amid the smoldering rubble.

"Light my tail and get away," it said on one carton.

Mayor McIlhenney said the Army sent in a 100-man demolition team from the Aberdeen Proving Ground to go through the debris and clean it up.

Those treated at Harford Memorial Hospital and released included two employes, Mrs. Lillian Elliott, 46, and Mrs. Alma Heffinger, 36.

Unionization Drive Urged

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO conceded Tuesday that labor unions now represent a smaller part of the nation's work force than they did before the AFL and CIO merged four years ago.

John W. Livingston, AFL-CIO organizing director, released figures on this at the federation Executive Council's winter meeting here. He recommended that unions pour more money into a renewed drive to enroll members and counteract what he called "a ferocious" employer campaign against unionizing workers.

Livingston said total membership, including labor organizations outside the AFL-CIO, is about the same 17 million now as four years ago. But he said the expanding labor force has increased from 42 million to 44 million the estimated maximum potential of workers that can be organized. The result is that union membership has slipped from 40 to 39 per cent of the potential.

He expressed hope that top-level labor-management conferences being planned under auspices of President Eisenhower may result in reduced opposition to union membership campaigns. He said stricter labor union controls enacted last year are adding to organizing difficulties.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower presented his election year farm program Tuesday and challenged the Democratic - controlled Congress to come up with a better solution to the critical wheat surplus problem than he proposed.

"I will approve any constructive solution," Eisenhower said. Thus, as expected, he modified past administration insistence the wheat crisis be met by lowering price supports and eliminating production controls.

But in his special message, the President stressed it is imperative for Congress to move promptly to deal with a situation that is costing the government 1½ million dollars every day — $1,000 a minute to stabilize wheat prices and income.

Without prompt action by both Congress and the government, he said, "This entire program will collapse under the pressure of public indignation and thousands of our farming people will be hurt."

Eisenhower's message was generally welcomed by Republicans, including some who had opposed his previous proposals. Many of the GOP legislators said the President has put the problem where it belongs, up to Congress.

Some Democrats called Eisenhower's proposals disappointing. But Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said the message "casts a ray of hope that we may soon enact wheat legislation."

However, Ellender said, if there is to be any real cooperation between Congress and the administration in enacting wheat legislation "it is necessary that we obtain the active support" of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

Benson has been under particularly heavy fire since Eisenhower last year vetoed a bill that would have required wheat growers to cut their planting in return for higher price supports.

Eisenhower's message outlined four recommendations outside his solution to the wheat problem:

1. A three-year extension of the soil bank land retirement program and an expansion from the present 28 million acres to 60 million acres. This program is designed to help curtail overproduction.

Eisenhower said the secretary of agriculture should have authority to direct the major expansion to areas of greatest need. He proposed, too, that the government be permitted to make rental payments on retired land in the form of crop surpluses as well as cash.

2. A vigorous advancement of the government's food for peace program to combat hunger by moving U.S. surpluses to needy areas abroad.

3. An aggressive research program to develop new markets and new uses for farm products.

4. An expansion of the rural development program to help low income rural families find better opportunity on and off the land.

In his challenge to Congress to solve the wheat problem, Eisenhower repeatedly used the word "constructive" in describing what he would accept. He laid down as guidelines this definition of what he considers acceptable:

1. "That price support levels be realistically related to whatever policy the Congress chooses in respect to production control, it being recognized that the higher the support the more regimented must be the farmer."

2. "That price support levels not be so high so as to stimulate still more excessive production, reduce domestic markets, and increase the subsidies required to hold world outlets."

3. "For reasons long expressed by the administration, that we avoid direct subsidy payment programs for crops in surplus; likewise, we must avoid programs which would invite harmful counter measures by our friends abroad, or which, while seeking to assist one group of farmers, would badly hurt other farmers."

Barnstorming Khrush Heads For India Today

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev leaves Wednesday on a new barnstorming tour in Asia, leaving behind him a diplomatic colony puzzled by his blunt presummit demands on the key international issues of Germany and West Berlin.

The foreign diplomatic corps in Moscow, which witnessed his animated exchange of views with visiting Italian President Giovanni Gronchi, has been invited to be present when he takes off for India.

President Gronchi is not scheduled to leave Moscow until Thursday. He spends Wednesday in Leningrad, freshly and personally briefed by a candid Khrushchev on the Soviet position with regard to the German and Berlin questions. The Soviet leader still demands that the big powers sign separate treaties with Communist East and Federal West Germany and that the occupation status of Berlin be ended by making West Berlin a "free city."

(In Bonn, a West German Foreign Office spokesman said Khrushchev's blasts "show a noticeable toughening of Soviet policy." Spokesmen for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party said Khrushchev's latest statements were "not calculated to strengthen faith in the sincerity and good will of the Soviet Union." An opposition Socialist leader, Karl Mommer, took issue with Khrushchev's insistence that Germany's present borders could be changed only by war. This statement, the Socialist said, was superfluous, since West Germany has renounced revision of frontiers by force.)

Gronchi's meetings ended officially with the signing of a joint communique and an agreement for cultural cooperation.

Dirksen Hints At Senate Probe Of Defense Leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois hinted Tuesday at the possibility of a Senate probe of reported leaks of secret testimony by Central Intelligence Director Allen W. Dulles.

"I think it is something that merits further attention by the Senate," Dirksen said in a speech.

Later, Dirksen told newsmen concern over leaks of military information from closed-door congressional hearings had been discussed at a morning meeting between Republican House and Senate leaders and President Eisenhower. The Illinois senator said he also was concerned that some generals were talking too much in public.

Dirksen described Eisenhower as "intense but not mad" about the situation.

Emerging from that meeting, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana accused certain Democratic presidential hopefuls of being "more interested in making headlines than headway so far as defense of our country is concerned."

Halleck further charged that these Democrats were trying to make the United States appear as a second rate power.

The House GOP leader sparred with reporters when asked whether he was talking about Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

"You know who they are as well as I do," Halleck said.

Both Johnson and Symington are available for the Democratic presidential nomination, and both have been strongly critical of Eisenhower military policy, contending it is exposing the United States to possible missile attack by the Soviet Union.

Task Force Hunts Negro Toughs Who Shot Pastor

CHICAGO (AP)—Police organized a special South Side task force Tuesday to hunt down a gang of teen-age Negroes who shot a white campaigner for brotherhood.

The shooting of the Rev. Leo K. Bishop, 48, vice president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, occurred as he and his wife were going home from a meeting of a neighborhood betterment society Monday night.

The young toughs shot the minister in the groin. Another bullet from a .32 caliber pistol grazed his back in the robbery attempt. He is recovering in Illinois Central Hospital.

An ordained clergyman of the Disciples of Christ, the Rev. Mr. Bishop and his wife, Pauline, 47, were accosted at 69th St., and Crandon Ave., by five boys and two girls using a rifle and a pistol in a robbery attempt.

Police Capt. Jerome McCarthy said four other South Side holdups Monday night seem to have involved the same gang. A rifle was used in each.

Acting Police Commissioner Kyran Phelan said he will saturate the South Side with task force policemen in an effort to solve the robberies, attempted stickups and attacks in the area.

The Rev. Mr. Bishop held pastorates in the Disciples of Christ churches in Kentucky, Oklahoma and Iowa before joining the NCCJ in Iowa. He has been a militant foe of racial and religious prejudices for years.

Md. Factory Owner Killed, Five Injured

Explosions Touch Off Mammoth Fire At Havre De Grace

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP)—A series of explosions ripped through a sprawling fireworks plant here Tuesday touching off a mammoth fire and killing the owner.

The body of James Archie Fabrizo, 35, owner of the Havre de Grace Fireworks Co., was identified by a medical examiner from two false teeth and his belt buckle. A man saw him walk into one of the buildings just before it blew up.

"Everything was burned off him," said Police Chief William A. Bullock. "No arms, no legs, no nothing. It was horrible."

A Negro woman who lived in the area, Nellie Stansbury, 62, died at a hospital of a heart attack or stroke suffered during the excitement.

Five persons were injured, including two employes. They were treated and released from a hospital.

A workman who escaped, Allan Simpers, 20, said:

"We were working when we heard a machine making a popping noise and we turned it off. We heard somebody shout 'Fire' and we saw No. 3 building on fire.

Five Minutes Notice

"We saw Fabrizio running toward the building with a hose in his hand. The next thing I knew, No. 3 went up with a boom.

"Everybody had about five minutes notice between discovery of the fire and the explosion.

"We were all running away from the burning building when this explosion came. We were all knocked on our faces and a shower of debris fell around us."

Chief Bullock estimated damage at half a million dollars, including $150,000 damage to nearby homes.

Tin roofs of the fireworks buildings crumpled like foil as one explosion followed another.

The plant, which opened in 1922, is just north of U.S. 40—the main east-west highway between Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Mayor Walter McIlhenney said the continuing explosions kept the 100-125 firemen from getting close to the burning buildings.

Army Team Cleaning Up

"We've been in here dozens of times for minor fires," he said, "but today we couldn't get in. We were helpless."

One big tractor trailer loaded with fireworks was twisted around and destroyed when the fire reached it. The fire threatened a plant dump containing seven or eight barrels of highly combustible powdered aluminum but it did not go up.

Burned-out fireworks lay amid the smoldering rubble.

"Light my tail and get away," it said on one carton.

Mayor McIlhenney said the Army sent in a 100-man demolition team from the Aberdeen Proving Ground to go through the debris and clean it up.

Those treated at Harford Memorial Hospital and released included two employes, Mrs. Lillian Elliott, 46, and Mrs. Alma Heffinger, 36.

Unionization Drive Urged

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The AFL-CIO conceded Tuesday that labor unions now represent a smaller part of the nation's work force than they did before the AFL and CIO merged four years ago.

John W. Livingston, AFL-CIO organizing director, released figures on this at the federation Executive Council's winter meeting here. He recommended that unions pour more money into a renewed drive to enroll members and counteract what he called "a ferocious" employer campaign against unionizing workers.

Livingston said total membership, including labor organizations outside the AFL-CIO, is about the same 17 million now as four years ago. But he said the expanding labor force has increased from 42 million to 44 million the estimated maximum potential of workers that can be organized. The result is that union membership has slipped from 40 to 39 per cent of the potential.

He expressed hope that top-level labor-management conferences being planned under auspices of President Eisenhower may result in reduced opposition to union membership campaigns. He said stricter labor union controls enacted last year are adding to organizing difficulties.

Passive Resistance Movement By Negro Students Spreads

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A passive resistance movement by North Carolina Negro students against segregated lunch counter service spread to Charlotte Tuesday, guided gently by a young ministerial student.

"I have no malice, no jealousy, no hatred, no envy," said Joseph Charles Jones, a Negro graduate student at Johnson C. Smith University here.

"All I want is to come in and place my order and be served and leave a tip if I feel like it."

As other Negro students had done earlier in Greensboro, Durham and Winston-Salem, the 150 demonstrators in Charlotte filed quietly into eight downtown stores and took the lunch counter seats.

There was no boisterousness among the well-groomed students and no protest when white waitresses ignored their presence. They sat impassively while the stores closed the lunch counters, and departed orderly when one store closed its doors.

In Greensboro, where North Carolina A&T College students have agreed to a two-week cooling off period in their demonstrations of last week, variety store lunch counters remained closed.

In Durham and Winston-Salem, where North Carolina College and Winston-Salem Teachers College students are in the second day of their protest, the lunch counters closed Monday when the demonstrators arrived. Another one in Winston-Salem closed Tuesday when the strike spread to a Walgreen drug store.

Suspected Wife Of Infidelities, Finch Testifies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch testified Tuesday he suspected his wife of infidelities because "she wasn't getting any loving at home."

The society surgeon said at his murder trial he tried twice to hire private detectives to follow his wife in quest of evidence to use against her in a divorce battle.

He admitted he knew her pending divorce suit could have won her all of the community property she estimated at $750,000.

Finch, 42, and his onetime receptionist, red-haired Carole Tregoff, 23, are accused of murdering her so they could marry without splitting the community property with her.

Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch, 36, was shot to death last July 18 outside the Finch home in suburban West Covina.

The doctor has testified that after Los Angeles private eyes were unable to follow Mrs. Finch, he sought to hire Jack Cody, a Minneapolis convict, to follow her and if necessary act as a gigolo.

Cody's own testimony was that he was hired by the doctor and Miss Tregoff to kill the doctor's wife.

Court Plan Is Debated

ANNAPOLIS (AP)A Baltimore attorney argued Tuesday that the proposed "7-5 plan" for increasing membership on the Court of Appeals would result in decisions by panels instead of the majority of the court.

Under the proposed plan, the present five - member high court would be increased to seven judges but with only five sitting at one time in normal cases.

"We ought to have a decision of the seven judges," attorney Paul M. Higinbothom contended at a joint House-Senate Judiciary Committee hearing on the bill. The measure has been endorsed by the Legislative Council, the Maryland and Baltimore City Bar Assns. and the high court itself.

Higinbthom said that one five-judge panel might rule one way in a case while another five-judge panel might have had a different opinion.

He said this may make it impossible for an attorney to know exactly how the full court feels on a point of law.

Representatives of the Maryland and city bar associations spoke for the bill, as did Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune of the high court.

A joint subcommittee was named to study the bill and report back later this week.

Radio Operator On Trial Today In Ship Slaying

BOSTON (AP) — A handsome Dutch radio operator goes on trial Wednesday on a charge of murder in what the state contends was the romance-ending shipboard slaying of a pretty Chicago heiress and divorcee.

One hundred American men and women have been summoned as prospective jurors.

A panel of 12 and two alternates will be selected to determine whether Willem van Rie, 31, should go to the electric chair or be freed.

Van Rie was indicted on a charge of first degree murder in the killing of Lynn Kauffman, 23, with whom he allegedly engaged in a torrid 44-day romance from Singapore to Boston.

Her body, extensively battered and half nude, was found stranded on Spectace Island, in Boston Harbor, last Sept. 19, the day after the Dutch freighter Utrecht departed Boston on an around-the-world voyage.

Van Rie has denied that an affair with the pretty heiress-divorcee ended in violence.

His wife, Nella, who came on from Holland to be with him, has remained steadfast in belief in his innocence.

Record Budget Sought

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) —The Prince Georges County Board of Education Tuesday approved a record operating budget of $26,900,000.

The budget for the 1960-61 fiscal year is $4,400,000 more than was budgeted for the 1959-60 year.

If approved by the county commissioners, the budget would necessitate an increase of 56 cents in the tax rate, which now is $2.30 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Queen Stirs Controversy In Changing Family Name

LONDON (AP) — With Queen Elizabeth II's third baby expected in less than a week, a controversy swirled about her head because she changed the royal family name to one with a German background.

Two big newspapers complained of the new name, Mountbatten-Windsor. Mountbatten is the English version of the German name Battenberg and was adopted by Prince Philip's forebears in the anti-German frenzy of World War I.

The pro-Labor Daily Mirror, with more than four million circulation, demanded the issue be submitted to Parliament.

Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said: "The warm affection in which the Queen is held will ensure that criticism is restrained. But it would have been far better if no occasion for controversy and criticism had been offered."

To these complaints, the Liberal Star replied with a six-column headline: "Leave the Queen alone."

All this furor involved a name that won't appear on anyone's birth certificate for two generations, and then only for minor royalty at that.

In her proclamation Monday, the Queen announced that she and her children will continue to be known as the house and family of Windsor. The name will also not apply to any future descendants in the direct line of succession to the throne, since royal princes and princesses do not have surnames.

The Queen's decision clearly was intended as a tribute to her husband, 38-year-old Prince Philip.

Man Convicted In Torch Murder

BALTIMORE (AP) — A man, charged with setting fire to his common-law wife, was convicted Tuesday of second-degree murder and sentenced to 18 years in the State Penitentiary.

Judges James K. Cullen and Joseph L. Carter said James T. Gabbin, 46, was kept from being convicted of first-degree murder only because of his intoxicated condition at the time of the crime.

The defendent testified he had no recollection of setting Mrs. Francis Carry Coates, 40, afire on Aug. 13. But he had previously given police signed statements in which he admitted igniting her clothing. Mrs. Coates died Sept. 20.

Missing British Frogman May Be Red Captive

LONDON (AP)—A British frogman who vanished while swimming near a Soviet cruiser in 1956 may still be alive and a prisoner of the Soviet Union, a London publisher said Tuesday.

The frogman, Royal Navy Cmdr. Lionel Crabb, dived near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze in Britain's Portsmouth naval base four years ago. He has since been officially listed as missing, presumed drowned.

The British publishing firm of Neville Spearman, Ltd., said a secret dossier smuggled out of the Soviet Union proves Crabb was captured as he swam around the cruiser. The firm is bringing out a book about Crabb in a few months.

Neville Armstrong, director of the firm, said the dossier showed Crabb was taken aboard the cruiser and later flown by helicopter to Stettin, in Poland, and then taken to the Soviet Union.

"Its authority is absolutely genuine," Armstrong said.

British officials, including the Foreign Office, declined comment.

The publisher said that underground agents who brought the dossier out of the Soviet Union refused to give it to British officials because of previous attempts to hush up the affair.

Crabb's mysterious disappearance, during a visit to Britain by Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, set off a round of speculation and criticism in the British press and Parliament.

Modified Rocket Engine Scores Another Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A new space engine scored its second straight success Tuesday, powering an intermediate range Thor missile 1,500 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

This was the second of three tests for the engine, which the United States hopes will help fill a gap until larger space boosters are available.

The new power plant probably will be used in Thor-Able and Thor-Delta rockets, three-stage vehicles which utilize the Thor as a first stage. These rockets have several space missions in the next few months.

The engine is a modified version of the regular Thor motor. It generates 165,000 pounds of thrust, 15,000 more than normal.

Another one in Winston-Salem closed Tuesday when the strike spread to a Walgreen drug store.

Missing British Frogman May Be Red Captive

LONDON (AP)—A British frogman who vanished while swimming near a Soviet cruiser in 1956 may still be alive and a prisoner of the Soviet Union, a London publisher said Tuesday.

The frogman, Royal Navy Cmdr. Lionel Crabb, dived near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze in Britain's Portsmouth naval base four years ago. He has since been officially listed as missing, presumed drowned.

The British publishing firm of Neville Spearman, Ltd., said a secret dossier smuggled out of the Soviet Union proves Crabb was captured as he swam around the cruiser. The firm is bringing out a book about Crabb in a few months.

Neville Armstrong, director of the firm, said the dossier showed Crabb was taken aboard the cruiser and later flown by helicopter to Stettin, in Poland, and then taken to the Soviet Union.

"Its authority is absolutely genuine," Armstrong said.

British officials, including the Foreign Office, declined comment.

The publisher said that underground agents who brought the dossier out of the Soviet Union refused to give it to British officials because of previous attempts to hush up the affair.

Crabb's mysterious disappearance, during a visit to Britain by Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, set off a round of speculation and criticism in the British press and Parliament.

Modified Rocket Engine Scores Another Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A new space engine scored its second straight success Tuesday, powering an intermediate range Thor missile 1,500 miles down the Atlantic missile range.

This was the second of three tests for the engine, which the United States hopes will help fill a gap until larger space boosters are available.

The new power plant probably will be used in Thor-Able and Thor-Delta rockets, three-stage vehicles which utilize the Thor as a first stage. These rockets have several space missions in the next few months.

The engine is a modified version of the regular Thor motor. It generates 165,000 pounds of thrust, 15,000 more than normal.

Stiff Sentence Given Motorist In Fatal Crash

FERNDALE, Md. (AP) — Walter King, 36, of Odenton, has been sentenced to eight months in the House of Correction and fined $1,100 because of a fatal automobile accident last Jan. 10.

Magistrate Ralph C. Boyd imposed the stiff penalty Monday after acquitting King of manslaughter by automobile.

Boyd did find him guilty of operating on a revoked license, for which King received six months in jail and a $500 fine; giving false information, $100 and costs; leaving the scene of an accident 30 days and $200 fine; failing to render aid to the injured, 30 days and $200 fine; and reckless driving, $100 and costs.

Police testified that King's driving record showed 15 prior convictions, from Oct. 8, 1955 to June 1, 1959. Five convictions were for operating under the influence of alcohol.

The fatal accident occurred near Glen Burnie when a car in which Mrs. Bertha Moody, 36, of Pasadena was riding was hit from the rear and struck a tree.

King was arrested about an hour later, but contended that the other car first struck the tree, bounced off and hit his auto. He said he left the scene because he was driving on a revoked operator's permit.

U.S. Asks Dismissal Of Milk Market Suit

BALTIMORE (AP) — The government has asked dismissal of a suit challenging the validity of a federal milk-marketing order for the Upper Chesapeake Bay region.

U.S. Atty. Leon H.A. Pierson filed the motion in U.S. District Court Tuesday. The Secretary of Agriculture issued the marketing order Dec. 23 after extended hearings and a vote by dairy farmers.

Chief Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen scheduled a hearing on the motion Friday. A request by the Willow Farms Dairy Inc. of Frizzleburg, Carroll County, to delay the terms of the marketing order will also be heard at that time.

Fireworks Blast At Havre De Grace Maryland's Sixth In As Many Years

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tuesday's explosion at a Havre de Grace, Md., fireworks plant was Maryland's sixth in as many years.

The most disastrous by far was an explosion at a munitions and fireworks plant at Chestertown, on the Eastern Shore, in July of 1954. Eleven persons died when a powder drying oven set off a series of blasts at the Kent Manufacturing Co. Damage was half a million dollars.

A branch plant of the same fireworks company hit today was shattered by two explosions Nov. 25, 1958. One man was killed and three others were injured in the plant at Millington, Md., near Havre de Grace.

Four persons were killed Dec. 13, 1957, in a low-grade explosion and flash fire at Elkton, Md., a town near Havre de Grace in Northeastern Maryland. T fire at the Thiokol Chemical p., which manufactures solid ket propellant, apparently started in a mixing vat.

An explosion at Aerial Products Inc., a firm also at Elkton which manufactures flares and 20 millimeter shells, injured two persons Oct. 27, 1954. There was no fire and damage was confined to a small concrete-reinforced building.

Dec. 13, 1958, a single explosion rocked a chemical plant at Cockeysville in Baltimore County, not far from Baltimore City. No one was injured in th blast at the Maryland Pigment and Research Corp., which makes zinc chloride, a basic raw material of flame-retardant paints. There was no fire and damage was slight.

Interest Rate Hike On State Deposits Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore attorney Hyman Pressman said Tuesday the State Board of Public Works is indulging in "high-class political payola" by declining to raise the required interest rate on state deposits from 2 to 3 per cent.

The state spends its deposits among many banks throughout the state and these banks currently are paying 2 per cent interest on the money. Wednesday, the board rejected a request to hike the rate to 3 per cent.

Pressman, in a telegram to Gov. Tawes Tuesday, said the action "will result in unconscionable profits to favored bankers at the expense of the taxpayers."

"There isn't a bank in the state," he said, "which wouldn't jump at the chance to accept the deposits at 3 per cent, for it would still allow a handsome profit."

Pressman asked the governor for an explanation of what he said constituted ignoring the taxpayers' cause.

Langenfelder Low Bidder

BALTIMORE (AP) — C. J. Langenfelder and Son, Inc. of Baltimore, submitted Tuesday the unofficial low bid of $1,429,899 for dualization of the final stretch of the Baltimore - Harrisburg Expressway.

The State Roads Commission said the bid was among 13 for the grading, draining and surfacing of the southbound lane of the highway from Shawan road to Mt. Carmel, plus interchange roadways.

The project covers 6.5 miles, and will make the expressway a dual road from the Baltimore Beltway just north of this city to Harrisburg, Pa.

The SRC had estimated that the job would be completed by the end of the summer. Bridges and part of the grading work was completed some time ago.

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the stock market resuming its decline Monday, a Wall Street analyst recommended caution until it shows signs of stabilization.

"This may occur within the next few weeks when the intermittent selling flurries exhaust themselves and provide a former level from which to attract sidelined investors," said the Fitch Survey.

"This should promote a healthier investment climate, renewed investor confidence and resumption of the market's upward trend."

The analyst commented that investors have become disenchanted with the market's near-term progress because of fear of deflation instead of inflation; the continuance of tight money with constricting effect on housing starts and capital expenditures, and the action of many traders in taking profits early in the year.

"While the first half of 1960 is generally expected to be one of good tidings for corporate profits and expansion," adds Fitch, "there is growing doubt that the second half of the year will be as good.

"This also has contributed to the fall of stock prices and the widespread shifting, particularly among institutional funds which stress longer term objectives, from equities to bonds."

"The decline since the first of the year has not restored the market as a whole to the bargain counter," says Standard & Poor's Corp. "However, it was skimmed off some froth, corrected average prices at least to a more rational level to foreseeable earnings, and exposed a number of interestingly priced situations."

The stock market's reaction in January to an outpouring of favorable business news was so unexpected that it is not surprising that investors are asking whether the bull market is over, says the investment firm of Hornblower & Weeks.

"No one can say for sure," it comments, "but logic suggests that even though a high for some time to come may have been reached, chances are that no horrendous collapse is likely in the near term.

Business and Investment Service predicts that profits this year will show an increase of at least 10 per cent, and possibly 15 per cent, over 1959.

U.S. Musicals Top Bill In London

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI) — The English theater world readily admits that American musicals top the bill over here, but serious plays from the United States just don't fare as well.

"Americans are more successful with musicals than we are," said Eric Johns, editor of the theater newspaper 'Stage.' "They have more swing, zip and imagination. They're more of a hit than their straight plays."

It was a serious drama about life in New York — something called "Passion," which was written by actress Cora Mowatt — that began the stream of American plays to Britain. That was in 1850.

Now, the big American successes here are musicals. Two U. S. hits, "West Side Story" and "My Fair Lady," both arrived in 1958. They're still playing, and the closing date for "Lady" isn't likely before March, 1961.

Thomas Wiseman, who writes a showbusiness column for the "Evening Standard," explained it this way:

"Music tends to be more international in its appeal than plays which are dealing with specific American problems, characters and situation. I think there is a certain reluctance by the English audience to feel in the same way that American audiences feel.

"Without doubt, American musicals are the best in the world."

The British public is less impressed by straight American plays even though the critics are often quite enthusiastic.

Tennessee Williams had a critical impact with "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Rose Tattoo," and "Orpheus Descending." But it didn't make him tremendously popular here.

Md., D.C. Adopt License Ruling

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Maryland driver who has had his license revoked will be unable to obtain a permit in the District of Columbia and vice-versa, according to the latest Maryland State Police Highway Safety Bulletin.

Maryland and the District have an agreement preventing such action on the part of residents of the two areas. Similar agreements are in the process of being negotiated with Virginia.

Several reasons were cited by the bulletin for the instituting of the new ruling. It said the agreement will prevent relicensing in one state of a driver already suspended or revoked in the other and will prevent the use of either permit—when a driver is arrested—to conceal previous traffic offenses.

Another reason is to prevent Maryland juveniles from getting around the requirement of providing financial responsibility by obtaining a D.C. permit.

If a Maryland resident is issued a permit in Washington, it will be stamped, "Valid in D.C. only," and the Maryland authorities will be notified of its issuance. The same procedure will apply for a Washington resident obtaining a Maryland permit.

New Wave Of Political Arrests, Trials Are Expected In Dominican Republic

Editor's Note: The following authoritative dispatch on present political conditions within the Dominican Republic has been put together from the reports of trained foreign observers reaching nearby Puerto Rico from Ciudad Trujillo.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, (UPI) —A new wave of political arrests and trials may be expected in the Dominican Republic.

More than 2,000 Dominicans have been detained by the national police there following a dramatically exposed plot to overthrow the 30 - year - old Trujillo regime.

It is not known how many of these are still held in Ciudad Trujillo's La Victoria prison and military stockades throughout the republic. Minister of Justice Louis E. Suero announced Sunday that 123 would be "detained." In this case, "detention" is taken by Dominicans to mean a fate similar to that of 40 persons who, one week ago, were summarily tried and sentenced to 30 years at hard labor.

Eye - witnesses at the one - day trial said the prisoners, mostly prominent citizens, bore evidence of brutal prison treatment. All were haggard and wan, the observer said. One had feet so swollen from injuries as to be unable to wear shoes.

Reprisals Swift, Sure

Because of swift and sure reprisal, news from the Dominican Republic cannot be attributed. All sources questioned for the material in this report are regarded as of the highest order.

Because the present political opposition in the Dominican Republic predominates in business, the professions and society, the Trujillo regime is regarded as facing its most severe crisis.

Opposition of the church — 90 per cent of Dominicans are Catholic — and poor economic conditions due to lowered world markets for the country's leading exports, such as sugar, coffee and cacao, are menacing factors for the 68 - year - old Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo.

On his side however, are control of the armed forces and the unshaken loyalty of the "campesinos," country people, for their "jefe", chief.

The army and national police have Trujillo under heavy guard.

A published report that Trujillo sought asylum in the American Embassy is untrue though the embassy is next door to his sprawling stucco residence.

Church Opposition Concerns

Indications are strong that Trujillo is not taking the power play lightly. Church opposition is special cause for concern.

The church's most stern condemnation of Trujillo came in a pastoral letter which the bishops of the Dominican Republic ordered read at all masses Jan. 31.

Trujillo reacted quickly. The following day a column appeared in the controlled press urging closer state-church relations and praising the Concordat between the Trujillo Regime and the Vatican. The same means had been previously employed to criticize the treaty.

Trujillo is also reported as fearing world reaction to his treatment of those accused of subversion. He would like to purchase American and European arms to strengthen his position against the ever-present menace of Cuban war or Venezuelan invasion.

To date, the United States has declined to do business and Europe has followed suit. The generalissimo's flaunting of democratic practices does not increase his buying power.

Khrush To Visit Guinea

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will visit the new African state of Guinea, Tass news agency announced Monday night.

The announcement was the first official confirmation of widespread reports that the Soviet Premier would visit Africa this year. Tass said the date of the visit would be arranged later.

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the stock market resuming its decline Monday, a Wall Street analyst recommended caution until it shows signs of stabilization.

"This may occur within the next few weeks when the intermittent selling flurries exhaust themselves and provide a former level from which to attract sidelined investors," said the Fitch Survey.

"This should promote a healthier investment climate, renewed investor confidence and resumption of the market's upward trend."

The analyst commented that investors have become disenchanted with the market's near-term progress because of fear of deflation instead of inflation; the continuance of tight money with constricting effect on housing starts and capital expenditures, and the action of many traders in taking profits early in the year.

"While the first half of 1960 is generally expected to be one of good tidings for corporate profits and expansion," adds Fitch, "there is growing doubt that the second half of the year will be as good.

"This also has contributed to the fall of stock prices and the widespread shifting, particularly among institutional funds which stress longer term objectives, from equities to bonds."

"The decline since the first of the year has not restored the market as a whole to the bargain counter," says Standard & Poor's Corp. "However, it was skimmed off some froth, corrected average prices at least to a more rational level to foreseeable earnings, and exposed a number of interestingly priced situations."

The stock market's reaction in January to an outpouring of favorable business news was so unexpected that it is not surprising that investors are asking whether the bull market is over, says the investment firm of Hornblower & Weeks.

"No one can say for sure," it comments, "but logic suggests that even though a high for some time to come may have been reached, chances are that no horrendous collapse is likely in the near term.

Business and Investment Service predicts that profits this year will show an increase of at least 10 per cent, and possibly 15 per cent, over 1959.

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's now wrestling's turn to be featured in Scott Brady's TV western "Shotgun Slade," which has previously cast baseball and boxing figures. Count Billy Varga, holder of the so-called heavyweight wrestling title for the last few years, has been signed for an upcoming episode.

U.S. Musicals Top Bill In London

By MARIS ROSS

LONDON (UPI) — The English theater world readily admits that American musicals top the bill over here, but serious plays from the United States just don't fare as well.

"Americans are more successful with musicals than we are," said Eric Johns, editor of the theater newspaper 'Stage.' "They have more swing, zip and imagination. They're more of a hit than their straight plays."

It was a serious drama about life in New York — something called "Passion," which was written by actress Cora Mowatt — that began the stream of American plays to Britain. That was in 1850.

Now, the big American successes here are musicals. Two U. S. hits, "West Side Story" and "My Fair Lady," both arrived in 1958. They're still playing, and the closing date for "Lady" isn't likely before March, 1961.

Thomas Wiseman, who writes a showbusiness column for the "Evening Standard," explained it this way:

"Music tends to be more international in its appeal than plays which are dealing with specific American problems, characters and situation. I think there is a certain reluctance by the English audience to feel in the same way that American audiences feel.

"Without doubt, American musicals are the best in the world."

The British public is less impressed by straight American plays even though the critics are often quite enthusiastic.

Tennessee Williams had a critical impact with "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Rose Tattoo," and "Orpheus Descending." But it didn't make him tremendously popular here.

Md., D.C. Adopt License Ruling

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Maryland driver who has had his license revoked will be unable to obtain a permit in the District of Columbia and vice-versa, according to the latest Maryland State Police Highway Safety Bulletin.

Maryland and the District have an agreement preventing such action on the part of residents of the two areas. Similar agreements are in the process of being negotiated with Virginia.

Several reasons were cited by the bulletin for the instituting of the new ruling. It said the agreement will prevent relicensing in one state of a driver already suspended or revoked in the other and will prevent the use of either permit—when a driver is arrested—to conceal previous traffic offenses.

Another reason is to prevent Maryland juveniles from getting around the requirement of providing financial responsibility by obtaining a D.C. permit.

If a Maryland resident is issued a permit in Washington, it will be stamped, "Valid in D.C. only," and the Maryland authorities will be notified of its issuance. The same procedure will apply for a Washington resident obtaining a Maryland permit.

New Wave Of Political Arrests, Trials Are Expected In Dominican Republic

Editor's Note: The following authoritative dispatch on present political conditions within the Dominican Republic has been put together from the reports of trained foreign observers reaching nearby Puerto Rico from Ciudad Trujillo.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, (UPI) —A new wave of political arrests and trials may be expected in the Dominican Republic.

More than 2,000 Dominicans have been detained by the national police there following a dramatically exposed plot to overthrow the 30 - year - old Trujillo regime.

It is not known how many of these are still held in Ciudad Trujillo's La Victoria prison and military stockades throughout the republic. Minister of Justice Louis E. Suero announced Sunday that 123 would be "detained." In this case, "detention" is taken by Dominicans to mean a fate similar to that of 40 persons who, one week ago, were summarily tried and sentenced to 30 years at hard labor.

Eye - witnesses at the one - day trial said the prisoners, mostly prominent citizens, bore evidence of brutal prison treatment. All were haggard and wan, the observer said. One had feet so swollen from injuries as to be unable to wear shoes.

Reprisals Swift, Sure

Because of swift and sure reprisal, news from the Dominican Republic cannot be attributed. All sources questioned for the material in this report are regarded as of the highest order.

Because the present political opposition in the Domincan Republic predominates in business, the professions and society, the Trujillo regime is regarded as facing its most severe crisis.

Opposition of the church — 90 per cent of Dominicans are Catholic — and poor economic conditions due to lowered world markets for the country's leading exports, such as sugar, coffee and cacao, are menacing factors for the 68 - year - old Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo.

On his side however, are control of the armed forces and the unshaken loyalty of the "campesinos," country people, for their "jefe", chief.

The army and national police have Trujillo under heavy guard.

A published report that Trujillo sought asylum in the American Embassy is untrue though the embassy is next door to his sprawling stucco residence.

Church Opposition Concerns

Indications are strong that Trujillo is not taking the power play lightly. Church opposition is special cause for concern.

The church's most stern condemnation of Trujillo came in a pastoral letter which the bishops of the Dominican Republic ordered read at all masses Jan. 31.

Trujillo reacted quickly. The following day a column appeared in the controlled press urging closer state-church relations and praising the Concordat between the Trujillo Regime and the Vatican. The same means had been previously employed to criticize the treaty.

Trujillo is also reported as fearing world reaction to his treatment of those accused of subversion. He would like to purchase American and European arms to strengthen his position against the ever-present menace of Cuban war or Venezuelan invasion.

To date, the United States has declined to do business and Europe has followed suit. The generalissimo's flaunting of democratic practices does not increase his buying power.

Cast Changes But Miami Still Setting For Cuban Cloak-Dagger Operations

By WHITNEY MARTIN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—It used to be the anti-Batista men. Now it's the anti-Castro men.

Miami is still the setting for cloak-and-dagger stuff by Cuban "antis," with occasional gunplay and fisticuffs and plenty of attempted arms smuggling.

The only change since Fidel Castro ousted Cuban President Fulgencio Batista a little over a year ago has been in the cast. Now it consists of Batista supporters, disenchanted Castro followers and Cuban exiles who want neither Castro nor Batista.

Precisely what goes on among the various factions, busily plotting, propagandizing, and fighting each other is difficult for the outsider to assess. For authorities, it's a headache; for Miamians in general, a long-playing sideshow.

Geography accounts for southern Florida's role as a base for anti-Castro movements. It's closest to Cuba. When foes of the current government fled their embattled island, many found refuge in this area. About 1,000 Cubans came to Miami as legally admitted political refugees. But other political dissidents came without declaring themselves refugees; any Cuban may enter the United States by getting a passport and visitor's visa or a permanent visa through the U.S. consulate in Havana.

Once in the United States, Cuban exiles formed a variety of groups with various aims. But periodic violence centers chiefly on Miami, because of the concentration of Cubans here. New York, however, witnessed a riot between pro and anti-Castro factions recently during a wreath-laying ceremony in Central Park at the statue of Cuban liberator Jose Marti.

In Miami there are about 100,000 persons of Latin background including some 50,000 to 60,000 from Cuba.

Arms smuggling presents a major problem.

James A. Fortier, U.S. customs supervising agent in Miami, says 43 major seizures of illegal arms have been made in the past two years.

"We have warehouses filled with arms," he says. "We have to have ammunition dumps for the ammunition, garages for the trucks and cars, hangars for the planes. We keep the material until the smugglers' trials, then turn it over to the Defense Department for disposal."

Minor clashes between Cuban factions in Miami are commonplace. Among the more serious ones was a near-riot at the home of Rolando Masferrer Rojas last summer.

Masferrer once headed a private army in Batista's Cuba, and is a former senator. During the melee at his home, the Cuban consul, Alonso Hidalgo, was beaten and arrested for disturbing the peace—charges later dismissed as a violation of diplomatic immunity.

Demonstrations don't always take violent form. Last October anti-Castro men in Miami celebrated Jose Marti Day by placing white roses on the revolutionary hero's bust in Bayfront Park, and draping black crepe over the the marble pedestal — apparently to symbolize the death of liberty in Cuba.

The pro-Castro faction isn't idle, either. A while ago Castro's representatives here tried to organize local Cubans to spy on counter-revolutionary activities.

Printed circulars were distributed among Cubans and other Latin Americans living in Miami urging them to inform on activities of the anti-Castro exiles.

With the return of pro-Castro exiles to Cuba after Castro's assumption of power, and the influx of Batista refugees, the Castro faction here is outnumbered. "Most of the criminals wanted by our government are hiding right here," said a secretary in the Cuban consulate.

The more substantial and responsible political exiles cause no trouble in Miami. Their activities are in the open, and they carefully refrain from violations of neutral soil. But there are enough hotheads to keep the kettle boiling.

Among the more prominent anti-Castro organizations is one called the "White Rose," headed by Rafael Diaz Balart, a former brother-in-law of Castro who lives in New York.

Added to the various "anti" factions is Castro's own contingent of agents here to keep an eye on activities of his opponents. Some estimates are that about 200 are so employed.

The "head" of a shrimp houses the crustacean's heart and stomach. The tasty, meaty tail is the part that is eaten.

NEW SALEM AS LINCOLN KNEW IT—The restored village of New Salem, Ill., marks the 151st birthday of Abraham Lincoln with the preserved rustic air he knew in his days there from 1831 to 1837. The rail fences (top, left) around log cabins would be a familiar sight to Honest Abe, who gained local fame as a railsplitter. The grist mill (top, right) is a replica of one built in 1829 by John Camron and James Rutledge, the latter, father of Ann Rutledge who was Lincoln's first and tragic love. At bottom is a fireplace in one of the cabins with the necessities of Lincoln's day. A squirrel rifle is framed in a doorway of a rough-hewn log cabin in the town where the future President served as postmaster, worked as a surveyor and failed in business as a storekeeper.

Ignored Noises Can Affect Thoughts

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A noise you hardly notice may enter your mind sometimes and, in a strange transformed way, become part of your thoughts.

An experiment exploring this phenomenon was completed for the U.S. Public Health Service recently by Dr. Fred Pine, a New York University psychologist.

His results could shed some light on subliminal advertising, the technique in which a slogan is flashed on a screen so quickly you do not realize you see it.

When this technique first received public notice, it was assumed that if, for example, the slogan "See Your Dentist Twice a Year" were flashed, the unsuspecting audience would tend to do just that. But Dr. Pine's experiment indicates it is not that simple.

The slogan or noise seems to enter your mind. But it does not come out in conscious thoughts just the way it entered. In fact, images may pop up so different from the slogan or noise that only a psychologist could tell they were related. This would not do an advertiser much good.

In the case of the dentist slogan, flashing it would probably not send anyone off to have his teeth examined. But it might cause some one in the audience to dream later that he is a lion tamer staring at the gaping jaws of his animal.

In the experiment, Dr. Pine had 24 college students individually concentrate on reading a descriptive paragraph while some loud noise could be heard from the next room. The noise was a completely different paragraph read by a voice on a tape recorder.

One paragraph told about a cow, the other about a hook. A sentence in the former, for example, said: "Lands where grass is lush and plentiful are the special home of the cow." The other included sentences like this: "Coldness, hardness, silvery steel: These are the qualities of the hook."

Half the subject concentrated on reading about the cow while the noise from the next room was about the hook. The other 12 read about the hook while the noise was about the cow.

Dr. Pine questioned the subjects later and found that no one recalled the sentences contained in the noise. If the noise had entered their minds, it had done so unnoticed.

Dr. Pine had a way of measuring this. After the hook and cow readings, he asked the subjects to invent stories.

Here is what the psychologist found:

1. Students who heard the cow as noise tended to tell about relations among people that were warm, close and positive. Students who heard the hook as noise tended to tell about relations that were intruding, clashing and negative.

2. Students who heard the cow as noise often used children as characters in their stories. Students who heard the hook as noise would use adults as characters.

3. The stories of students who heard the cow as noise contained such themes as sympathy, mother love and welfare benefits. The stories of students who heard the hook as noise were filled with phrases about such themes as death, aggression and activity.

Psychoanalysts believe the mind has two ways of thinking. One way, called the secondary process, involves conscious, waking thought—the kind of logical concentration we need to do our daily tasks. The second way, called the primary process, involves the occasions like dreaming when the mind churns out symbols instead of reason.

People often ignore sounds and sights of no use in getting around. But, according to Freud and others, these sounds and sights, ignored by conscious thoughts, may enter the unconscious mind and become part of dreams of other primary process thinking.

This is what Dr. Pine demonstrated. The students considered the noises unimportant and consciously ignored them. But these noises entered the students' unconscious minds anyway—not to pop up again in exact form in the students' stories but to have a hand in the imaginative process that created them.

Aberdeen Proving Ground Railroad Victim To Times

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — The Aberdeen Proving Ground Railroad—once a thriving line — has fallen victim to the times.

At its peak during World War II, it was hauling 3,000 freight cars a month, and more than 200,000 passengers monthly on its coaches. Today, the line handles about 225 freight cars a month and no passengers.

Instead of the more than 100 civilian and military employes it had 16 years ago, the railroad is operated today by seven civilian railroaders.

The former 55 miles of track at this Army proving ground site have been reduced to 36; there are only two locomotives instead of 17 and five flat cars instead of 45.

One of the primary assignments of the iron horse used to be hauling huge railroad guns at various angles to determine if the recoil would push the carriage off the track or spread the rails.

Today, diesel locomotives shuttle cars loaded with tanks, artillery pieces, rockets, missiles and other ordnance material and supplies.

Foreman of operations and maintenance is W. H. Preston, who has been with the railroad for 31 years and a proving ground employe for 38.

"Yes sir," says Preston, "I can remember the first train load of lumber that arrived at the proving ground in 1918."

The conductor-brakeman is C. B. Robertson, who has been with the line since 1945. Cooney Brammer is engineer, having guided locomotives at the proving ground for 18 years.

Minor clashes between Cuban factions in Miami are commonplace. Among the more serious ones was a near-riot at the home of Rolando Masferrer Rojas last summer.

Masferrer once headed a private army in Batista's Cuba, and is a former senator. During the melee at his home, the Cuban consul, Alonso Hidalgo, was beaten and arrested for disturbing the peace—charges later dismissed as a violation of diplomatic immunity.

Demonstrations don't always take violent form. Last October anti-Castro men in Miami celebrated Jose Marti Day by placing white roses on the revolutionary hero's bust in Bayfront Park, and draping black crepe over the the marble pedestal — apparently to symbolize the death of liberty in Cuba.

The pro-Castro faction isn't idle, either. A while ago Castro's representatives here tried to organize local Cubans to spy on counter-revolutionary activities.

Printed circulars were distributed among Cubans and other Latin Americans living in Miami urging them to inform on activities of the anti-Castro exiles.

With the return of pro-Castro exiles to Cuba after Castro's assumption of power, and the influx of Batista refugees, the Castro faction here is outnumbered. "Most of the criminals wanted by our government are hiding right here," said a secretary in the Cuban consulate.

The more substantial and responsible political exiles cause no trouble in Miami. Their activities are in the open, and they carefully refrain from violations of neutral soil. But there are enough hotheads to keep the kettle boiling.

Among the more prominent anti-Castro organizations is one called the "White Rose," headed by Rafael Diaz Balart, a former brother-in-law of Castro who lives in New York.

Added to the various "anti" factions is Castro's own contingent of agents here to keep an eye on activities of his opponents. Some estimates are that about 200 are so employed.

NEW SALEM AS LINCOLN KNEW IT—The restored village of New Salem, Ill., marks the 151st birthday of Abraham Lincoln with the preserved rustic air he knew in his days there from 1831 to 1837. The rail fences (top, left) around log cabins would be a familiar sight to Honest Abe, who gained local fame as a railsplitter. The grist mill (top, right) is a replica of one built in 1829 by John Camron and James Rutledge, the latter, father of Ann Rutledge who was Lincoln's first and tragic love. At bottom is a fireplace in one of the cabins with the necessities of Lincoln's day. A squirrel rifle is framed in a doorway of a rough-hewn log cabin in the town where the future President served as postmaster, worked as a surveyor and failed in business as a storekeeper.

Ignored Noises Can Affect Thoughts

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A noise you hardly notice may enter your mind sometimes and, in a strange transformed way, become part of your thoughts.

An experiment exploring this phenomenon was completed for the U.S. Public Health Service recently by Dr. Fred Pine, a New York University psychologist.

His results could shed some light on subliminal advertising, the technique in which a slogan is flashed on a screen so quickly you do not realize you see it.

When this technique first received public notice, it was assumed that if, for example, the slogan "See Your Dentist Twice a Year" were flashed, the unsuspecting audience would tend to do just that. But Dr. Pine's experiment indicates it is not that simple.

The slogan or noise seems to enter your mind. But it does not come out in conscious thoughts just the way it entered. In fact, images may pop up so different from the slogan or noise that only a psychologist could tell they were related. This would not do an advertiser much good.

In the case of the dentist slogan, flashing it would probably not send anyone off to have his teeth examined. But it might cause some one in the audience to dream later that he is a lion tamer staring at the gaping jaws of his animal.

In the experiment, Dr. Pine had 24 college students individually concentrate on reading a descriptive paragraph while some loud noise could be heard from the next room. The noise was a completely different paragraph read by a voice on a tape recorder.

One paragraph told about a cow, the other about a hook. A sentence in the former, for example, said: "Lands where grass is lush and plentiful are the special home of the cow." The other included sentences like this: "Coldness, hardness, silvery steel: These are the qualities of the hook."

Half the subject concentrated on reading about the cow while the noise from the next room was about the hook. The other 12 read about the hook while the noise was about the cow.

Dr. Pine questioned the subjects later and found that no one recalled the sentences contained in the noise. If the noise had entered their minds, it had done so unnoticed.

Dr. Pine had a way of measuring this. After the hook and cow readings, he asked the subjects to invent stories.

Here is what the psychologist found:

1. Students who heard the cow as noise tended to tell about relations among people that were warm, close and positive. Students who heard the hook as noise tended to tell about relations that were intruding, clashing and negative.

2. Students who heard the cow as noise often used children as characters in their stories. Students who heard the hook as noise would use adults as characters.

3. The stories of students who heard the cow as noise contained such themes as sympathy, mother love and welfare benefits. The stories of students who heard the hook as noise were filled with phrases about such themes as death, aggression and activity.

Psychoanalysts believe the mind has two ways of thinking. One way, called the secondary process, involves conscious, waking thought—the kind of logical concentration we need to do our daily tasks. The second way, called the primary process, involves the occasions like dreaming when the mind churns out symbols instead of reason.

People often ignore sounds and sights of no use in getting around. But, according to Freud and others, these sounds and sights, ignored by conscious thoughts, may enter the unconscious mind and become part of dreams of other primary process thinking.

This is what Dr. Pine demonstrated. The students considered the noises unimportant and consciously ignored them. But these noises entered the students' unconscious minds anyway—not to pop up again in exact form in the students' stories but to have a hand in the imaginative process that created them.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Occidental Petroleum Corp. has completed a discovery gas well in the four corners area of Colorado and New Mexico, and followed the discovery with another well in the same area, the company announced.

Aberdeen Proving Ground Railroad Victim To Times

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP) — The Aberdeen Proving Ground Railroad—once a thriving line — has fallen victim to the times.

At its peak during World War II, it was hauling 3,000 freight cars a month, and more than 200,000 passengers monthly on its coaches. Today, the line handles about 225 freight cars a month and no passengers.

Instead of the more than 100 civilian and military employes it had 16 years ago, the railroad is operated today by seven civilian railroaders.

The former 55 miles of track at this Army proving ground site have been reduced to 36; there are only two locomotives instead of 17 and five flat cars instead of 45.

One of the primary assignments of the iron horse used to be hauling huge railroad guns at various angles to determine if the recoil would push the carriage off the track or spread the rails.

Today, diesel locomotives shuttle cars loaded with tanks, artillery pieces, rockets, missiles and other ordnance material and supplies.

Foreman of operations and maintenance is W. H. Preston, who has been with the railroad for 31 years and a proving ground employe for 38.

"Yes sir," says Preston, "I can remember the first train load of lumber that arrived at the proving ground in 1918."

The conductor-brakeman is C. B. Robertson, who has been with the line since 1945. Cooney Brammer is engineer, having guided locomotives at the proving ground for 18 years.

A guide to selecting the proper lipstick shades to match your wardrobe.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Lipstick Magic

If you want to achieve the distinction of a perfect appearance, make certain your cosmetics are attuned to both your skin and your clothes.

For example, you may be considering one of the soft, new coral shades for an addition to your wardrobe. It's a fashion-worthy color . . . if your skin tones lie on the ochre side. (Never forget that colors of your clothes should always contain the same underlying tones as your skin!)

But keep in mind that this new coral shade requires careful lipstick accessorizing! Naturally, nothing but a coral-toned lipstick can do the job. That's only half the story, though! Besides matching colors, you've got to match intensities. The shade you select should be keyed to the intensity of your own color.

If your lipstick is too bright a shade for your dress, it will not only be overpowering to your dress, but to your face, as well! If it's too pale, you are certain to get lost in the picture and look washed out.

Here's the Powers Girl guide to selecting lipstick: Always match your lipstick to your clothes in tone and in brilliance. To make it easier for you, my cosmetic expert has worked out the following table of some new Spring clothing colors and the shade of lipstick that complements each: Acid (greeny) yellow, intense yellow-red; navy, bright true-red; pastel blues, light blue-red; violet, deep fuschia; mauve, light orchid; raspberry, dark blue-red; scarlet, bright true-red.

When you mix the colors in your clothing, choose your lipstick to complement either the color you want to emphasize, or the color which is worn nearest to your face . . . your scarf, hat or collar.

Whatever you do, never leave your lipstick to chance!! It's a chance no woman can afford to take with her good looks.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Powers, a man who knows his cards, predicts that a new fad card game is due to sweep practically out of nowhere.

"It will be so good," the New Yorker said, "that overnight everybody will be talking about it and playing it."

Powers, executive secretary of the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers, has historical facts to fortify his intuition.

"It happens about once every decade," he said. "In the 'Twenties, it was auction bridge. In the 'Thirties, contract bridge took hold. Gin rummy came forth during the 'Forties. And the 'Fifties gave birth to the canasta craze."

For Two Players

Powers was asked to get specific about the new card fad he swears is around the corner.

"No top card authority is willing to predict much about what form the new game will take," he said, "but most of the experts are in agreement that it will probably be a two-handed rather than a four-handed game. You can bet on one thing: it will tax the brain."

Pasteboard zealots are an inventive lot, Powers said. Top designing minds among the 132 million card players barrage his office with ideas for new games.

"We appreciate their interest," he said, "but most if not all of the recent games submitted are completely unworkable — even though the inventor insists 'all my friends are mad about' the new game."

"Most who submit ideas hope to make a lot of money on their games. But they don't realize that it's practically impossible to make any money on a new card game unless you can write a book about it or give lectures on the game."

Card games hitting a popular stride during the past half-century have been variations on games played for hundreds of years.

Contract bridge is an outgrowth of auction bridge. Both are offspring of whist, a card game that dates back to early 18th Century England.

Both canasta and gin rummy are variations of the rummy, a century-old game.

"Gin failed to catch on at first and slipped into a dormant stage," Powers said. "Then, just before World War II, gin rummy was 'discovered' by the motion-picture colony and the radio world."

Some Fade Quickly

"Together, they lifted it out of obscurity and planted it practically overnight in the forefront of popular card games."

Powers said some fad games fail quickly and drop out of sight. But many, such as contract bridge and canasta, retain their following.

At the present time, contract bridge and canasta lead the list of the nation's most played card games. Following — in this order — are: pinochole, poker, solitaire, rummy, 500, auction bridge, hearts and gin rummy.

"One will drop to eleventh place," Powers said, "when the sizzling 'Sixties produces its fad game."

Error Blamed For Near Crash

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., (UPI) — Glenn Lenzer, deputy chief traffic controller of the Federal Aviation Agency office here, confirmed Monday that an error by a controller at the Indianapolis Weir Cook Municipal Airport was responsible for a near crash of two airliners over Kentucky last week.

Lenzer said the air traffic controller erred by not passing along a change in altitude of one plane in the sector he was ontrolling to the controller of another sector.

The planes, one American Airlines and the other United Airlines passed within 200 feet vertically of each other and about 1,500 feet horizontally, Lenzer said.

The American plane was at 19,000 feet over York, Ky., and the United was at 21,000 feet. The United pilot was ordered down to 19,000 and this put the two aircraft at the same altitude, Lenzer said.

The American plane was traveling from Louisville to New York and Boston. The United plane was en route from San Francisco to Washington and Philadelphia.

Lenzer said the controller was a veteran here and a lack of experience could not be blamed.

Mastering Delicate Art Of Being Preacher's Wife Can Be Rugged

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Being a preacher's wife, so they tell, is a delicate art.

But mastering it can be rugged. The women who take on the role today often get some tested tips beforehand.

"A manse marriage is unlike any other," said a partner in one, Mrs. Robert C. Hamlyn, of New York's Grace Church. "A minister's wife has to share her husband continuously, in a personal way, with scores of people."

To cope with that, along with other special factors, requires some wifely resilience and tact. They say it means extra pains and also extra pleasures.

"Loneliness is a part of our life," says Mrs. Powers McLeod, of a Methodist parsonage in Auburn, Ala. "But to me this aspect is lost in the many compensations and joys."

At several seminaries, with the proportion of married students heavily increased, courses recently have been organized for the wives on the fine points of being a clergyman's helpmate.

Forums on the subject in many church areas also have become common. Reason for all this is that a pastor's wife faces distinctive problems.

"Her husband, unlike others, must be dedicated to a wider family than his own," said Mrs. Michael Allen, of St. Mark's, New York. "He is constantly on call, counselling, visiting, shouldering personal problems of others."

Consequently, the wife has more responsibility than usual in maintaining a private home life—and in a situation that at times seems like being in a goldfish bowl.

Out of the seminars, training sessions and articles of advice have come numerous "do's" and "don'ts" that generally are recommended as the best policy for a minister's wife.

These include:

Don't become part of any cliques or show favoritism among members of the congregation. Don't feel obligated to take church offices or leadership duties. Such posts can involve you in difficulties hurting your husband's ministry.

Don't repeat his remarks to others, nor let yourself be used as a go-between to convey opinions to him. Don't be jealous of his many professional contacts with women in the parsonage.

Be willing to live on a limited income. Preserve the privacy of your home. Be sure your husband takes at least one day off a week, undisturbed. Attend church regularly, whether you have no children or 10 of them.

Remember your first duty is as wife, homemaker, mother. Be yourself, not a rubber-stamp for what you think the congregation might want.

County Board Will Decide Health Issue

A decision will be made at the Thursday meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on a motion by Commissioner John T. Mason in connection with the dispute concerning the county health officer and employes in the health agency.

Commissioner Mason yesterday moved that Dr. Perry Prather, director of the State Department, transfer Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, to some other county or position with the state agency.

Commissioner William A. Wilson asked for several days to make a further check into the matter and said he would then act on Commissioner Mason's motion.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that he did not attend a meeting Monday at the Court House which had been called to hear the views of Health Department workers but he would support the action taken by Mason and Wilson. He has expressed his views concerning the squabble in the health unit, Rowan said, and he indicated he is in favor of the transfer. Rowan has made a personal investigation of the situation in the past few weeks.

Leslie J. Clark attorney to the board, suggested that a conference be arranged with Dr. Prather, Dr. van Strien and the board and at that time a formal request for such a transfer could be made. The board members said they did not feel it would be necessary to hold such a conference.

Deputy's Car Is Stolen And Wrecked

An automobile thief Monday stole the private car of a deputy sheriff and then wrecked the vehicle yesterday in South End.

City Police, who checked a hit-and-run accident on Glenwood Street, said their investigation revealed the car involved was owned by William E. (Scotty) Orr, a deputy sheriff of Allegany County.

Officer Joseph Nelson said his investigation of a hit-and-run accident about 3:25 a. m. yesterday revealed the car which struck a truck owned by William Goff, 901 Maryland Avenue, had been stolen early Monday from Orr.

Orr Monday left his automobile at 10 East First Street for mechanical repairs. While the vehicle was parked on East First Street, someone took the liberty of driving it off.

At 1:58 a. m. yesterday City Police were advised by Mr. Goff that a car had struck and damaged his truck which was parked on Glenwood Street.

Officer Nelson later located Orr's damaged car on Oak Street. The front headlight had been smashed and a tire and wheel on the front had been ruined. A check of the license plates revealed the car had been reported stolen by Deputy Sheriff Orr.

County Board Favors CS For Tax Group

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners by a two to one vote yesterday passed a motion providing for inclusion of the employes of the county tax collector's office in the county Civil Service system.

After a letter from the Civil Service Board was read recommending the inclusion of the employes (exempting the tax collector) Commissioner John J. Rowan made a motion they be placed under the program. Commissioner John T. Mason seconded the motion.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he is in favor of county tax collector's office workers being under Civil Service, but he feels that the positions should be awarded after competitive examinations. The workers involved have been on the job about a year.

Commissioner Rowan said the tax collector's office setup is a new one and does not come within the requirements of the Civil Service tests.

FOR THEATRICAL SERVICE

BOSTON (UPI) — William Morris Hunt, vice president of the Metropolitan Boston Arts Center and executive director of the Cambridge Drama Festival, received the first annual Rodgers and Hammerstein award in January. The award is designated to go to the Bostonian who has done the most for the theater during the year.

Local Federal Court Trial Postponed

The session of U. S. District Court for Maryland scheduled for February in the Allegany County Court House has been postponed until late spring or early summer.

Judge R. Dorsey Watkins, Baltimore, of the Federal Court, said the case of the Monterey Company against the Mayor and City Council and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will be tried here in May or June.

The Monterey firm, the distributing company for several undergarment plants in this section, filed suit in June 1957 as a result of damage to goods stored in the basement of 917 Gay Street.

The firm charged that a storm sewer in the vicinity of the building overflowed during a heavy downpour and flooded the basement.

The building formerly housed the Cumberland Undergarment Company with the shipping department in the bottom floor.

The B&O was party defendant as the storm drain was located on the railroad's property.

Negotiations have been going on for over two years and in September a pre-trial conference was held in Baltimore Federal Court before Judge Watkins when it appeared no settlement could be reached. Another pre-trial conference was held in December.

The city is represented by William R. Carscaden, city attorney, and Benjamin Howard of the Baltimore firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge.

The B&O's attorneys in the long litigation have been J. S. Sweeney of the Baltimore firm of Hershy, Donaldson, Williams and Stanley and William A. Gunter and William H. Geppert of this city.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	Double	Pass	3 ♦
4 ♠	Double	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣ West exercised rare foresight at trick two of today's hand to save himself from the clutches of a projected end play. The auction was conducted vigorously. When West overcame his surprise at hearing his right hand opponent open with a demand bid, he doubled for take-out. North passed and East dutifully responded with three diamonds. South elected to gamble out four spades inasmuch as a diamond lead would surely give him a 10th trick. West doubled again and the bidding subsided.

West opened the king of clubs which held as declarer followed with the jack. A routine continuation would have resulted disastrously for the defense, as will appear in a moment.

West had little hope that the second club would live and could see only three sure tricks. If the contract were to be defeated the king of diamonds would have to score. In view of South's strong opening bid, West was reluctant to play his partner for a high diamond honor and decided, therefore, to protect himself against having to lead a diamond in the later play and got out with a heart. Declarer won with the queen and cashed the ace and king. West was now thrown in with the queen of trumps and, after he cashed the ace for the "book" trick, he led the high club. Declarer was compelled to ruff and had no resort other than the diamond finesse, which failed.

Note how differently the play develops if West chooses to lead another club at trick two. Declarer ruffs and cashes the high hearts, stripping the West hand of that suit. West is now thrown in with the queen of trumps but, after taking the ace, he must either lead into South's diamond tenace or play a club which declarer ruffs in dummy as he sheds the queen of diamonds from his hand.

County Board Will Decide Health Issue

A decision will be made at the Thursday meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners on a motion by Commissioner John T. Mason in connection with the dispute concerning the county health officer and employes in the health agency.

Commissioner Mason yesterday moved that Dr. Perry Prather, director of the State Department, transfer Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, to some other county or position with the state agency.

Commissioner William A. Wilson asked for several days to make a further check into the matter and said he would then act on Commissioner Mason's motion.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that he did not attend a meeting Monday at the Court House which had been called to hear the views of Health Department workers but he would support the action taken by Mason and Wilson. He has expressed his views concerning the squabble in the health unit, Rowan said, and he indicated he is in favor of the transfer. Rowan has made a personal investigation of the situation in the past few weeks.

Leslie J. Clark attorney to the board, suggested that a conference be arranged with Dr. Prather, Dr. van Strien and the board and at that time a formal request for such a transfer could be made. The board members said they did not feel it would be necessary to hold such a conference.

Deputy's Car Is Stolen And Wrecked

An automobile thief Monday stole the private car of a deputy sheriff and then wrecked the vehicle yesterday in South End.

City Police, who checked a hit-and-run accident on Glenwood Street, said their investigation revealed the car involved was owned by William E. (Scotty) Orr, a deputy sheriff of Allegany County.

Officer Joseph Nelson said his investigation of a hit-and-run accident about 3:25 a. m. yesterday revealed the car which struck a truck owned by William Goff, 901 Maryland Avenue, had been stolen early Monday from Orr.

Orr Monday left his automobile at 10 East First Street for mechanical repairs. While the vehicle was parked on East First Street, someone took the liberty of driving it off.

At 1:58 a. m. yesterday City Police were advised by Mr. Goff that a car had struck and damaged his truck which was parked on Glenwood Street.

Officer Nelson later located Orr's damaged car on Oak Street. The front headlight had been smashed and a tire and wheel on the front had been ruined. A check of the license plates revealed the car had been reported stolen by Deputy Sheriff Orr.

County Board Favors CS For Tax Group

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners by a two to one vote yesterday passed a motion providing for inclusion of the employes of the county tax collector's office in the county Civil Service system.

After a letter from the Civil Service Board was read recommending the inclusion of the employes (exempting the tax collector) Commissioner John J. Rowan made a motion they be placed under the program. Commissioner John T. Mason seconded the motion.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said he is in favor of county tax collector's office workers being under Civil Service, but he feels that the positions should be awarded after competitive examinations. The workers involved have been on the job about a year.

Commissioner Rowan said the tax collector's office setup is a new one and does not come within the requirements of the Civil Service tests.

Local Federal Court Trial Postponed

The session of U. S. District Court for Maryland scheduled for February in the Allegany County Court House has been postponed until late spring or early summer.

Judge R. Dorsey Watkins, Baltimore, of the Federal Court, said the case of the Monterey Company against the Mayor and City Council and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will be tried here in May or June.

The Monterey firm, the distributing company for several undergarment plants in this section, filed suit in June 1957 as a result of damage to goods stored in the basement of 917 Gay Street.

The firm charged that a storm sewer in the vicinity of the building overflowed during a heavy downpour and flooded the basement.

The building formerly housed the Cumberland Undergarment Company with the shipping department in the bottom floor.

The B&O was party defendant as the storm drain was located on the railroad's property.

Negotiations have been going on for over two years and in September a pre-trial conference was held in Baltimore Federal Court before Judge Watkins when it appeared no settlement could be reached. Another pre-trial conference was held in December.

The city is represented by William R. Carscaden, city attorney, and Benjamin Howard of the Baltimore firm of Miles, Walsh and Stockbridge.

The B&O's attorneys in the long litigation have been J. S. Sweeney of the Baltimore firm of Hershy, Donaldson, Williams and Stanley and William A. Gunter and William H. Geppert of this city.

Clarence Lippel is council for Monterey Company along with Sol Harris of New York City.

Slabtown Youths To Be Sentenced This Morning

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris today will sentence two Slabtown youths who pleaded guilty last month to burglary of two business establishments in the Narrows.

The pair, Albert LeRoy Bridges, 20, and Carl William Helmick, 17, were tried in Allegany County Circuit Court January 28 on the criminal information filed by State's Attorney James S. Getty, after they waived their right to indictment by the grand jury and requested an immediate trial.

After pleading guilty to the burglary charge, the state dismissed a second and third counts which charged grand larceny and receipt of stolen goods.

Authorities said the burglaries resulted in the theft of $117.50 from Diehl's Service Station, and merchandise valued at $28.68 from Kline's Restaurant in the same building.

Slabtown Youths To Be Sentenced This Morning

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris today will sentence two Slabtown youths who pleaded guilty last month to burglary of two business establishments in the Narrows.

The pair, Albert LeRoy Bridges, 20, and Carl William Helmick, 17, were tried in Allegany County Circuit Court January 28 on the criminal information filed by State's Attorney James S. Getty, after they waived their right to indictment by the grand jury and requested an immediate trial.

After pleading guilty to the burglary charge, the state dismissed a second and third counts which charged grand larceny and receipt of stolen goods.

Authorities said the burglaries resulted in the theft of $117.50 from Diehl's Service Station, and merchandise valued at $28.68 from Kline's Restaurant in the same building.

Court Probates Three Wills

Wills of three persons have been probated in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Jerome J. Johnson, who was the 71-year-old owner and manager of the Mexico Farms Airport at the time of his death December 13. The will provided that his entire estate was to go to his wife, if living, but she died last May. As a result the sole beneficiary was Donald F. Johnson, RFD 4, one of his three sons. He qualified as executor under a $500 bond. The will was dated October 24, 1957.

The will of Mrs. Edna Esther Webster, who was a 75-year-old resident of 412 North Centre Street at the time of death January 13, also was probated yesterday.

Mrs. Webster's will provided that her son, Robert C. Webster Sr., would have the opportunity of buying her one-half interest in the stock and equipment of the Webster Wallpaper and Paint Store and the property at 412-414 North Centre Street for which he is to pay the appraised value less $2,247.69, which he spent for improvements to the property.

There was provision for cash bequests to seven grandchildren. All the rest of the estate is to be shared equally by Mrs. Webster's three daughters and one son. They are Mrs. Margaret Perry and Mrs. Viola Perry, both of Vale Summit; Mrs. Ida Golden, Warfordsburg, Pa., and Robert C. Webster Sr. The son also qualified as executor under a $100 bond. The will was dated November 22, 1955.

Also probated was the will of Mrs. Mary Grace Airesman, who was a 64-year-old resident of Ellerslie when she died January 24. She provided cash bequests to three grandchildren and left all the rest of her estate to her son, Charles Dalvin Airesman, Church Street, Ellerslie, who qualified as executor under a $500 bond.

Burglar Gets $25 Cash At Local Store

The owner of Skelley's Appliance Store, 538 Pine Avenue, Monday night advised City Police that someone broke into his store and stole $25 in cash.

Det. Kenneth Morrissey, who is investigating, said police were advised by the Skelley family that members had been out-of-town during the past weekend and when they returned Monday they discovered the entry.

Police said the intruder apparently entered the building by forcing a side window. After entering, the intruder forced a desk drawer where a bank bag was located and contained approximately $25 in cash.

Police observed that approximately $700 in checks were in another bag in the drawer. However, only the cash was taken. Nothing else in the store was reported missing.

Police said the intruder apparently left the building by the front door.

Too Many W.Va. People Ignore Polio Shots

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— State Health Director N. H. Dyer said Monday 58 per cent of West Virginia children under five years of age have had no Salk vaccine shots since the serum was introduced in the state in 1954.

Dyer said 40 per cent of people under 40 have received no shots.

"Such a situation is appalling," Dyer said. "Now that we have Salk vaccine it is almost inconceivable to me that so many persons could allow themselves and their children to take the fearful chance of going without it."

Dyer said 759 cases of polio have been reported in the state since 1955, of which only 105 had three or more injections. He said of 27 deaths from polio during the same period, only two victims had three shots.

He said there is now plenty of vaccine available.

Too Many W.Va. People Ignore Polio Shots

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Health Director N. H. Dyer said Monday 58 per cent of West Virginia children under five years of age have had no Salk vaccine shots since the serum was introduced in the state in 1954.

Dyer said 40 per cent of people under 40 have received no shots.

"Such a situation is appalling," Dyer said. "Now that we have Salk vaccine it is almost inconcervable to me that so many persons could allow themselves and their children to take the fearful chance of going without it."

Dyer said 759 cases of polio have been reported in the state since 1955, of which only 105 had three or more injections. He said of 27 deaths from polio during the same period, only two victims had three shots.

He said there is now plenty of vaccine available.

W.Va. Budget Goes To Joint Committee

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The House of Delegates Tuesday defeated an attempt to remove from a bill a provision to grand immunity this year to 10 counties facing cuts in state aid for schools.

After a one-hour, 45-minute debate in a session running past 7 p.m., the House moved up to passage stage without one word changed Wednesday a bill that would have the effect of forcing county assessors to raise property taxes to 50 per cent of valuation.

The debate on five proposed amendments to this measure — none of which passed — delayed action on the House budget bill.

The $119,023,540 budget proposal finally was passed unanimously, 85-0, at 8:02 p.m. to pave the way for a joint House-Senate conference committee session to work out a compromise.

There was one major change from the bill as reported out of the Finance Committee. Delegates added $200,000 to the Department of Public Assistance for the administration of the program to certify unemployed workers by reducing its allocation for direct handouts of food, clothing and medicine to $1,800,000.

The Senate Wednesday morning will formally reject the House version as the House did on the Senate's $118,163,227 budget bill Tuesday, and a 10-member committee will be appointed to come up with a final spending document for the state for the year beginning July 1.

Finance chairmen of the two chambers said they did not think there were any major budget differences that might hold up agreement. Both expressed confidence that work will be cleaned up in time for adjournment of the Legislature as scheduled Thursday evening.

The legislators can take until Monday, if needed, to enact the budget under a routine extension issued by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood Tuesday.

The proposal to remove from the property assessment - school aid bill a provision to excuse 10 counties facing school aid cuts this year because of failure to bring property taxes up to 50 per cent of valuation was offered by Del. William Parker (D-Marion).

The counties benefiting from the "forgiveness" clause would be Wood, Monongalia, Barbour, Brooke, Hancock, Mason, Berkeley, Fayette, Hampshire and Summers.

The House, in effect, killed then revived a resolution to set up a State Crime Study Commission and sent back to the Senate for approval of minor amendments a bill setting up procedures for certifying unemployed workers for state public works jobs.

Delegates first approved 53-45 a motion by Del. Hobart Booth to table the Crime Commission resolution. After proponents of the measure collected their thoughts, they moved through Del. W. E. Chilton (D-Kanawha) to bring it back for consideration and won on a 78-19 vote. The House rejected Senate amendments and a conference committee will work out differences.

On the certification of unemployed measure, Minority Leader George Seibert (R-Ohio) said the procedure set up by the Democratic majority "makes it easier to get a passport to Russia than to get a job in West Virginia." His 30-minute speech failed to muster much support and the measure passed 84-13.

The Senate passed 30-0 one revenue bill to extend for another year the full gross sales tax rate on carriers, like bus lines and airlines. The bill is worth an estimated $250,000.

meeting in which it reportedly set the stage for a vote on the teacher-pay proposals for later this week, probably Thursday.

Tawes huddled with his legislative leaders later and reportedly told them he would not accept a compromise of the James pay plan.

At the same conference, the governor was said to have indicated a compromise may be in the offing on another major piece of legislation—a proposal to reapportion seats in the Legislature. The proposal scheduled for introduction shortly would give Baltimore County three more seats, Montgomery and Prince Georges two each, and Anne Arundel one. Each now has six.

Under the reported compromise, the Third and Fifth Legislative districts of Baltimore City also would pick one additional seat, giving them seven each.

Girl Scout Development Group Meets

The area development committee of Girl Scouts, working on the formation of a new Girl Scout Council, met at the Girl Scout House last night, approved several subcommittee reports and adopted several policies.

Mrs. Aden Everstine, chairman, reported that a nominating committee which was elected several weeks ago, has met and is working on a slate of candidates to fill the offices, board and major committees for the new area council.

A report from the committee on employed personnel, submitted by F. Allan Weatherholt, chairman, was adopted. The report establishes personnel policies, vacations, sick leave, expenses, grievances and other procedures to be followed by the board, council and executive committee where paid personnel are concerned.

Miss Helen Sellers, regional representative of the Girl Scouts of the United States, reported that a name submitted to national headquarters for the local council has been rejected. The name chosen was Gateway Council, Girl Scouts. There is a Gateway Council in Florida, Miss Sellers said, so the name was rejected.

The committee then adopted the name Shawnee Girl Scout Council, as a first choice, and Algonquin Girl Scout Council as a second choice. These will be submitted to national headquarters for the new area council charter.

There was discussion on the budget question for the new area council and the committee instructed the committee on budget and finance to work out a budget for the fiscal year of not more than $27,000 for the council. This is the maximum amount the development committee feels can be raised in the first year of operation as an area council.

The new council, when chartered, will include Allegany, Garrett, Mineral, Grant, Hampshire, Hardy and part of Bedford counties.

W.Va. Supreme Court Reverses Support Ruling

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A person may be tried in the county where he lives for non-support of an illegitimate child, even though the child and its mother are not residents of that county or of West Virginia.

The Supreme Court Tuesday thus reversed the Mineral County Circuit Court in a case involving a non-support indictment against Paul Raymond Riggleman.

Before certifying the case to the Supreme Court, the lower court in effect upheld Riggleman's contention that it lacked jurisdiction to try him because the child and its mother were Residents of Allegany County, Md., when Riggleman was indicted on a charge of being the child's father.

W.Va. Budget Goes To Joint Committee

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The House of Delegates Tuesday defeated an attempt to remove from a bill a provision to grand immunity this year to 10 counties facing cuts in state aid for schools.

After a one-hour, 45-minute debate in a session running past 7 p.m., the House moved up to passage stage without one word changed Wednesday a bill that would have the effect of forcing county assessors to raise property taxes to 50 per cent of valuation.

The debate on five proposed amendments to this measure — none of which passed — delayed action on the House budget bill.

The $119,023,540 budget proposal finally was passed unanimously, 85-0, at 8:02 p.m. to pave the way for a joint House-Senate conference committee session to work out a compromise.

There was one major change from the bill as reported out of the Finance Committee. Delegates added $200,000 to the Department of Public Assistance for the administration of the program to certify unemployed workers by reducing its allocation for direct handouts of food, clothing and medicine to $1,800,000.

The Senate Wednesday morning will formally reject the House version as the House did on the Senate's $118,163,227 budget bill Tuesday, and a 10-member committee will be appointed to come up with a final spending document for the state for the year beginning July 1.

Finance chairmen of the two chambers said they did not think there were any major budget differences that might hold up agreement. Both expressed confidence that work will be cleaned up in time for adjournment of the Legislature as scheduled Thursday evening.

The legislators can take until Monday, if needed, to enact the budget under a routine extension issued by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood Tuesday.

The proposal to remove from the property assessment - school aid bill a provision to excuse 10 counties facing school aid cuts this year because of failure to bring property taxes up to 50 per cent of valuation was offered by Del. William Parker (D-Marion).

The counties benefiting from the "forgiveness" clause would be Wood, Monongalia, Barbour, Brooke, Hancock, Mason, Berkeley, Fayette, Hampshire and Summers.

The House, in effect, killed then revived a resolution to set up a State Crime Study Commission and sent back to the Senate for approval of minor amendments a bill setting up procedures for certifying unemployed workers for state public works jobs.

Delegates first approved 53-45 a motion by Del. Hobart Booth to table the Crime Commission resolution. After proponents of the measure collected their thoughts, they moved through Del. W. E. Chilton (D-Kanawha) to bring it back for consideration and won on a 78-19 vote. The House rejected Senate amendments and a conference committee will work out differences.

On the certification of unemployed measure, Minority Leader George Seibert (R-Ohio) said the procedure set up by the Democratic majority "makes it easier to get a passport to Russia than to get a job in West Virginia." His 30-minute speech failed to muster much support and the measure passed 84-13.

The Senate passed 30-0 one revenue bill to extend for another year the full gross sales tax rate on carriers, like bus lines and airlines. The bill is worth an estimated $250,000.

meeting in which it reportedly set the stage for a vote on the teacher-pay proposals for later this week, probably Thursday.

Tawes huddled with his legislative leaders later and reportedly told them he would not accept a compromise of the James pay plan.

At the same conference, the governor was said to have indicated a compromise may be in the offing on another major piece of legislation—a proposal to reapportion seats in the Legislature. The proposal scheduled for introduction shortly would give Baltimore County three more seats, Montgomery and Prince Georges two each, and Anne Arundel one. Each now has six.

Under the reported compromise, the Third and Fifth Legislative districts of Baltimore City also would pick one additional seat, giving them seven each.

Girl Scout Development Group Meets

The area development committee of Girl Scouts, working on the formation of a new Girl Scout Council, met at the Girl Scout House last night, approved several subcommittee reports and adopted several policies.

Mrs. Aden Everstine, chairman, reported that a nominating committee which was elected several weeks ago, has met and is working on a slate of candidates to fill the offices, board and major committees for the new area council.

A report from the committee on employed personnel, submitted by F. Allan Weatherholt, chairman, was adopted. The report establishes personnel policies, vacations, sick leave, expenses, grievances and other procedures to be followed by the board, council and executive committee where paid personnel are concerned.

Miss Helen Sellers, regional representative of the Girl Scouts of the United States, reported that a name submitted to national headquarters for the local council has been rejected. The name chosen was Gateway Council, Girl Scouts. There is a Gateway Council in Florida, Miss Sellers said, so the name was rejected.

The committee then adopted the name Shawnee Girl Scout Council, as a first choice, and Algonquin Girl Scout Council as a second choice. These will be submitted to national headquarters for the new area council charter.

There was discussion on the budget question for the new area council and the committee instructed the committee on budget and finance to work out a budget for the fiscal year of not more than $27,000 for the council. This is the maximum amount the development committee feels can be raised in the first year of operation as an area council.

The new council, when chartered, will include Allegany, Garrett, Mineral, Grant, Hampshire, Hardy and part of Bedford counties.

W.Va. Supreme Court Reverses Support Ruling

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A person may be tried in the county where he lives for non-support of an illegitimate child, even though the child and its mother are not residents of that county or of West Virginia.

The Supreme Court Tuesday thus reversed the Mineral County Circuit Court in a case involving a non-support indictment against Paul Raymond Riggleman.

Before certifying the case to the Supreme Court, the lower court in effect upheld Riggleman's contention that it lacked jurisdiction to try him because the child and its mother were Residents of Allegany County, Md., when Riggleman was indicted on a charge of being the child's father.

Grass Fire Extinguished

Race Relations Sunday: Dilemma

The annual observance of Race Relations Sunday on February 14 by the major Protestant denominations will be marked in a few cases by interracial meetings and church services and by exchanges of pastors between white and Negro churches. Nothing is quite so certain, however, as that the old patterns of racial separatism in the sphere of religion will be back in force 24 hours later.

Clergymen and their flocks are only too aware of this moral dilemma rising out of the conflict between Christian principle and the practice of segregation. Assigning the causes is not easy. It is true that white congregations often have discouraged acceptance of dark-skinned communicants, but many Negroes are not disposed to seek racial integration in religious worship, finding satisfaction in belonging to a racially exclusive church led by men who share their problems.

Criticism of Race Relations Sunday was voiced recently by Richard Williams, Canon of Washington National Cathedral, in a letter to the editor of the Washington Post. Wrote Williams:

"It does seem that the question might well be raised as to whether in this country a Sabbath designated as Race Relations Sunday is not in itself patronizing and that the church assumes an air of being a patron to the Negro, at the same time implying a kind of presumption that we are superior and that the Negro should in reality be treated with due condescension . . . . Somehow the 'noble' gesture smacks of being motivated in the main by nothing more than 'middle class etiquette'."

Certainly it can be argued that the churches may not have done very well with their own segregation problems. But at the same time, as the Christian Century has commented, they have "kept consciences stirred and uneasy." The latter effect may be sufficient justification for such observances as Race Relations Sunday.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What's Wrong With America

Norman Cousins, editor of the "Saturday Review," ran into a situation which is not altogether unusual in the peculiarities of television. He was asked by Kenneth Tynan to participate on a program about the United States to be broadcast in England. Kenneth Tynan is a Britisher who acts as a dramatic critic for "The New Yorker," a weekly magazine.

Cousins spoke into tape at considerable length about the United States. He assumed that what he said would be broadcast in Great Britain. He discovered that he was one of a multitude of spokesmen, including Alger Hiss, Dalton Trumbo, Robert M. Hutchins and about 20 other American patriots!

The program was released by Associated Television which is one of the British commercial television companies. Apparently Tynan was told to get Beatniks, non-conformists and to have a contentious, critical and unusual program. According to "Newsweek," which reported these doings, Tynan explained:

"We simply introduced these people without taking sides. Our job was to provide them with a shop-window."

But why provide these particular Americans with a shopwindow in England? Why this selection? I could have provided him with a better lot, including Gamble Benedict, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, Frank Costello, Jimmy Hoffa. I quote from "Newsweek" and ask you if this is any kind of America you know:

"For example, poet Philip Lamantia stated the case for his own dope addiction; American Communist Arnold Johnson railed against 'class distinction' in America; Norman Mailer criticized our society as 'oppressive'; (Jules) Feiffer talked of 'label-happy' U.S. thinking. 'I said if we were faced with another Hitler today,' Feiffer recalled last week, 'we'd probably just explain him away as coming from a bad home.'"

Norman Cousins, who is a serious-minded Liberal and goes in for all kinds of international good-will, sent the following cablegram to the broadcasters in London expressing his anger:

"News reports your telecast about United States in which I participated indicate it was put together in the context of what's wrong with America. If such was actually the case, I vigorously protest misrepresentations made to me at time I did recording. I never agreed to appear on any program carrying any such designation or character. Nor was it made clear that my recording would be combined with those of others on single program. I now request right to organize a ninety-minute program on subject what's right with America also featuring twenty prominent Americans, you to pay all expenses up to cost of previous program."

One must watch tape very carefully. It is now used even for newspaper interviews, reporters no longer depending upon memory and atmosphere. The tape can be cut at any point. It can be pasted together. Other persons' words can be interpolated. The final product may be nothing at all like what was said.

In more primitive days of radio and television, trickiness was very difficult. It was when tape came into the business that much that you hear is a transcription, a previously-taken, previously-rehearsed performance. Sometimes, this is a great improvement on the live show because it gives the director an opportunity to cut his copy to size and taste, to use the best of the material, etc. Sometimes, it is used to perpetrate a fraud on the public.

Most of the advertisements that you see time after time, repeated ad nauseam, sung to jingles in horrible discords to attract increasing attention, are usually done in advance and are pushed into spots. They spoil the show. The general rule is that commercial time should not be more than three minutes in 15. Whenever it is more than that the viewer is being abused.

However, our public has become so accustomed to the combined comedian-pitchman on television, that it often accepts any abuse. The pitchman used to be a separate person altogether, but now not only comedians but even cowboys end a show by doing a job for the sponsor. The dead rise to plug a cigaret; the out-of-breath hero placidly plugs an automobile. Do you really care what paste an actor uses on his hair? Or how his toupee stays stuck on? Does it really make any difference?

It is interesting that Norman Cousins has only just discovered the things that can happen with tape. It goes on all the time.

Payola To Disc Jockeys Compared With Gifts To High U. S. Officials

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Three incidents occurred in different parts of the country recently, all bearing on the subject of what has been dubbed "payola."

In Chicago, it was learned that veteran disc jockey Al Benson received $855 a month from record companies which wanted their music played over the air. He denied this was payola. "I won't hide behind the Fifth Amendment," he said. "What I am doing is perfectly legitimate."

In Washington, charming Mamie Eisenhower attending a luncheon given by Cabinet wives, wore two beautiful clips of jewels given her by the Brazilian government with earrings and bracelet to match. They were given to me when Ike was Chief of Staff and we visited Latin America," she explained quite frankly.

In Hyde Park, a visitor going through the Roosevelt Library, which now belongs to the U. S. government, noted an aquamarine given Mrs. Roosevelt by President Vargas of Brazil which she in turn had given the U. S. government.

Nobody really believes that the beautiful Brazilian jewels given Mrs. Eisenhower influenced American policy toward Brazil; nor that the heavy gold mesh bag which Emperor Haile Selassie gave her more recently influenced U. S. policy toward Ethiopia; nor that the very expensive necklace presented her by King Saud of Saudi Arabia has swayed policy toward his country.

Nevertheless, when King Saud gave expensive jewelry to Mrs. Eugene Black, wife of the head of the World Bank, Mr. Black had it appraised, found that it was worth around $12,000, and politely notified the Saudi Arabian Ambassador that Mrs. Black could not accept it.

Payola And Gifts

And with the question of gifts —or payola—now under the spotlight, it's only fair to examine gifts given to those in very high places. This is on reason why the Interstate Commerce Commission has just issued a firm directive to all members that they must accept no favors on penalty of being fired.

The precedent set by the Constitution of the United States on the question of payola is, of course, quite clear. It states that no government official can "accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

The founding fathers considered this so important that they put it in the very first article of the Constiution. And in the Teddy Roosevelt Administration it was followed so carefully that Attorney General Henry M. Hoyt ruled that not even photographs could be accepted by naval officers from Prince Henry of Prussia, though he was not a ruling prince.

And during Franklin Roosevelt's Administration, I remember Missy Lehand telling me how she sent stamp collections received from foreign governments over to the State Department immediately, before FDR could see them; otherwise he might have latched on to them. FDR loved stamps.

In recent years, high officials have taken a much more lackadaisical view of the Constitution, just as disc jockeys have taken a lackadaisical veiw of payola. John Foster Dulles admitted quite frankly that he had accepted a gold watch, an embroidered robe, and a suitcase from King Saud.

The Nixons' Gifts

The Nixons also received a museum-piece rug from the Shah of Iran, a priceless Buddha head from the King of Afghanistan, a teakwood chest inlaid with mother-of-pearl from Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, and three crateloads of gifts on the Vice President's last trip to Latin America, including a silverware set valued at $15,000.

On the other hand, Victor Purse, a State Department protocol officer was demoted when his wife accepted an Oldsmobile from King Saud. Purse was not in a position to influence American foreign policy, as are the Vice President and the Secretary of State, yet he was publicly punished.

Gifts from foreign governments are clearly against the law, even if largely winked at of late.

However, the law does not specifically cover domestic gifts, and every President receives a wide assortment of tokens ranging from turkeys and cheeses to dogs and hunting rifles. Many of these are a nuisance and are turned over to appropriate agencies of government, including the zoo.

However, gifts to President Eisenhower have come in unprecedented number and value, so that the tol of more practical gifts is now estimated at around $300,000. They include an electric kitchen for his Gettysburg farm, 48 Norway spruce, a greenhouse, a 60-foot wall and 2,000 tulip and hyacinth bulbs, all sorts of valuable farm machinery, a $3,000 putting green, an electric golf cart, a $4,000 tractor, all sorts of antique furniture, and approximately 25 purebred black Angus, valued at over $1,000 each.

Some of the donors, especially Texas oilmen who have been most generous, have been in a position to want important favors from the White House—such as tidelands oil, which they got. The President, commenting on these gifts, had this to say at a press conference: "I think the problem should be decided according to good taste. Of course, all within the law, but of good taste and its implications and its interpretations by others."

Administration Has Lost Grip On Realities

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

"I am of the belief that if you could have now a ban on all (nuclear tests) testing that everybody could have confidence in, it would be a very, very fine thing to stop this, for this very reason, if no other:

"It is a very expensive business, to begin with. The very first bomb we produced I think cost America $2,000,000,000 or more before we ever, ever had the very first one. And since that time I don't believe that our — although you'd have to look this up — but I think our appropriations have never been below $2,000,000,000 a year. So it is an expensive business."

These historic words, uttered by Dwight D. Eisenhower last week, afford a clearer glimpse of the inner workings of the President's mind than has ever before been allowed.

There are, after all, many different kinds of excellent reasons for seeking an effective ban on nuclear tests. There are world political reasons, strategic reasons, moral and biological reasons. But the President spontaneously, unhesitatingly chose a reason never before suggested in public. A test ban, he indicated, would permit him to cut the budget of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Surely this singular choice of reasons for a high policy decision of truly immeasurable import, reveals a mind gripped by one idea to the point of total obsession. Surely it shows a man driven by a single purpose almost to the point of mania.

The President's unnoticed remarks at his press conference can properly be called historic, in turn, because they explain so much that is otherwise inexplicable. If you think about a nuclear test ban primarily in terms of possible budget cuts, how do you think about a missile gap? You think about it, the answer seems to be, primarily in terms of the threat to the budget, and hardly at all in terms of the threat to the United States.

If you are President, moreover, and these are your passionately enforced priorities, you are not alone in thinking in this peculiar way. Your viewpoint is reflected downwards, through echelon after echelon, from the Cabinet level, to the level of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and as far as the lowest level of the government's "Indians." "Will it cost too much to do this?" is the first question everyone asks. Only as an afterthought does anyone inquire: "Will it be dangerous not to do this?"

In this administration, uniformity of viewpoint is virtually enforced. Independent-minded persons who do not take their viewpoint, ready-made, from the White House have always been condemned to non-team-players. Soon or late, they have always met the fate of Gen. Gavin, Gen. Ridgeway, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Wholly honorable and intelligent men may also lack the self-confidence to pit their judgment against the President's or to argue military facts with him. Here, no doubt, is the explanation of officials like Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates; although it is not the explanation of some of the Eisenhower-era chiefs of staff, who have time-served at the Pentagon in happy preparation for richer careers as lobbyists.

To the ordinary American, these may seem hard things to say. But they are necessary things to say; and they are literally true too. Anyone can see their truth, who weighs the astonishing implications of the Eisenhower remarks above-quoted. In blunt words, the struggle to keep a grip on the budget has all but caused the Administration to lose its grip on the hard realities of the ugly world we live in.

To be sure, there are other ways to attain the necessary purpose of a balanced budget. Taxes can be raised. Non-defense outlays, which have grown luxuriously in recent years, can be cut again despite their high political voltage. But these other ways are ruled out by the President himself. Thus the whole struggle to keep a grip on the budget is transformed into a struggle to prune the defense budget. Under this relentless pressure, the loss of grip on non-budgetary defense realities inevitably occurs.

Maybe what amounts to an attempt to psychoanalyze the vast, amorphous organism of the American government will seem pretentious and unjustifiable. But the political reporter's task is to make the government comprehensible. And at present, the American government is simply and totally incomprehensible, unless the first comprehend the obsessive power of the viewpoint the President revealed in his reason for a nuclear test ban.

INTEREST IN SPORTS—Some of the nation's sports writers are beginning to wonder whether Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes he has found a new source of voting strength among sports fans.

During the past few months, Nixon has made more appearances at sports events than he has at political rallies, business meetings or dedication ceremonies. Some sports writers are beginning to feel they are on more intimate terms with the number one choice for the GOP Presidential nomination than are the political writers who are supposed to be covering him.

Nixon's first public appearance after the announced withdrawal of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller from the GOP Presidential race was at the Colts-Giants football game in Baltimore. He not only paid a visit to the press box, but visited the dressing rooms of both the winners and the losers.

A few days later he showed up at the Rose Bowl game on the West Coast, and again made himself available to the sports-writers. Just before this he had presided over a sports award dinner in New York.

He has also dedicated sports stadiums in Los Angeles and elsewhere, made trophy presentations at horse races, and has become a frequent thrower-out of balls at baseball games.

All of this tends to make his name appear frequently on the nation's sports pages, certainly not a political liability. And it also tends to make him appear as one of the boys, no mean asset in a political year.

We were in the little Spanish courtyard and the old Guatemalan cook was saying to the priest: "I know what the Americano wants for breakfast. He likes corna flakkas." She came out of the kitchen into the sunshine and clicked across the tiles toward the little fountain and the breakfast table, prattling in Spanish to the priest.

I said to the priest: "What do you do here at night?" He was a big man from Brooklyn, Father Dan Lenihan, a man with a busted nose. He looked like a long-ago loser. He had boxed some and his walk was a bit pigeoned, but baseball was his real love. His true love.

He was down in Guatemala City to save souls. I was there for the revolution. We were both doing well. He liked the poor Indians and the very correct Spanish clerks who came to his iglesia to Mass, but he looked Brooklyn and, when he walked the white-sunned streets he resembled a reject from St. Nick's Arena.

"There is nothing," he said. "No night life. Sometimes, I go to the American Club at night."

The old cook brought the corna flakkas and poured milk on it and grinned at me through the spaces in her teeth. "What can one do at the American Club?" I said. The morning sun cut across the green ferns around the base of the fountain and made it look like lace.

"A good steak," he said. "A very good steak and some conversation." I shrugged. "You call that fun?" He looked at me. "What do you call fun?"

"Oh," I said, "stop being a priest for a moment. I can't go to bed after dinner. I have to unwind." He said the American Club had four bowling alleys. I came to life. "I used to bowl a lot," I said. "In my best year, I averaged 165."

"How long ago is that." Father Lenihan said. He wasn't really interested. He was making conversation. "Fifteen years ago," I said. "I haven't bowled since." He said that he bowled regularly, because he liked to keep in shape. He was a good bowler, a man with a working hook and a lot of power. I told him he would have to put up with a little man who needed a lot of practice.

He didn't mind. That night, we went to the club and had the steaks. I had to fight him for the check, although I knew he didn't have enough money for bus fare downtown. He found a boy who was willing to set pins on the old-fashioned alleys, and he found the switches and turned on the lights.

I had the wrong shoes and my pants were turned up at the cuffs and I took a long look at the head pin and winged the ball down and it crossed the alley and rode the gutter like a black pea on a nervous knife. Father Dan counselled me to take it easy. He gave me a few tips.

In the first game, he got 133. I got 138. I apologized. He said it was nothing. As the second game started, he seemed a little grim. He stopped giving tips on how to hold the ball and how to stand. He got 164. I got 169.

It was ridiculous, I said. He agreed with me. "How long is it since you bowled again?" he said. I said fifteen years. He said fifteen years is a long time. I said I was bowling over my head. He nodded. "Away over," he said.

What made it worse is that I'm left-handed. By the time the third game started, Father wasn't talking to the pin boy. We rolled almost in silence, except for polite sarcasms. He got 191. I got 198. He smiled briefly. "You improve as you go along," he said. Yes, I said. You wouldn't be holding back on me? he said.

It never entered my mind, I said. There was the hollow crashing foam of tumbling wood as the ball hit the pocket and, in the fourth game, we got mark after mark. The priest was throwing them all the way from the heels. So was I. We were both lucky. We got a lot of undeserved wood. He was ahead of me in the ninth frame and I would have to strike out to catch him. It was our last game. He got 231. I got 235.

On the way back to the rectory, he said that the stars are bigger in Guatemala. I hadn't noticed, I said. I hoped, I said, that he believed the story about the fifteen years. Oh sure, he said too loudly for the night air. "I swallowed every word of it."

He was my host and my friend. I like this man, but I knew that the beating rankled in his heart. Shortly afterward, I heard that he asked to be transferred to a Mission in Africa. When I think of him out there, I sometimes wonder, but then I say to myself: "Oh no. It couldn't be that."...

Kidney Stone May Not Announce Its Presence

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Anyone can have a kidney stone but men between 20 and 50 years of age are the most frequent victims. The majority are healthy otherwise; the sudden development of colic surprises them. Pain is so severe they toss and squirm, begging for relief as soon as possible. By the time the physician arrives, many are prostrated or in mild shock.

A stone may be present in a kidney for months without causing the slightest distress. I have seen stones as large as walnuts that gave no warning of their presence until mild backache developed. Smaller stones are the real troublemakers when they decide to escape from the kidney and start down the narrow tube (ureter) that leads to the bladder. All goes well until they get stuck, obstructing the flow of urine.

When this takes place the sufferer needs a narcotic such as Demerol or morphine and atropine. Drugs that relieve spasm also help because the stone scratches the inner lining of the ureter, causing this tube to tighten up. A little exercise after pain is eased may encourage the stone to move downward toward the bladder. Ample fluids also help flush out the rock.

Special X-ray studies offer the best way to keep tab on where the stone is located and the progress it is making on its trip to the bladder. Small stones usually pass within a few hours to several days. During this time, distress may return several times until the stone reaches the outside. Surgery is needed when the stone is too large to pass through the opening.

Most of the research in this field has concentrated on a method to dissolve existing stones or prevent recurrences. Drugs vary from aspirin to products that change the reaction of the urine. But their value is questionable. The older plans of eliminating infections along the urinary tract and avoiding certain foods remain our best standbys to date in preventing new stones from forming.

GLAUCOMA

Y. R. writes: Is a nervous, high-strung person more likely to get glaucoma than a phlegmatic man or woman?

REPLY

This is a moot question. Glaucoma is caused by an increase in pressure within the eyeball. If the tension within the eyeball is influenced by the same factors as is the tension within the arteries, the answer is yes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on glaucoma.

CHOREA

Mrs. T. writes: My young daughter developed chorea after she had the mumps. How long does it take to clear up this nervous condition?

REPLY

Chorea, or rheumatic fever of the brain, varies in severity and runs a course varying from three weeks to six months. Certain symptoms may linger or recur when the child is over-fatigued, ill, or over-excited.

BOWED BONES

F. M. H. writes: Can an adult who previously had straight legs become bow-legged from arthritis?

REPLY

No, but bowlegs later in life may stem from Paget's disease of the bones of the lower extremities.

CYSTITIS AFTER SURGERY

W. R. writes: Does bladder infection often follow an abdominal operation?

REPLY

Not often but it does occur, especially when the individual has been catheterized.

CLEANLINESS

R. M. writes: Is it true that a daily bath affects the health?

REPLY

Yes — for the better. Cleanliness is basic hygienic rule.

SORE HEEL

E. D. writes: Could pain in back of the heel be due to arthritis?

REPLY

Yes, but there are other more common causes. Sometimes pain in this area stems from gout.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

A wealthy lady, very avant garde, had her portrait painted by an abstractionist. "It's the best thing I've ever done," he said modestly when he delivered the finished portrait, "although I'm not too pleased with the way your nose turned out." "Why don't you change it?" asked the lady. "Frankly," admitted the abstractionist, "I can't find it."

"Oh, daddy," she wailed, "aren't you an actor any more?"

Race Relations Sunday: Dilemma

The annual observance of Race Relations Sunday on February 14 by the major Protestant denominations will be marked in a few cases by interracial meetings and church services and by exchanges of pastors between white and Negro churches. Nothing is quite so certain, however, as that the old patterns of racial separatism in the sphere of religion will be back in force 24 hours later.

Clergymen and their flocks are only too aware of this moral dilemma rising out of the conflict between Christian principle and the practice of segregation. Assigning the causes is not easy. It is true that white congregations often have discouraged acceptance of dark-skinned communicants, but many Negroes are not disposed to seek racial integration in religious worship, finding satisfaction in belonging to a racially exclusive church led by men who share their problems.

Criticism of Race Relations Sunday was voiced recently by Richard Williams, Canon of Washington National Cathedral, in a letter to the editor of the Washington Post. Wrote Williams:

"It does seem that the question might well be raised as to whether in this country a Sabbath designated as Race Relations Sunday is not in itself patronizing and that the church assumes an air of being a patron to the Negro, at the same time implying a kind of presumption that we are superior and that the Negro should in reality be treated with due condescension . . . . Somehow the 'noble' gesture smacks of being motivated in the main by nothing more than 'middle class etiquette'."

Certainly it can be argued that the churches may not have done very well with their own segregation problems. But at the same time, as the Christian Century has commented, they have "kept consciences stirred and uneasy." The latter effect may be sufficient justification for such observances as Race Relations Sunday.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What's Wrong With America

Norman Cousins, editor of the "Saturday Review," ran into a situation which is not altogether unusual in the peculiarities of television. He was asked by Kenneth Tynan to participate on a program about the United States to be broadcast in England. Kenneth Tynan is a Britisher who acts as a dramatic critic for "The New Yorker," a weekly magazine.

Cousins spoke into tape at considerable length about the United States. He assumed that what he said would be broadcast in Great Britain. He discovered that he was one of a multitude of spokesmen, including Alger Hiss, Dalton Trumbo, Robert M. Hutchins and about 20 other American patriots!

The program was released by Associated Television which is one of the British commercial television companies. Apparently Tynan was told to get Beatniks, non-conformists and to have a contentious, critical and unusual program. According to "Newsweek," which reported these doings, Tynan explained:

"We simply introduced these people without taking sides. Our job was to provide them with a shop-window."

But why provide these particular Americans with a shopwindow in England? Why this selection? I could have provided him with a better lot, including Gamble Benedict, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, Frank Costello, Jimmy Hoffa. I quote from "Newsweek" and ask you if this is any kind of America you know:

"For example, poet Philip Lamantia stated the case for his own dope addiction; American Communist Arnold Johnson railed against 'class distinction' in America; Norman Mailer criticized our society as 'oppressive'; (Jules) Feiffer talked of 'label-happy' U.S. thinking. 'I said if we were faced with another Hitler today,' Feiffer recalled last week, 'we'd probably just explain him away as coming from a bad home.'"

Norman Cousins, who is a serious-minded Liberal and goes in for all kinds of international good-will, sent the following cablegram to the broadcasters in London expressing his anger:

"News reports your telecast about United States in which I participated indicate it was put together in the context of what's wrong with America. If such was actually the case, I vigorously protest misrepresentations made to me at time I did recording. I never agreed to appear on any program carrying any such designation or character. Nor was it made clear that my recording would be combined with those of others on single program. I now request right to organize a ninety-minute program on subject what's right with America also featuring twenty prominent Americans, you to pay all expenses up to cost of previous program."

One must watch tape very carefully. It is now used even for newspaper interviews, reporters no longer depending upon memory and atmosphere. The tape can be cut at any point. It can be pasted together. Other persons' words can be interpolated. The final product may be nothing at all like what was said.

In more primitive days of radio and television, trickiness was very difficult. It was when tape came into the business that much that you hear is a transcription, a previously-taken, previously-rehearsed performance. Sometimes, this is a great improvement on the live show because it gives the director an opportunity to cut his copy to size and taste, to use the best of the material, etc. Sometimes, it is used to perpetrate a fraud on the public.

Most of the advertisements that you see time after time, repeated ad nauseam, sung to jingles in horrible discords to attract increasing attention, are usually done in advance and are pushed into spots. They spoil the show. The general rule is that commercial time should not be more than three minutes in 15. Whenever it is more than that the viewer is being abused.

However, our public has become so accustomed to the combined comedian-pitchman on television, that it often accepts any abuse. The pitchman used to be a separate person altogether, but now not only comedians but even cowboys end a show by doing a job for the sponsor. The dead rise to plug a cigaret; the out-of-breath hero placidly plugs an automobile. Do you really care what paste an actor uses on his hair? Or how his toupee stays stuck on? Does it really make any difference?

It is interesting that Norman Cousins has only just discovered the things that can happen with tape. It goes on all the time.

Payola To Disc Jockeys Compared With Gifts To High U. S. Officials

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Three incidents occurred in different parts of the country recently, all bearing on the subject of what has been dubbed "payola."

In Chicago, it was learned that veteran disc jockey Al Benson received $855 a month from record companies which wanted their music played over the air. He denied this was payola. "I won't hide behind the Fifth Amendment," he said. "What I am doing is perfectly legitimate."

In Washington, charming Mamie Eisenhower attending a luncheon given by Cabinet wives, wore two beautiful clips of jewels given her by the Brazilian government with earrings and bracelet to match. They were given to me when Ike was Chief of Staff and we visited Latin America," she explained quite frankly.

In Hyde Park, a visitor going through the Roosevelt Library, which now belongs to the U. S. government, noted an aquamarine given Mrs. Roosevelt by President Vargas of Brazil which she in turn had given the U. S. government.

Nobody really believes that the beautiful Brazilian jewels given Mrs. Eisenhower influenced American policy toward Brazil; nor that the heavy gold mesh bag which Emperor Haile Selassie gave her more recently influenced U. S. policy toward Ethiopia; nor that the very expensive necklace presented her by King Saud of Saudi Arabia has swayed policy toward his country.

Nevertheless, when King Saud gave expensive jewelry to Mrs. Eugene Black, wife of the head of the World Bank, Mr. Black had it appraised, found that it was worth around $12,000, and politely notified the Saudi Arabian Ambassador that Mrs. Black could not accept it.

Payola And Gifts

And with the question of gifts —or payola—now under the spotlight, it's only fair to examine gifts given to those in very high places. This is on reason why the Interstate Commerce Commission has just issued a firm directive to all members that they must accept no favors on penalty of being fired.

The precedent set by the Constitution of the United States on the question of payola is, of course, quite clear. It states that no government official can "accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

The founding fathers considered this so important that they put it in the very first article of the Constiution. And in the Teddy Roosevelt Administration it was followed so carefully that Attorney General Henry M. Hoyt ruled that not even photographs could be accepted by naval officers from Prince Henry of Prussia, though he was not a ruling prince.

And during Franklin Roosevelt's Administration, I remember Missy Lehand telling me how she sent stamp collections received from foreign governments over to the State Department immediately, before FDR could see them; otherwise he might have latched on to them. FDR loved stamps.

In recent years, high officials have taken a much more lackadaisical view of the Constitution, just as disc jockeys have taken a lackadaisical veiw of payola. John Foster Dulles admitted quite frankly that he had accepted a gold watch, an embroidered robe, and a suitcase from King Saud.

The Nixons' Gifts

The Nixons also received a museum-piece rug from the Shah of Iran, a priceless Buddha head from the King of Afghanistan, a teakwood chest inlaid with mother-of-pearl from Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, and three crateloads of gifts on the Vice President's last trip to Latin America, including a silverware set valued at $15,000.

On the other hand, Victor Purse, a State Department protocol officer was demoted when his wife accepted an Oldsmobile from King Saud. Purse was not in a position to influence American foreign policy, as are the Vice President and the Secretary of State, yet he was publicly punished.

Gifts from foreign governments are clearly against the law, even if largely winked at of late.

However, the law does not specifically cover domestic gifts, and every President receives a wide assortment of tokens ranging from turkeys and cheeses to dogs and hunting rifles. Many of these are a nuisance and are turned over to appropriate agencies of government, including the zoo.

However, gifts to President Eisenhower have come in unprecedented number and value, so that the tol of more practical gifts is now estimated at around $300,000. They include an electric kitchen for his Gettysburg farm, 48 Norway spruce, a greenhouse, a 60-foot wall and 2,000 tulip and hyacinth bulbs, all sorts of valuable farm machinery, a $3,000 putting green, an electric golf cart, a $4,000 tractor, all sorts of antique furniture, and approximately 25 purebred black Angus, valued at over $1,000 each.

Some of the donors, especially Texas oilmen who have been most generous, have been in a position to want important favors from the White House—such as tidelands oil, which they got. The President, commenting on these gifts, had this to say at a press conference: "I think the problem should be decided according to good taste. Of course, all within the law, but of good taste and its implications and its interpretations by others."

Administration Has Lost Grip On Realities

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

"I am of the belief that if you could have now a ban on all (nuclear tests) testing that everybody could have confidence in, it would be a very, very fine thing to stop this, for this very reason, if no other:

"It is a very expensive business, to begin with. The very first bomb we produced I think cost America $2,000,000,000 or more before we ever, ever had the very first one. And since that time I don't believe that our — although you'd have to look this up — but I think our appropriations have never been below $2,000,000,000 a year. So it is an expensive business."

These historic words, uttered by Dwight D. Eisenhower last week, afford a clearer glimpse of the inner workings of the President's mind than has ever before been allowed.

There are, after all, many different kinds of excellent reasons for seeking an effective ban on nuclear tests. There are world political reasons, strategic reasons, moral and biological reasons. But the President spontaneously, unhesitatingly chose a reason never before suggested in public. A test ban, he indicated, would permit him to cut the budget of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Surely this singular choice of reasons for a high policy decision of truly immeasurable import, reveals a mind gripped by one idea to the point of total obsession. Surely it shows a man driven by a single purpose almost to the point of mania.

The President's unnoticed remarks at his press conference can properly be called historic, in turn, because they explain so much that is otherwise inexplicable. If you think about a nuclear test ban primarily in terms of possible budget cuts, how do you think about a missile gap? You think about it, the answer seems to be, primarily in terms of the threat to the budget, and hardly at all in terms of the threat to the United States.

If you are President, moreover, and these are your passionately enforced priorities, you are not alone in thinking in this peculiar way. Your viewpoint is reflected downwards, through echelon after echelon, from the Cabinet level, to the level of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and as far as the lowest level of the government's "Indians." "Will it cost too much to do this?" is the first question everyone asks. Only as an afterthought does anyone inquire: "Will it be dangerous not to do this?"

In this administration, uniformity of viewpoint is virtually enforced. Independent-minded persons who do not take their viewpoint, ready-made, from the White House have always been condemned to non-team-players. Soon or late, they have always met the fate of Gen. Gavin, Gen. Ridgeway, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Wholly honorable and intelligent men may also lack the self-confidence to pit their judgment against the President's or to argue military facts with him. Here, no doubt, is the explanation of officials like Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates; although it is not the explanation of some of the Eisenhower-era chiefs of staff, who have time-served at the Pentagon in happy preparation for richer careers as lobbyists.

To the ordinary American, these may seem hard things to say. But they are necessary things to say; and they are literally true too. Anyone can see their truth, who weighs the astonishing implications of the Eisenhower remarks above-quoted. In blunt words, the struggle to keep a grip on the budget has all but caused the Administration to lose its grip on the hard realities of the ugly world we live in.

To be sure, there are other ways to attain the necessary purpose of a balanced budget. Taxes can be raised. Non-defense outlays, which have grown luxuriously in recent years, can be cut again despite their high political voltage. But these other ways are ruled out by the President himself. Thus the whole struggle to keep a grip on the budget is transformed into a struggle to prune the defense budget. Under this relentless pressure, the loss of grip on non-budgetary defense realities inevitably occurs.

Maybe what amounts to an attempt to psychoanalyze the vast, amorphous organism of the American government will seem pretentious and unjustifiable. But the political reporter's task is to make the government comprehensible. And at present, the American government is simply and totally incomprehensible, unless the first comprehend the obsessive power of the viewpoint the President revealed in his reason for a nuclear test ban.

INTEREST IN SPORTS—Some of the nation's sports writers are beginning to wonder whether Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes he has found a new source of voting strength among sports fans.

During the past few months, Nixon has made more appearances at sports events than he has at political rallies, business meetings or dedication ceremonies. Some sports writers are beginning to feel they are on more intimate terms with the number one choice for the GOP Presidential nomination than are the political writers who are supposed to be covering him.

Nixon's first public appearance after the announced withdrawal of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller from the GOP Presidential race was at the Colts-Giants football game in Baltimore. He not only paid a visit to the press box, but visited the dressing rooms of both the winners and the losers.

A few days later he showed up at the Rose Bowl game on the West Coast, and again made himself available to the sports-writers. Just before this he had presided over a sports award dinner in New York.

He has also dedicated sports stadiums in Los Angeles and elsewhere, made trophy presentations at horse races, and has become a frequent thrower-out of balls at baseball games.

All of this tends to make his name appear frequently on the nation's sports pages, certainly not a political liability. And it also tends to make him appear as one of the boys, no mean asset in a political year.

Y. R. writes: Is a nervous, high-strung person more likely to get glaucoma than a phlegmatic man or woman?

REPLY

This is a moot question. Glaucoma is caused by an increase in pressure within the eyeball. If the tension within the eyeball is influenced by the same factors as is the tension within the arteries, the answer is yes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on glaucoma.

CHOREA

Mrs. T. writes: My young daughter developed chorea after she had the mumps. How long does it take to clear up this nervous condition?

REPLY

Chorea, or rheumatic fever of the brain, varies in severity and runs a course varying from three weeks to six months. Certain symptoms may linger or recur when the child is over-fatigued, ill, or over-excited.

BOWED BONES

F. M. H. writes: Can an adult who previously had straight legs become bow-legged from arthritis?

REPLY

No, but bowlegs later in life may stem from Paget's disease of the bones of the lower extremities.

CYSTITIS AFTER SURGERY

W. R. writes: Does bladder infection often follow an abdominal operation?

REPLY

Not often but it does occur, especially when the individual has been catheterized.

CLEANLINESS

R. M. writes: Is it true that a daily bath affects the health?

REPLY

Yes — for the better. Cleanliness is basic hygienic rule.

SORE HEEL

E. D. writes: Could pain in back of the heel be due to arthritis?

REPLY

Yes, but there are other more common causes. Sometimes pain in this area stems from gout.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A wealthy lady, very avant garde, had her portrait painted by an abstractionist. "It's the best thing I've ever done," he said modestly when he delivered the finished portrait, "although I'm not too pleased with the way your nose turned out." "Why don't you change it?" asked the lady. "Frankly," admitted the abstractionist, "I can't find it."

A dramatic star lunched at Sardi's with his wife and small daughter one Wednesday, and at a quarter to two arose from the table to go to his matinee.

"Daddy," pouted his daughter, "aren't you going shopping with us?"

"Can't, darling," explained the actor. "I have to go to work."

Church Work Bids Sought

PIEDMONT — Plans received from the architect for the remodeling of a part of the first floor of Trinity Methodist Church are being studied by the building committee. Bids will be asked from several contractors and efforts will be made to start work as soon as possible.

The first job on an overall plan for improvements to be undertaken soon will be the moving of the present first-floor kitchen to permit the extension of the recreation room to the full length of the building. The new kitchen will open into the side of the recreation hall instead of at the rear as it is presently located.

Sliding partitions will be installed to divide the recreation room into several smaller classrooms for the use of the Sunday School Department when needed. These partitions will be pushed back out of the way when not in use. A new stairway in the rear of the building is included in the plans. This will replace a stairway which will be torn out to make room for the new kitchen.

Plans for improvements to the heating system are also being considered and may be presented for bids soon.

Alterations and improvements in the main sanctuary on the second floor are also being considered by the building committee.

Allegany Tops Beall, 39-37, In WMI Overtime Thriller

Field Goal By Pentoney Wins Game

Valley Turns Back Mt. Savage, 65-52; Bruce Wins, 57-56

By TED TROXELL

A pair of WMI League underdogs almost came through with big upsets last night, as Beall lost in overtime to the pace-setting Allegany Campers, 39-37, and winless Fort Hill blew a nine-point halftime lead and was edged out by Bruce, 57-56. The third league encounter found Valley whipping Mt. Savage, 65-52.

The Campers, who beat the Mountaineers by a 38-36 score earlier in the season at Frostburg, moved a step closer to the league title by copping their seventh win, four of which were decided by a total margin of six points.

Bruce and Valley continue to share the runner-up spot in the six-team circuit with 5-2 records, while Beall is in fourth place with a 3-4 log. Last night's loss wiped out the Mountaineers' chances of even a share of the league crown.

Pentoney Wins Game

In the low scoring contest at Campobello, the upset-minded visitors from Frostburg never held the lead. The score was tied twice, 35-all at the end of the regulation game, and again at 37-37 during the extra session, before Jerry Pentoney's field goal with 45 seconds left gave Allegany the victory.

The Campers threatened to make a runaway of the battle midway in the third period when they jumped out to an 11-point lead, 28-17, but the fired-up Beall quint fought back to tie it up and force an overtime period.

Jim Evans and Allen Eisel were the key figures in Beall's surge. The pair accounted for all but one of the Mounties' points in the third period, with Eisel's jump shot with 10 seconds left cutting the difference to 30-26 as the quarter ended.

Metz Ties Score

A foul shot by Evans with 1:15 remaining made it 35-33. The bonus try by Evans missed, but Wayne Metz grabbed the rebound and tossed in a jumper to knot the count.

Beall had a chance to win the game when Wayne Shook fouled Bill McLuckie with only 13 seconds showing on the clock, but the Mountaineer guard's attempt from the 15-foot stripe fell off to the left and was rebounded by Alco's Bob Gaffney. The Campers got one shot before the buzzer, but failed to connect.

Gaffney was fouled after 20 seconds of the overtime heat had elapsed, but failed to convert, and Evans missed a foul try for Beall 20 seconds later. Gaffney shook himself loose for a layup to put Allegany in front with 1:20 to go, but Chester Carter's fall-away jump shot tied it again at the 55-second mark.

Teams Off In Shooting

Neither team shot with any consistency during the course of the game. Beall, playing a more delicate style of ball than its opponents, clicked on 15 of 50 tries from the floor for a .300 percentage, whole Allegany canned 17 of 66, for a .258 mark.

Pentoney led the Campers in scoring with 14 points, and Mervin Pope followed with 11. Evans tossed in 12 points to lead the losers.

The Bruce-Fort Hill battle at Westernport was a nip-and-tuck affair. The score was tied seven times—at two, eight, 13, 41, 43, 45, and 47. A pair of free throws by Bill Wright broke the 47-47 tie and put Bruce on top to stay.

The Sentinels of Fort Hill, who have been losing a lot of "toughies" in the worst season in the school's history, led by nine points, 31-22, at intermission, but were outscored 19-12, in the third quarter, which cut the difference to two points, 43-41.

Both teams racked up 24 field goals, with the margin of victory coming at the charity stripe, where Bruce made nine of 17 to 8-10 for Fort Hill. The Sentinels' Bill Colbert was the only player to foul out.

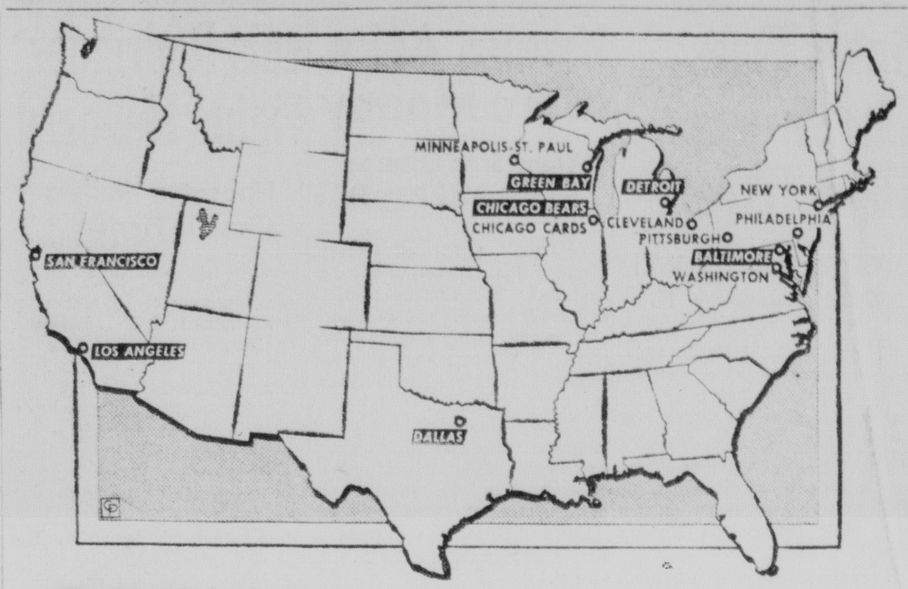
Wright pumped in nine fielders and added four free throws in seven attempts to take scoring honors with 22 points. Colbert and Dave Baldwin tallied 18 and 17, respectively, to spark the Fort Hill aggregation.

Valley's G-men, Jim Getty and Bill Garlitz, who lead the Knights in the scoring column in practically every game, came through again last night in the game at Lonaconing.

Getty Gets 25

Getty rang up 10 field goals and had a perfect 5-5 night at the foul line for 25 points, and Garlitz made eight two-pointers and seven of nine penalty pitches for 23 markers. Leroy Robertson, with 18 points, and Fay Often, with 14, were the scoring leaders for the Indians.

Both clubs enjoyed above-par nights at the foul line, Valley canning 15 of 20 tries, and Mt. Savage hitting on 14 of 18.



HOW PRO LOOP LINES UP — The new alignment in the National Football league, which adds Dallas this year and Minneapolis-St. Paul in 1961, looks like this. Dallas will be part of the Western division (indicated by white on black) this year. When Minneapolis-St. Paul enters next year the eastern division will have its choice of which club it wants.

Cincy Holds First Place In AP Voting

Bradley Runs 2nd, Golden Bears 3rd

By The Associated Press

Oscar Robertson keeps on breaking basketball records and his team, Cincinnati, keeps on winning games. So the nation's sports writers and broadcasters keep on voting for the Bearcats as the No. 1 team even though Bradley and California also have impressive records.

Leaders Unchanged

These three teams, each with 17-1 records, again wound up in the 1-2-3 positions Tuesday in the weekly Associated Press poll, based on results through Saturday.

Cincinnati, with 88 first place votes out of 191 ballots, gathered 1,798 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc. Bradley, Cincinnati's leading Missouri Valley Conference rival, drew 20 first-place votes and 1,606 points. California's 1959 NCAA champions polled 33 firsts and 1,603 points.

Ohio State's Big Ten pacesetters and West Virginia, leader in the Southern Conference, easily held the fourth and fifth spots. Georgia Tech clung to sixth despite a loss to Auburn in one of last week's two games.

Voting for the last four places in the top 10 was so close that some switches were inevitable. Utah State moved up to seventh place with 588 points and Utah dropped to ninth with 546 although each had two impressive victories last week and they boast identical 17-2 season records. Villanova (16-1) was eight.

Miami Is Tenth

Miami (Fla.), which has been knocking at the door for several weeks, finally gained a place in the top 10 with 211 points. Texas A&M dropped to 12th after taking its second defeat of the season.

The top 10 teams, with points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis (first-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

New York's Titans List Exhibitions

New Team To Play At Polo Grounds

NEW YORK (UPI)— The New York Titans of the American Football League Tuesday announced the signing of a lease to play five exhibition games this fall and stated that former professional stars Ace Parker and Harry Todd are under consideration for the Titans' backfield coaching job.

The Polo Grounds lease was signed by Edgar Feely, attorney for the National Exhibition Co. which owns the stadium and by Frank Purcell, attorney for the Titans.

Feely disclosed that plans are under consideration to convert the Polo Grounds into a "modern sports arena" for various types of sports at a cost of possibly $30 million.

Asked whether the Titans could be considered as possible tenants for a proposed stadium in Flushing Meadow, Wismer said his club obviously would be more interested in an existing stadium than in one where a shovel full of dirt has not yet been turned."

Wismer listed the following exhibition games for his team — against the Los Angeles Chargers in the Los Angeles Coliseum, against the Houston club in Baton Rouge, La., against the Dallas Texans in the Texas Christian Stadium, against the Buffalo club in the grand opening of that city's renovated stadium, and against the Boston club at a site yet to be determined.

Scaletta Gets 26 As Explorers Cop 16th Win Of Year

LaSalle High School's Explorers had no trouble in racking up their 16th win of the season last night on the SS. Peter and Paul floor, where they flogged the Bedford High Bisons to the tune of 84-54.

Allegany Tops Beall, 39-37, In WMI Overtime Thriller

Field Goal By Pentoney Wins Game

By TED TROXELL

A pair of WMI League underdogs almost came through with big upsets last night, as Beall lost in overtime to the pace-setting Allegany Campers, 39-37, and winless Fort Hill blew a nine-point halftime lead and was edged out by Bruce, 57-56. The third league encounter found Valley whipping Mt. Savage, 65-52.

The Campers, who beat the Mountaineers by a 38-36 score earlier in the season at Frostburg, moved a step closer to the league title by copping their seventh win, four of which were decided by a total margin of six points.

Bruce and Valley continue to share the runner-up spot in the six-team circuit with 5-2 records, while Beall is in fourth place with a 3-4 log. Last night's loss wiped out the Mountaineers' chances of even a share of the league crown.

Pentoney Wins Game

In the low scoring contest at Campobello, the upset-minded visitors from Frostburg never held the lead. The score was tied twice, 35-all at the end of the regulation game, and again at 37-37 during the extra session, before Jerry Pentoney's field goal with 45 seconds left gave Allegany the victory.

The Campers threatened to make a runaway of the battle midway in the third period when they jumped out to an 11-point lead, 28-17, but the fired-up Beall quint fought back to tie it up and force an overtime period.

Jim Evans and Allen Eisel were the key figures in Beall's surge. The pair accounted for all but one of the Mounties' points in the third period, with Eisel's jump shot with 10 seconds left cutting the difference to 30-26 as the quarter ended.

Metz Ties Score

A foul shot by Evans with 1:15 remaining made it 35-33. The bonus try by Evans missed, but Wayne Metz grabbed the rebound and tossed in a jumper to knot the count.

Beall had a chance to win the game when Wayne Shook fouled Bill McLuckie with only 13 seconds showing on the clock, but the Mountaineer guard's attempt from the 15-foot stripe fell off to the left and was rebounded by Alco's Bob Gaffney. The Campers got one shot before the buzzer, but failed to connect.

Gaffney was fouled after 20 seconds of the overtime heat had elapsed, but failed to convert, and Evans missed a foul try for Beall 20 seconds later. Gaffney shook himself loose for a layup to put Allegany in front with 1:20 to go, but Chester Carter's fall-away jump shot tied it again at the 55-second mark.

Teams Off In Shooting

Neither team shot with any consistency during the course of the game. Beall, playing a more delicate style of ball than its opponents, clicked on 15 of 50 tries from the floor for a .300 percentage, whole Allegany canned 17 of 66, for a .258 mark.

Pentoney led the Campers in scoring with 14 points, and Mervin Pope followed with 11. Evans tossed in 12 points to lead the losers.

The Bruce-Fort Hill battle at Westernport was a nip-and-tuck affair. The score was tied seven times—at two, eight, 13, 41, 43, 45, and 47. A pair of free throws by Bill Wright broke the 47-47 tie and put Bruce on top to stay.

The Sentinels of Fort Hill, who have been losing a lot of "toughies" in the worst season in the school's history, led by nine points, 31-22, at intermission, but were outscored 19-12, in the third quarter, which cut the difference to two points, 43-41.

Both teams racked up 24 field goals, with the margin of victory coming at the charity stripe, where Bruce made nine of 17 to 8-10 for Fort Hill. The Sentinels' Bill Colbert was the only player to foul out.

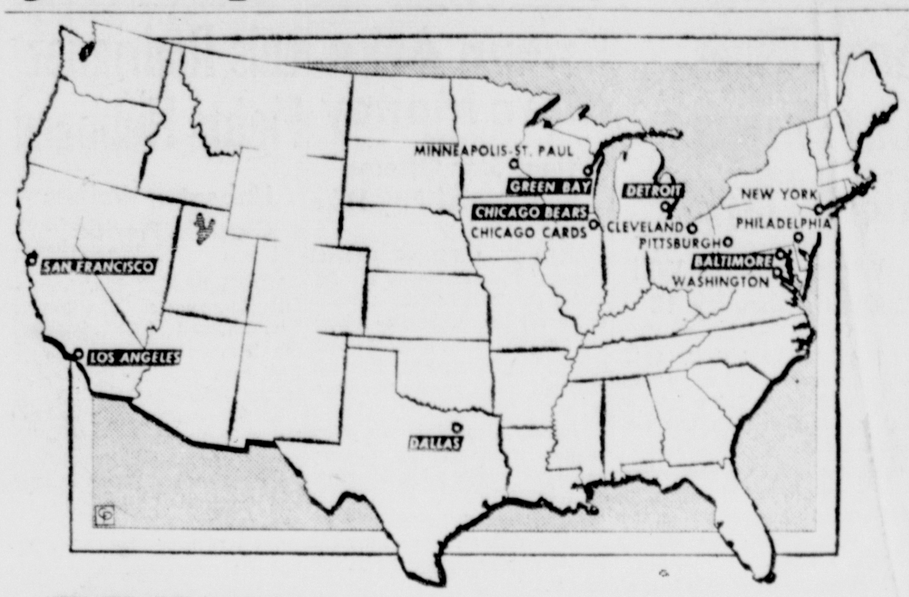
Wright pumped in nine fielders and added four free throws in seven attempts to take scoring honors with 22 points. Colbert and Dave Baldwin tallied 18 and 17, respectively, to spark the Fort Hill aggregation.

Valley's G-men, Jim Getty and Bill Garlitz, who lead the Knights in the scoring column in practically every game, came through again last night in the game at Lonaconing.

Getty Gets 25

Getty rang up 10 field goals and had a perfect 5-5 night at the foul line for 25 points, and Garlitz made eight two-pointers and seven of nine penalty pitches for 23 markers. Leroy Robertson, with 18 points, and Fay Often, with 14, were the scoring leaders for the Indians.

Both clubs enjoyed above-par nights at the foul line, Valley canning 15 of 20 tries, and Mt. Savage hitting on 14 of 18.



HOW PRO LOOP LINES UP — The new alignment in the National Football league, which adds Dallas this year and Minneapolis-St. Paul in 1961, looks like this. Dallas will be part of the Western division (indicated by white on black) this year. When Minneapolis-St. Paul enters next year the eastern division will have its choice of which club it wants.

Cincy Holds First Place In AP Voting

Bradley Runs 2nd, Golden Bears 3rd

By The Associated Press

Oscar Robertson keeps on breaking basketball records and his team, Cincinnati, keeps on winning games. So the nation's sports writers and broadcasters keep on voting for the Bearcats as the No. 1 team even though Bradley and California also have impressive records.

Leaders Unchanged

These three teams, each with 17-1 records, again wound up in the 1-2-3 positions Tuesday in the weekly Associated Press poll, based on results through Saturday.

Cincinnati, with 88 first place votes out of 191 ballots, gathered 1,798 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc. Bradley, Cincinnati's leading Missouri Valley Conference rival, drew 20 first-place votes and 1,606 points. California's 1959 NCAA champions polled 33 firsts and 1,603 points.

Ohio State's Big Ten pacesetters and West Virginia, leader in the Southern Conference, easily held the fourth and fifth spots. Georgia Tech clung to sixth despite a loss to Auburn in one of last week's two games.

Voting for the last four places in the top 10 was so close that some switches were inevitable. Utah State moved up to seventh place with 588 points and Utah dropped to ninth with 546 although each had two impressive victories last week and they boast identical 17-2 season records. Villanova (16-1) was eighth.

Miami Is Tenth

Miami (Fla.), which has been knocking at the door for several weeks, finally gained a place in the top 10 with 211 points. Texas A&M dropped to 12th after taking its second defeat of the season.

The top 10 teams, with points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis (first-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

Cincinnati (288)	(17-1)	1,798
Bradley (20)	(17-1)	1,606

New York's Titans List Exhibitions

New Team To Play At Polo Grounds

NEW YORK (UPI)— The New York Titans of the American Football League Tuesday announced the signing of a lease to play five exhibition games this fall and stated that former professional stars Ace Parker and Harry Todd are under consideration for the Titans' backfield coaching job.

The Polo Grounds lease was signed by Edgar Feely, attorney for the National Exhibition Co. which owns the stadium and by Frank Purcell, attorney for the Titans.

Feely disclosed that plans are under consideration to convert the Polo Grounds into a "modern sports arena" for various types of sports at a cost of possibly $30 million.

Asked whether the Titans could be considered as possible tenants for a proposed stadium in Flushing Meadow, Wismer said his club obviously would be more interested in an existing stadium than in one where a shovel full of dirt has not yet been turned."

Wismer listed the following exhibition games for his team — against the Los Angeles Chargers in the Los Angeles Coliseum, against the Houston club in Baton Rouge, La., against the Dallas Texans in the Texas Christian Stadium, against the Buffalo club in the grand opening of that city's renovated stadium, and against the Boston club at a site yet to be determined.

Pettit set his record over a 72-game span. This was Chamberlain's 56th game, leaving 18 this season in which to add to the record.

Scaletta Gets 26 As Explorers Cop 16th Win Of Year

LaSalle High School's Explorers had no trouble in racking up their 16th win of the season last night on the SS. Peter and Paul floor, where they flogged the Bedford High Bisons to the tune of 84-54.

City scoring leader Mickey Scaletta paced the LaSalle quint with 26 points, scored on eight field goals and a 10-15 foul line performance. Scaletta's total boosts his output for the season to 361 tallies in 18 games, for an average of slightly over 20 per contest.

Eddie Erdelatz Will Coach Oakland Team In New AFL

Former Navy Coach Idle Ten Months

Quit Middies Last April After Rift With Capt. Cutter

By SCOTT BAILLIE

OAKLAND, Calif (UPI)—Eddie Erdelatz, a gifted tactician whom the University of California bypassed, was hired Tuesday to coach Oakland's team in the fledgling American professional Football League.

Erdelatz, who is 46 and sports a pair of Cauliflower ears as souvenirs of his amateur boxing days, reached a "gentleman's agreement" Tuesday with the well heeled backers of the Oakland club.

"Eddie is expected to sign the contract within 10 days," General Manager Y. Charles (Chet) Soda said. "In the meantime we are working on a gentleman's agreement and no terms will be disclosed."

Erdelatz thus ended a 10-month period on the sidelines which started last April when he resigned from the Naval Academy and ended a brilliant nine - year tenure. During that span he rebuilt the Middies into a football power and they posted a record of 50 victories, 26 defeats and eight ties under his direction.

Erdelatz severed ties with the academy as the upshot of a rift with Capt. Slade Cutter the athletic director.

Until last Friday, Eddie had been considered the prime candidate for the coaching vacancy at California. He had been interviewed at least three times by a screening committee but then passed over in favor of Marvin Levy of the University of New Mexico.

Eddie launched his Oakland career with a verbal foul - up that drew a laugh from both reporters and himself.

"Gentlemen, it's an honor to be selected coach of the Navy—uh—Oakland football team," Erdelatz said and then his solemn features broke into a grin as he realized the mistake.

FOOTBALL TALK—Eddie Erdelatz, left, chatted in Oakland's Athens Athletic Club yesterday with Y. C. (Chet) Soda after it was announced Erdelatz was picked as coach of the new Oakland professional team of the American Football League. Erdelatz was head coach of the Navy from 1950 through 1958. Soda, general manager of the Oakland club, said the contract will be signed in a week or so. Erdelatz, 46, said he made only one promise to his new employers: "I'll do my best." (AP Photofax)

Moorefield And Keyser High Clash

Hagerstown Scene Of Class A Battle

Keyser High School and Moorefield High School will conclude their season series tonight in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Moorefield.

Last year Keyser won the PVC title but is out of the running now with an 8-4 record. Moorefield has won eight games and lost six.

Keyser won the first game of the series on December 16 by the score of 56-47.

Bayard High School goes after its 15th victory of the campaign tonight when it hosts Harman High School of Randolph County. Coach Francis Maleonskie's team holds a 53-51 decision over Harman. Bayard's record to date is 14 wins and two losses.

The Class "A" title is at stake in Washington County tonight when Mel Henry's North Hagerstown floormen host Nick Scallion's South Hagerstown Rebels in the finale of their series. South High won the first game, 55-43, and can bag the title by winning tonight. A victory for the Hubs, however, would tie it up at 1-1 and necessitate a playoff game for the title.

The winner of the title game competes in the district tourney at Allegany High School next month.

This is also a CVA League contest. North is 4-3 in the league and 9-6 overall while the Rebels are 3-3 in the CVAL and 8-7 overall.

Birds Sign Three Pitching Hopefuls

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles baseball club said Tuesday it had received signed contracts from three pitching hopefuls.

They include Bobbie Mabe, 30-year-old righthander from Danville, Va.; Gordon Jones, 29, of Sacramento, Calif., and Wes Stock, 25, a native of the state of Washington.

Mabe spent a brief period with St. Louis in 1958 and Cincinnati in 1959, when he was sent to Seattle in the Pacific Coast League and won seven and lost seven.

Jones was obtained by the Orioles from San Francisco last December. He was used exclusively in relief by the Giants in 1958 and 1959.

Stock worked in seven games for the Birds in a relief role last year before he was optioned to Miami and then transferred to Vancouver.

Hodges Signs With Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gil Hodges, one of the all-time great first basemen in the National League, sent in his signed contract for 1960 to the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday and said he was shooting for a big year.

The 35-year-old veteran infielder who played one game for the Dodgers in 1943 but has been a fixture on the club since 1947, was believed to have signed for $38,000, about the same as last year.

Crandall Signs

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Del Crandall, Milwaukee's durable National League all-star catcher, signed Tuesday for his 10th season with the Braves. The contract called for an estimated $37,500.

Snow Wipes Out Olympic Flood Threat

Winter Games Will Open February 18

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Welcome snow wiped out a flood threat and turned gloom into joy Tuesday as Olympic skiers took to the trails.

With the winter games scheduled to open in just nine days, the weather remained of prime concern after heavy rain Monday brought a crisis.

If temperatures remain low, officials won't worry. It was below freezing Tuesday — good weather for skiing.

The alpine (downhill-slalom) skiers raced down Papoose Peak in deep snow while the cross-country experts either stayed in the valley or used a practice run near the Olympic courses at McKinney Creek, 17 miles south of here.

"The snow is heavy and deep," said French ace Adrien Duvillard. "But you can ski on it and that's the main thing."

The main thing to H. D. Thoreau, managing director for the games, was that the rain turned to snow Monday afternoon, eliminating a threat of floods in the isolated 2-mile long valley.

Thoreau canceled an emergency alert because "we expect the snow, and we can handle it."

Crews worked through the night, however, solving what Thoreau called "minor problems — removing fallen trees, repairing power lines and checking the water supply."

Dr. William W. Stiles, medical director for the Feb. 18-28 games, pronounced all water facilities in the area safe.

Griff Invites Ike To Toss First Ball

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, invited President Eisenhower Tuesday to throw out the first ball at the American League opening game here April 18.

Griffith told newsmen afterward that the President "thinks he'll be able to come."

Washington plays the Boston Red Sox in the opener.

Griffith said the President wondered if the Senators would acquire another player to strengthen its infield defense.

"He knows a lot about our ball club, I'll tell you that," Griffith said.

Kuenn Asks More Money

Tiger Star Offered Substantial Pay Hike

DETROIT (UPI) — General Manager Rick Ferrell of the Detroit Tigers said Tuesday outfielder Harvey Kuenn, the 1959 American League batting king, has been offered a substantial pay hike this year but wants much more money.

"Harvey stopped in the office Monday to discuss his contract and there is quite a big difference between what we offered and what he's asking," Ferrell said.

Kuenn reportedly is demanding $50,000 to play for the Tigers this season.

"We offered him what we felt was a realistic increase—between 10 and 20 per cent, but he wants much more," Ferrell said.

Kuenn returned his contract unsigned and Ferrell said "there's going to have to be some adjustment on his part before we agree to terms."

Ferrell said "Kuenn's pay has progressed over the years and we believe he's well paid."

Ferrell added that the pay Kuenn is demanding "easily" would make him the highest price Tiger.

"But I think we'll be able to get together before spring training starts March 1," Ferrell said.

Luis Rodriguez Fights Hubbard

Unbeaten Welters Clash In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Luis Rodriguez of Cuba takes on Carl Hubbard of Philadelphia in the 10-round main event of the fight card at Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night.

Neither Rodriguez, rated the No. 1 challenger for the welterweight crown, nor Hubbard has been defeated, although Hubbard has two draws smirching his record.

The Philadelphian, however, has the more impressive knockout record. He has stopped 15 of his 21 opponents while Rodriguez has kayoed only seven of 26.

Rodriguez probably will enter the ring a 2½ to 1 favorite because of his superior speed. The stocky Cuban never is still a moment.

The bout will be televised nationally over the ABC network at 10 (EST).

Eddie Erdelatz Will Coach Oakland Team In New AFL

Former Navy Coach Idle Ten Months

Quit Middies Last April After Rift With Capt. Cutter

By SCOTT BAILLIE

OAKLAND, Calif (UPI)—Eddie Erdelatz, a gifted tactician whom the University of California bypassed, was hired Tuesday to coach Oakland's team in the fledgling American professional Football League.

Erdelatz, who is 46 and sports a pair of Cauliflower ears as souvenirs of his amateur boxing days, reached a "gentleman's agreement" Tuesday with the well heeled backers of the Oakland club.

"Eddie is expected to sign the contract within 10 days," General Manager Y. Charles (Chet) Soda said. "In the meantime we are working on a gentleman's agreement and no terms will be disclosed."

Erdelatz thus ended a 10-month period on the sidelines which started last April when he resigned from the Naval Academy and ended a brilliant nine year tenure. During that span he rebuilt the Middies into a football power and they posted a record of 50 victories, 26 defeats and eight ties under his direction.

Erdelatz severed ties with the academy as the upshot of a rift with Capt. Slade Cutter the athletic director.

Until last Friday, Eddie had been considered the prime candidate for the coaching vacancy at California. He had been interviewed at least three times by a screening committee but then passed over in favor of Marvin Levy of the University of New Mexico.

Eddie launched his Oakland career with a verbal foul - up that drew a laugh from both reporters and himself.

"Gentlemen, it's an honor to be selected coach of the Navy—uh—Oakland football team," Erdelatz said and then his solemn features broke into a grin as he realized the mistake.

FOOTBALL TALK—Eddie Erdelatz, left, chatted in Oakland's Athens Athletic Club yesterday with Y. C. (Chet) Soda after it was announced Erdelatz was picked as coach of the new Oakland professional team of the American Football League. Erdelatz was head coach of the Navy from 1950 through 1958. Soda, general manager of the Oakland club, said the contract will be signed in a week or so. Erdelatz, 46, said he made only one promise to his new employers: "I'll do my best." (AP Photofax)

Little Mountaineers Notch 14th Straight

Rod Thorn led West Virginia with 29 points. Jim McCormick had 20, Gay Elmore, 18, Mike Wolfe 14, Dave Shuck 12 and Don Weir 11.

Sophomore Jerry Urish tallied 27 points to lead Wesleyan. Sophomore Gary Dawson had 21 and freshman Bill Grimes 20.

It was the ninth time the Little Mountaineers have scored 100 or more points. They are averaging 102.8 points a game.

Moorefield And Keyser High Clash

Hagerstown Scene Of Class A Battle

Keyser High School and Moorefield High School will conclude their season series tonight in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Moorefield.

Last year Keyser won the PVC title but is out of the running now with an 8-4 record. Moorefield has won eight games and lost six.

Keyser won the first game of the series on December 16 by the score of 56-47.

Bayard High School goes after its 15th victory of the campaign tonight when it hosts Harman High School of Randolph County. Coach Francis Maleonskie's team holds a 53-51 decision over Harman. Bayard's record to date is 14 wins and two losses.

The Class "A" title is at stake in Washington County tonight when Mel Henry's North Hagerstown floormen host Nick Scallion's South Hagerstown Rebels in the finale of their series. South High won the first game, 55-43, and can bag the title by winning tonight. A victory for the Hubs, however, would tie it up at 1-1 and necessitate a playoff game for the title.

The winner of the title game competes in the district tourney at Allegany High School next month.

This is also a CVA League contest. North is 4-3 in the league and 9-6 overall while the Rebels are 3-3 in the CVAL and 8-7 overall.

Birds Sign Three Pitching Hopefuls

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles baseball club said Tuesday it had received signed contracts from three pitching hopefuls.

They include Bobbie Mabe, 30-year-old righthander from Danville, Va.; Gordon Jones, 29, of Sacramento, Calif., and Wes Stock, 25, a native of the state of Washington.

Mabe spent a brief period with St. Louis in 1958 and Cincinnati in 1959, when he was sent to Seattle in the Pacific Coast League and won seven and lost seven.

Jones was obtained by the Orioles from San Francisco last December. He was used exclusively in relief by the Giants in 1958 and 1959.

Stock worked in seven games for the Birds in a relief role last year before he was optioned to Miami and then transferred to Vancouver.

Hodges Signs With Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gil Hodges, one of the all-time great first basemen in the National League, sent in his signed contract for 1960 to the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday and said he was shooting for a big year.

The 35-year-old veteran infielder who played one game for the Dodgers in 1943 but has been a fixture on the club since 1947, was believed to have signed for $38,000, about the same as last year.

Crandall Signs

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Del Crandall, Milwaukee's durable National League all-star catcher, signed Tuesday for his 10th season with the Braves. The contract called for an estimated $37,500.

Snow Wipes Out Olympic Flood Threat

Winter Games Will Open February 18

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Welcome snow wiped out a flood threat and turned gloom into joy Tuesday as Olympic skiers took to the trails.

With the winter games scheduled to open in just nine days, the weather remained of prime concern after heavy rain Monday brought a crisis.

If temperatures remain low, officials won't worry. It was below freezing Tuesday — good weather for skiing.

The alpine (downhill-slalom) skiers raced down Papoose Peak in deep snow while the cross-country experts either stayed in the valley or used a practice run near the Olympic courses at McKinney Creek, 17 miles south of here.

"The snow is heavy and deep," said French ace Adrien Duvillard. "But you can ski on it and that's the main thing."

The main thing to H. D. Thoreau, managing director for the games, was that the rain turned to snow Monday afternoon, eliminating a threat of floods in the isolated 2-mile long valley.

Thoreau canceled an emergency alert because "we expect the snow, and we can handle it."

Crews worked through the night, however, solving what Thoreau called "minor problems — removing fallen trees, repairing power lines and checking the water supply."

Dr. William W. Stiles, medical director for the Feb. 18-28 games, pronounced all water facilities in the area safe.

Griff Invites Ike To Toss First Ball

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, invited President Eisenhower Tuesday to throw out the first ball at the American League opening game here April 18.

Griffith told newsmen afterward that the President "thinks he'll be able to come."

Washington plays the Boston Red Sox in the opener.

Griffith said the President wondered if the Senators would acquire another player to strengthen its infield defense.

"He knows a lot about our ball club, I'll tell you that," Griffith said.

Kuenn Asks More Money

Tiger Star Offered Substantial Pay Hike

DETROIT (UPI) — General Manager Rick Ferrell of the Detroit Tigers said Tuesday outfielder Harvey Kuenn, the 1959 American League batting king, has been offered a substantial pay hike this year but wants much more money.

"Harvey stopped in the office Monday to discuss his contract and there is quite a big difference between what we offered and what he's asking," Ferrell said.

Kuenn reportedly is demanding $50,000 to play for the Tigers this season.

"We offered him what we felt was a realistic increase—between 10 and 20 per cent, but he wants much more," Ferrell said.

Kuenn returned his contract unsigned and Ferrell said "there's going to have to be some adjustment on his part before we agree to terms."

Ferrell said "Kuenn's pay has progressed over the years and we believe he's well paid."

Ferrell added that the pay Kuenn is demanding "easily" would make him the highest price Tiger.

"But I think we'll be able to get together before spring training starts March 1," Ferrell said.

Luis Rodriguez Fights Hubbard

Unbeaten Welters Clash In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Luis Rodriguez of Cuba takes on Carl Hubbard of Philadelphia in the 10-round main event of the fight card at Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night.

Neither Rodriguez, rated the No. 1 challenger for the welterweight crown, nor Hubbard has been defeated, although Hubbard has two draws smirching his record.

The Philadelphian, however, has the more impressive knockout record. He has stopped 15 of his 21 opponents while Rodriguez has kayoed only seven of 26.

Rodriguez probably will enter the ring a 2½ to 1 favorite because of his superior speed. The stocky Cuban never is still a moment.

The bout will be televised nationally over the ABC network at 10 (EST).

Maryland Deer Population Reported Getting Out Of Hand

Crop Damage Intolerable, Study Shows

Dr. Flyger Report Shows Deer Eat Pine, Spruce Trees

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Strange as it sounds, Maryland's deer population is getting out of hand, even though hunters blaze away and kill them by the thousands each season.

Seemingly like the indestructible shmoos in the Lil' Abner comic strip, they just can't be stamped out. The more you kill, the more offspring mama and papa deer raise.

Makes 3-Year Study

That's the problem as outlined by Dr. Vagn Flyger who has made a three-year study. It is sponsored by the Department of Research and Education in cooperation with the State Game and Inland Fish Commission.

Said Dr. Flyger, "It sounds paradoxical to say that the more deer are shot, the more they will produce, but this is what much careful research has shown."

The foraging animals are an especially major headache to farmers and foresters.

They like to go after crops on farms, particularly corn. And they nibble those delectable pine and spruce sprouts that grow in the woodlands.

Dr. Flyger says that some Western Maryland farmers have suffered "almost intolerable crop damage" by deer. They're a challenge to the Christmas tree industry, which depends on pine and spruce trees.

Consume Seedlings

"The deer consume white pine seedlings almost as fast as they're planted," said Dr. Flyger. "Red Pine and spruce also are relished by deer."

Overcrowding deer population also has caused hunting enforcement problems because some unscrupulous hunters go out at night. Some shoot the animals in the offseason.

Last year 3,006 bucks were checked in by hunters at game wardens' stations.

In Western Maryland, 1,404 bucks were killed, compared with only 32 in 1931.

Dr. Flyger says there isn't any answer yet to the problem, but that it can be solved.

Hugh McWilliams Joins Football Staff At Navy

The addition to the present five-man coaching staff, was announced Tuesday by Capt. Asbury Coward, academy athletic director.

McWilliams has been head coach at Palo Alto, Calif., High School for the past seven years.

He was on the coaching staff at College of Pacific with Wayne Hardin, now head coach at Navy, and Ernie Jorge, Navy's offensive line coach.

McWilliams will report prior to the opening of spring practice next month.

Bob Smith, 70, Dies — 1st Title 17 Years

Keyser Vs. Ft. Hill — Catonsville Jolted

By C. V. BURNS

FUNERAL services will be conducted today at the Eichhorn Funeral Home in Lonaconing for Robert Workman, Smith, 70, of Barton, one of the Georges Creek's most promihent sportsmen of yesteryear, who died Sunday at a Cumberland hospital.

Mr. Smith, who served for eight years as superintendent of the Allegany County Asylum and County Home and later was deputy sheriff, was in the barber business more than 30 years in Barton.

In the 1920s his barber shop was the community's sports headquarters. Barton had top-notch baseball, basketball and soccer teams in those days.

Smith was the backer of Simeon Arnold, one of the section's greatest live bird shooters.

About 1921 Smith was associated with Arthur P. Hoffa, coal operator, in the organizing of the Barton Braves baseball team, whose personnel included such well known tossers as Charles "Lefty" Dye, Frank "Warhorse" Muster, Johnny Foutz, Wilbur "Bub" Wells, Clarence Beeman, Clem Montgomery, George "Brindle" Long, Hank Gruber, Arthur Slocum, "Shug" Doyle, Marty Flynn, Alvin "Dabby" Logsdon, Lucien Davis, Tommy McGuire and John "Chip" Grindle.

The late James McDonald, Hoffa and Smith were the "big three" behind Barton High School's championship teams. Art Slocum of Keyser coached Barton's three W.M.I. League championship basketball teams and Benny Artigiani, of Baltimore, was mentor of the three Barton succer teams that swept to state titles in 1923, 1924 and 1925.

Standout athletes of that era were the Schramm boys—Ernie, Karl and Harrison.

Smith also was associated with the Barton Braves in the old County Soccer League.

In more recent years Bob worked in Fred Driscoll's Barber Shop on Johnson street and in Graham Gray's Barber Shop on North Mechanic street. He resided on Bedford street before returning to Barton where he went back to barbering.

As a youngster Smith worked in his dad's grocery store and made deliveries on the Barton route by horse and wagon.

IF Romney High School wins or shares the Potomac Valley Conference basketball title it will be the first time the Pioneers have finished on top since 1943 when Chuck Collette's team posted an 11-3 record. That was Romney's only title in 22 years.

Piedmont High was the last team to go undefeated and that was in 1954 when the Lions were 14-0. Piedmont, incidentally, has bagged the title four times (1953, 1954, 1956 and 1958) in the past seven years.

PERSHING ROHRER, one-time Cumberland and Morgantown newspaper reporter, is now on the sports staff of the Indianapolis Times, according to an item in The Sporting News.

A graduate of LaSalle High where he was sports editor on The Torch, Rohrer has been employed on the Ravenna, Ohio, evening paper for the past seven years before moving to Indiana.

THE QUESTION: "Why doesn't Keyser and Fort Hill meet in football?" has been answered.

Keyser and Fort Hill will clash at the local stadium in November. It will be their first meeting in football since 1950.

Fort Hill will replace Romney High on the Keyser schedule.

HANCOCK High School, enjoying one of its most successful cage seasons under Coach Jim Brown, who made his debut this year, is now a Class B school and is tied for first place in the Washington county race with a 3-1 record. Boonsboro and Clear Spring are 1-3. Hancock's overall record is 11-2.

CATONSVILLE High School got a severe jolt recently when it forfeited eight games because it used three ineligible players.

The Comets, once atop the Baltimore County League with a 12-0 record, dropped to 6th place in the 10-team loop and now owns a 5-8 mark.

With five games remaining they have no chance to overtake the leaders.

Dorothy Paget, 54, Horse Owner, Dies

LONDON (AP)— Miss Dorothy Paget, the only woman owner to win both the Grand National Steeplechase and English Derby, died Tuesday. She was 54.

She inherited a vast fortune from her American grandfather, William C. Whitney, once secretary of the Navy.

Much of the fortune was invested in horses. She won the National with the world famous Golden Miller in 1934 in a record time of 9:20.4. Then she collected the Derby in 1943 with Straight Deal.

NAVY AIDE — Hugh McWilliams, head coach at Palo Alto, Calif., high school, has been named to Navy's football staff. He becomes Coach Wayne Hard's assistant. McWilliams is a former star lineman and assistant coach at College of the Pacific where Hardin also played his college ball. (AP Photofax)

Syracuse Triumphs

DETROIT (UPI)—The Syracuse Nationals withstood a late challenge by the Cincinnati Royals Tuesday night to win the first of a twin bill 117-111 at Olympia Stadium.

Philadelphia's Wilt (the Stilt) Chamberlain was expected to score a new National Basketball Association one-season scoring record against Detroit in the second game.

Yankees Suggest New York City Operate Stadium

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees disclosed Tuesday they have suggested that New York City take over the operation of Yankee Stadium rather than become involved in the construction of a new ballpark.

The suggestion was contained in a letter from J. Arthur Friedlund, general counsel for the Yankees, on Feb. 1, to New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Friedlund pointed out to Wagner that Yankee Stadium is owned by the Yankee Stadium Corp., of which John W. Cox is president, and the land on which Yankee Stadium stands is owned by the Knights of Columbus.

Globetrotters Plan To Play In Africa

CHICAGO (UPI) —Abe Saperstein, owner-coach of the Harlem Globetrotters said Tuesday he plans to take his nomadic basketball team on a complete tour of Africa.

"We've touched northern Africa on each of our past 10 summer tours of Europe, but we've never gone into southern Africa," he said.

Saperstein said the proposed tour would start Dec. 1 from New York with Dakar the first stop on the itinerary.

He said he is contact with U. S. counsular officials in Senegal, the Republic of Congo, Leopoldville, Belgian Congo and Kenya, Nairobi, among other African areas where basketball is a novelty.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — World records are likely to tumble in clusters during this feverish Olympic year including the oldest one on the books in track and field—a prodigious broad jump by Jesse Owens 25 years ago.

Like Babe Ruth's homer mark of 60 in 1927, Jesse's leap of 26 feet, 8¼ inches at Ann Arbor, Mich., on May 25, 1935 stands as a monument to a great athlete and so far has withstood the test of time.

But another American ace, Greg Bell, is nudging closer. He did 26 feet, seven inches against the Russians at Philadelphia last summer and might, with Olympic pressure on him, rub out the last of Jesse's records.

The pressure of international competition already has made the four-minute mile routine with some runners. The seven-foot high jump has been surpassed. Pole vaulters are beginning to "think big" about a 16-foot flight for the first time in history.

Represents Ultimate

For 25 years the Owens jump has represented the "ultimate in human endeavor" but there are goals in other events that never have been reached.

No sprinter ever has done 100 meters officially in 10 seconds flat. No sprinter ever has bettered 20 seconds for 200 meters. Shotputters are straining for 65 feet, discus throwers are aiming officially at 200 feet (though one better is pending as a world mark) and the vaulters still are trying for 16 feet.

These are the goals for American athletes. Foreign athletes have their own set, particularly in the longer track events.

The 10-second 100 meters has been a target for "flying humans" over the years and the world mark now stands at 10.1 — achieved six times by four different men. Willie Williams and Leamon King have done it twice. Ray Norton and Ira Murchison equalled it once each. All are Americans.

Sime Set Record

A German named Armin Hary flashed through the 100 meters in 10 flat at Freidrichshafen, Germany, in 1958 but investigation turned up the fact Armin actually was running downhill. The track sloped ever so slightly.

Dave Sime, the Duke Dandy, set a wolld record of 20 seconds flat for the 200 meters at Sanger, Calif., on June 9, 1956.

Among the pole vaulters, muscular Don Bragg is a 16-foot possibility though Bob Gutowski has the official world mark of 15 feet 8¼. Bragg has done 15 feet, 9½ indoors.

To Fight In April

BOSTON (AP)—Promoter Sam Silverman said Monday that Paul Pender will defend his limited version of the world middleweight title against old pro Sugar Ray Robinson in Boston April 29.

Johnny Buckley, Pender's manager, said Robinson agreed to the fight last Saturday and the Pender camp signed for the bout Monday.

Don Moran, who won the scoring title last season with a total of 470 points in 20 games for an average of 23.5, is now leading the City Basketball League with a total of 228 points and an average of 17.5 for the first 13 games on a 20-game schedule.

The Old Germans ace has scored 96 field goals and converted 36 of 58 free throws.

Maryland Deer Population Reported Getting Out Of Hand

Crop Damage Intolerable, Study Shows

Dr. Flyger Report Shows Deer Eat Pine, Spruce Trees

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Strange as it sounds, Maryland's deer population is getting out of hand, even though hunters blaze away and kill them by the thousands each season.

Seemingly like the indestructible shmoos in the Lil' Abner comic strip, they just can't be stamped out. The more you kill, the more offspring mama and papa deer raise.

Makes 3-Year Study

That's the problem as outlined by Dr. Vagn Flyger who has made a three-year study. It is sponsored by the Department of Research and Education in cooperation with the State Game and Inland Fish Commission.

Said Dr. Flyger, "It sounds paradoxical to say that the more deer are shot, the more they will produce, but this is what much careful research has shown."

The foraging animals are an especially major headache to farmers and foresters.

They like to go after crops on farms, particularly corn. And they nibble those delectable pine and spruce sprouts that grow in the woodlands.

Dr. Flyger says that some Western Maryland farmers have suffered "almost intolerable crop damage" by deer. They're a challenge to the Christmas tree industry, which depends on pine and spruce trees.

Consume Seedlings

"The deer consume white pine seedlings almost as fast as they're planted," said Dr. Flyger. "Red Pine and spruce also are relished by deer."

Overcrowding deer population also has caused hunting enforcement problems because some unscrupulous hunters go out at night. Some shoot the animals in the off-season.

Last year 3,006 bucks were checked in by hunters at game wardens' stations.

In Western Maryland, 1,404 bucks were killed, compared with only 32 in 1931.

Dr. Flyger says there isn't any answer yet to the problem, but that it can be solved.

Hugh McWilliams Joins Football Staff At Navy

ANNAPOLIS (AP) Hugh McWilliams, former star lineman and assistant coach at College of the Pacific, has been named to Navy's football coaching staff.

The addition to the present five-man coaching staff, was announced Tuesday by Capt. Asbury Coward, academy athletic director.

McWilliams has been head coach at Palo Alto, Calif., High School for the past seven years.

He was on the coaching staff at College of Pacific with Wayne Hardin, now head coach at Navy, and Ernie Jorge, Navy's offensive line coach.

McWilliams will report prior to the opening of spring practice next month.

Bob Smith, 70, Dies — 1st Title 17 Years

Keyser Vs. Ft. Hill — Catonsville Jolted

By C. V. BURNS

FUNERAL services will be conducted today at the Eichhorn Funeral Home in Lonaconing for Robert Workman, Smith, 70, of Barton, one of the Georges Creek's most prominent sportsmen of yesteryear, who died Sunday at a Cumberland hospital.

Mr. Smith, who served for eight years as superintendent of the Allegany County Asylum and County Home and later was deputy sheriff, was in the barber business more than 30 years in Barton.

In the 1920s his barber shop was the community's sports headquarters. Barton had top-notch baseball, basketball and soccer teams in those days.

Smith was the backer of Simeon Arnold, one of the section's greatest live bird shooters.

About 1921 Smith was associated with Arthur P. Hoffa, coal operator, in the organizing of the Barton Braves baseball team, whose personnel included such well known tossers as Charles "Lefty" Dye, Frank "Warhorse" Muster, Johnny Foutz, Wilbur "Bub" Wells, Clarence Beeman, Clem Montgomery, George "Brindle" Long, Hank Gruber, Arthur Slocum, "Shug" Doyle, Marty Flynn, Alvin "Dabby" Logsdon, Lucien Davis, Tommy McGuire and John "Chip" Grindle.

The late James McDonald, Hoffa and Smith were the "big three" behind Barton High School's championship teams. Art Slocum of Keyser coached Barton's three W.M.I. League championship basketball teams and Benny Artigiani, of Baltimore, was mentor of the three Barton succer teams that swept to state titles in 1923, 1924 and 1925.

Standout athletes of that era were the Schramm boys—Ernie, Karl and Harrison.

Smith also was associated with the Barton Braves in the old County Soccer League.

In more recent years Bob worked in Fred Driscoll's Barber Shop on Johnson street and in Graham Gray's Barber Shop on North Mechanic street. He resided on Bedford street before returning to Barton where he went back to barbering.

As a youngster Smith worked in his dad's grocery store and made deliveries on the Barton route by horse and wagon.

IF Romney High School wins or shares the Potomac Valley Conference basketball title it will be the first time the Pioneers have finished on top since 1943 when Chuck Collette's team posted an 11-3 record. That was Romney's only title in 22 years.

Piedmont High was the last team to go undefeated and that was in 1954 when the Lions were 14-0. Piedmont, incidentally, has bagged the title four times (1953, 1954, 1956 and 1958) in the past seven years.

PERSHING ROHRER, one-time Cumberland and Morgantown newspaper reporter, is now on the sports staff of the Indianapolis Times, according to an item in The Sporting News.

A graduate of LaSalle High where he was sports editor on The Torch, Rohrer has been employed on the Ravenna, Ohio, evening paper for the past seven years before moving to Indiana.

THE QUESTION: "Why doesn't Keyser and Fort Hill meet in football?" has been answered.

Keyser and Fort Hill will clash at the local stadium in November. It will be their first meeting in football since 1950.

Fort Hill will replace Romney High on the Keyser schedule.

HANCOCK High School, enjoying one of its most successful cage seasons under Coach Jim Brown, who made his debut this year, is now a Class B school and is tied for first place in the Washington county race with a 3-1 record. Boonsboro and Clear Spring are 1-3. Hancock's overall record is 11-2.

CATONSVILLE High School got a severe jolt recently when it forfeited eight games because it used three ineligible players.

The Comets, once atop the Baltimore County League with a 12-0 record, dropped to 6th place in the 10-team loop and now owns a 5-8 mark.

With five games remaining they have no chance to overtake the leaders.

Dorothy Paget, 54, Horse Owner, Dies

LONDON (AP)— Miss Dorothy Paget, the only woman owner to win both the Grand National Steeplechase and English Derby, died Tuesday. She was 54.

She inherited a vast fortune from her American grandfather, William C. Whitney, once secretary of the Navy.

Much of the fortune was invested in horses. She won the National with the world famous Golden Miller in 1934 in a record time of 9:20.4. Then she collected the Derby in 1943 with Straight Deal.

NAVY AIDE — Hugh McWilliams, head coach at Palo Alto, Calif., high school, has been named to Navy's football staff. He becomes Coach Wayne Hard's assistant. McWilliams is a former star lineman and assistant coach at College of the Pacific where Hardin also played his college ball. (AP Photofax)

Syracuse Triumphs

DETROIT (UPI)—The Syracuse Nationals withstood a late challenge by the Cincinnati Royals Tuesday night to win the first of a twin bill 117-111 at Olympia Stadium.

Philadelphia's Wilt (the Stilt) Chamberlain was expected to score a new National Basketball Association one-season scoring record against Detroit in the second game.

Yankees Suggest New York City Operate Stadium

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees disclosed Tuesday they have suggested that New York City take over the operation of Yankee Stadium rather than become involved in the construction of a new ballpark.

The suggestion was contained in a letter from J. Arthur Friedlund, general counsel for the Yankees, on Feb. 1, to New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Friedlund pointed out to Wagner that Yankee Stadium is owned by the Yankee Stadium Corp., of which John W. Cox is president, and the land on which Yankee Stadium stands is owned by the Knights of Columbus.

Globetrotters Plan To Play In Africa

CHICAGO (UPI) —Abe Saperstein, owner-coach of the Harlem Globetrotters said Tuesday he plans to take his nomadic basketball team on a complete tour of Africa.

"We've touched northern Africa on each of our past 10 summer tours of Europe, but we've never gone into southern Africa," he said.

Saperstein said the proposed tour would start Dec. 1 from New York with Dakar the first stop on the itinerary.

He said he is contact with U. S. counsular officials in Senegal, the Republic of Congo, Leopoldville, Belgian Congo and Kenya, Nairobi, among other African areas where basketball is a novelty.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — World records are likely to tumble in clusters during this feverish Olympic year including the oldest one on the books in track and field—a prodigious broad jump by Jesse Owens 25 years ago.

Like Babe Ruth's homer mark of 60 in 1927, Jesse's leap of 26 feet, 8¼ inches at Ann Arbor, Mich., on May 25, 1935 stands as a monument to a great athlete and so far has withstood the test of time.

But another American ace, Greg Bell, is nudging closer. He did 26 feet, seven inches against the Russians at Philadelphia last summer and might, with Olympic pressure on him, rub out the last of Jesse's records.

The pressure of international competition already has made the four-minute mile routine with some runners. The seven-foot high jump has been surpassed. Pole vaulters are beginning to "think big" about a 16-foot flight for the first time in history.

Represents Ultimate

For 25 years the Owens jump has represented the "ultimate in human endeavor" but there are goals in other events that never have been reached.

No sprinter ever has done 100 meters officially in 10 seconds flat. No sprinter ever has bettered 20 seconds for 200 meters. Shotputters are straining for 65 feet, discus throwers are aiming officially at 200 feet (though one better is pending as a world mark) and the vaulters still are trying for 16 feet.

These are the goals for American athletes. Foreign athletes have their own set, particularly in the longer track events.

The 10-second 100 meters has been a target for "flying humans" over the years and the world mark now stands at 10.1 — achieved six times by four different men. Willie Williams and Leamon King have done it twice. Ray Norton and Ira Murchison equalled it once each. All are Americans.

Sime Set Record

A German named Armin Hary flashed through the 100 meters in 10 flat at Freidrichshafen, Germany, in 1958 but investigation turned up the fact Armin actually was running downhill. The track sloped ever so slightly.

Dave Sime, the Duke Dandy, set a wolld record of 20 seconds flat for the 200 meters at Sanger, Calif., on June 9, 1956.

Among the pole vaulters, muscular Don Bragg is a 16-foot possibility though Bob Gutowski has the official world mark of 15 feet 8¼. Bragg has done 15 feet, 9½ indoors.

To Fight In April

BOSTON (AP)—Promoter Sam Silverman said Monday that Paul Pender will defend his limited version of the world middleweight title against old pro Sugar Ray Robinson in Boston April 29.

Johnny Buckley, Pender's manager, said Robinson agreed to the fight last Saturday and the Pender camp signed for the bout Monday.

Moran Leads City League

Don Has 228 Points And Average 17.5

Don Moran, who won the scoring title last season with a total of 470 points in 20 games for an average of 23.5, is now leading the City Basketball League with a total of 228 points and an average of 17.5 for the first 13 games on a 20-game schedule.

The Old Germans ace has scored 96 field goals and converted 36 of 58 free throws.

Bob Pence of the Old Exports is the current runner-up with 219 points and an average of 16.8 and Donnie Madden of the Loyal Order of Moose holds third place with 198 tallies for an average of 15.2.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Dissatisfied Director

Television has produced many fine directors — Arthur Penn, George Roy Hill, Delbert Mann, Robert Mulligan, Sidney Lumet, John Frankenheimer — many of whom have spilled over into motion pictures or legitimate theater. If ever you tried to single any one out as the best of the lot, you'd have a hell of a fight on your hands, but the one director who has perhaps the greatest range of excellence from good to bad, who in many ways is the most spectacular, most audacious, most colorful, most flamboyant, is undoubtedly John Frankenheimer.

Huge (more than six feet), good-looking, imposing, Frankenheimer is easily the most vivid sight on the set when he's directing a crowd scene where actors find him impatient, dictatorial, demanding. "I'm almost two different people," he'll tell you offstage, where people find him boyish, charming, eager to please. "One when I work and one when I don't. I think I'm kind of schizophrenic. I get obsessed by a show and, when I'm working I don't think about anything else at all. Basically I think I'm one of the laziest men alive. I really don't like to work.

"I've liked very few things that I've done. 'The Old Man,' 'Turn of the Screw' and 'The Comedian' with Mickey Rooney I liked. That's about it," he says. (That's a good list. Those are the best things he's done and in that order.)

"I've been criticized as being overly arty with a camera. I use photography to represent the point of view I have of the show. I want it to be honest. There are too many guys directing on television who know anything about a camera. They regard the camera as the last thing they have to deal with when the only thing they have is the camera. It has to be staged in terms of the camera; it's the only way. A story should have a point of view. It shouldn't bear the director's signature. When it's terribly unobvious, you know it's terribly right and you're there. If you've been aware of the direction, it stinks." This is very sound, but, unfortunately, Frankenheimer is occasionally guilty of the very thing he criticizes—obvious direction—the result of trying too hard and I can't blame him too much.

"The greatest kind of director is Carol Reed," says Frankenheimer. "David Lean is a great director. George Stevens is one of the greatest film directors there ever was. I've been more influenced by Carol Reed than by any other director. I've seen his pictures time and time again."

But the idea that John Frankenheimer is not alive or is not living life to the fullest in rehearsal would be seriously disputed by an actor who worked with him. I recall him at rehearsal of "People Kill People Sometimes," one of his less successful efforts—walking into the set in a half lope, looking like a cross between a matinee idol and college boy.

To a little group of scared extras, he flashed a smile and said: "You have the task of looking like about 200 people. I'm going to block the scenes you're in just once and it's up to you to remember where your marks are. I want you on those marks when you're supposed to be. If a rehearsal is called at nine in the morning, you be there, on the set and ready. If for any reason you're late, just don't bother to come. This is a party scene. I want you to have a good time and talk. I don't like mutterings. Talk."

The rehearsal began. Frankenheimer tackled the entire show like a one-man football team. When the costume department adorned a prowler with an Ivy League raincoat and small cap with a buckle on the back, he let out a roar that could be heard in the Bronx. "Dammit. This is no Ivy League graduate," he screeched, pulling the raincoat off the extra, throwing it on the floor and jumping on it. "Walk on this, everybody. Jump on it. Wardrobe, what is this buckle on the hat business?" He ripped it off.

It's this sort of outburst that has won Frankenheimer the sardonic nickname of "Gentleman Johnny" but it is his attention to detail that is one of the hallmarks of his talents.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Saw Otto Preminger with Hope Brice, the girl the London papers quoted him as saying he's going to marry, at the Beverly Hills Hotel and next night at the Directors Guild dinner.

He tried to avoid me at the hotel, but he nodded at the dinner and then quickly looked away. However, he sent me word that he has signed Lee J. Cobb for "Exodus." He said Lee, who is one of our better actors, will play Barak, Paul Newman's father.

I don't know when Otto's divorce from Mary Preminger is final, but I believe as soon as it is he'll marry Miss Brice, who, I might say, is a very beautiful young woman.

Joe Pasternak has found his strong man for "Jumbo" in Steve Reeves of "Hercules" fame. MGM will release "Battle of the Marathon," made by an Italian company and starring the brawny, muscular Reeves. Few people know that it was in "Athena," a MGM movie, that Reeves made his initial screen appearance.

However, before Reeves can do "Jumbo" he is committed to star in "Hercules Unchanged" for Joe Levine, who really brought him to fame, but Joe will, I am sure, cooperate with Pasternak, since his Italian movie, "The Law," starring Gina Lollobrigida, is also a MGM release.

Matrimonially Joan O'Brien isn't doing so well, but careerwise she is making great strides. Following "The Alamo" with John Wayne and "Operation Petticoat" with Cary Grant, she has now been given one of the top feminine roles in "Hell to Eternity" by producer Irving Levin.

Although Joan and her husband, Jack Meyers, TV writer, are living in the same house, she has filed for divorce. She says he lives upstairs in their home and she lives downstairs, but she is hoping he will move out.

In "Hell to Eternity" she costars with Jeffrey Hunter, David Janssen, Vic Damone and Sessue Hayakawa. Director Phil Karlson is already at Okinawa and the men leave for location there on the 20th.

I don't know when I've enjoyed a luncheon as much as the one I had with 87-year-old Adolph Zukor, who is often called the father of motion pictures. He was the first man to make a multiple reel picture, "Queen Elizabeth," with Sarah Bernhardt. Some of the other pioneer producers were very critical because they felt it was very impractical to try to interest the public with more than a one-reeler.

About the threatened strike he said there's one thing that no one has mentioned, and that is that the different distribution centers which he and others started all over the world will collapse if there are no American pictures to release. "That would be a fine chance for the foreign market to take over because they are now in a position to make more pictures," said the wise Mr. Zukor.

Young Fabian is taking some of the criticism of his acting very much to heart, but in a way it has been good for him, because now he is studying with Sandy Meisner. He is a very sensitive lad and hopes to get a pleasant nod from the critics instead of disapproval.

Fabian is a nice kid. He and Frankie Avalon have plans to raise $750,000 for rebuilding youth centers. Sunday he visited the Stockton Boy's Home and has agreed when he finishes his current picture, 20th's "High Time," to do a benefit.

I believe Fabian will be greatly benefited by Meisner's instructions and that one day his ability will measure up to his popularity, which is terrific.

For years Bricktop operated one of the most popular night clubs in Rome. Now she has moved to California and plans to open a club in San Francisco. A priest once said of her, "she is every priests' favorite night club hostess because she practically takes the clothes off her patrons backs to feed the hungry."

One of the San Francisco papers placed her visit alongside the Finch murder trial on the front page. She is an extraordinary woman and although she is an American, she has lived most of her life in Europe and whatever she made she has always handed over half of it to the poor and needy.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has been employed by his firm for five years. In 1958 they opened a branch office and my husband thought for sure he would get the promotion. A less experienced man got it instead.

The same thing happened again in 1959. Both men who were promoted over my husband were younger and it was humiliating. The boss gave him two raises but it didn't make up for the hurt feelings.

We know the reason my husband was passed over is because he is not of the same religion as the owners. The other men are. Should he stay with this job and hope for a break, or leave—T. D.

DEAR T. D.: Could it be the reason your husband was passed over was because the boss didn't think he had the ability to handle the branch offices?

I am not suggesting this is the case because I'm in no position to make such a judgment. However people frequently use the religion angle as a cover-up when a coveted promotion goes to someone else.

Since you and your husband feel your religion is interfering with his progress, I suggest he look for another position. An unhappy employe is a second-rate employe and he will never be content in this situation.

DEAR ANN: We're in a spot. My husband said to write to you. A certain couple we are friendly with is very much interested in politics. So are we. Their political views are diametrically opposed to ours.

Whenever we get together we have a heated debate. No one gets ugly. We argue at a good level and it makes for a stimulating evening.

For Christmas this couple sent us a gift subscription to a magazine which we consider dangerous. The characters who contribute to this magazine are nationally known bigots and wild reactionaries. We don't want this magazine coming to our home nor do we wish to be on their mailing list.

Under no circumstances do we want to insult the senders. How shall we handle this hot potato? —NO THANKYOU

DEAR NO THANKYOU: If you don't wish to receive the magazine write to the subscription office. (address usually can be found at the front of the book) and request they remove your name from the mailing list. You need give no reason.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school student with a small allowance. I go with a girl who has a big appetite.

Friday and Saturday nights we go to a little hangout where they serve short orders but this gal of mine eats two of everything. I can't tell her to "watch her figure" because she's very skinny and trying to put on weight.

I like her a lot but she's eating herself out of my life. Please help me. This is no joke. —PAUL THE PAUPER

Card Of Thanks

We cordially thank our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind and understanding during our bereavement, the death of Lewis "Guy" Piper. We especially thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, those who sent floral tributes and to all others who in any manner rendered assistance.
MRS. MYRTLE PIPER, and FAMILY

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear son and brother, P.F.C. Charles Pete Jones, killed in action, 15 years ago today, Feb. 10, 1945.
He had a nature you just could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold;
And to those who knew him and loved him,
His memory will never grow old.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER and BROTHERS

In loving memory of our dear Father Joseph O. Mellott who died eighteen years ago today, February 10th 1942.
A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is still
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
You have left a beautiful memory
With sorrow to great to be told
But to us who have loved and lost you
Your memory will never grow old.
SADLY MISSED BY CHILDREN

Card Of Thanks

We cordially thank our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind and understanding during our bereavement, the death of Lewis "Guy" Piper. We especially thank the pallbearers, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, those who sent floral tributes and to all others who in any manner rendered assistance.

MRS. MYRTLE PIPER, and FAMILY

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear son and brother, P.F.C. Charles Pete Jones, killed in action, 15 years ago today, Feb. 10, 1945.

He had a nature you just could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold;
And to those who knew him and loved him,
His memory will never grow old.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, SISTER and BROTHERS

In loving memory of our dear Father Joseph O. Mellott who died eighteen years ago today, February 10th 1942.

A precious one from us has gone
A voice we loved is still
A place is vacant in our home.
Which never can be filled.
You have left a beautiful memory
With sorrow to great to be told
But to us who have loved and lost you
Your memory will never grow old.
SADLY MISSED BY CHILDREN

Chemicals, Metals Spark Late Stock Market Rally

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chemicals, metals and leading steels triggered a late afternoon rally in the stock market Tuesday.

The list moved timidly through the first three hours, rising and falling as trader sentiment waxed or waned. Prices at all times favored the upside.

Market analysts agreed that technical aspects of the market more than any specific news accounted for the rise. Some saw the advance as only an interruption of the downward trend which again is expected to put the September lows to a further test before any sustained rally can develop.

The industrial stock average closed at 628.45 up 9.02, the widest gain since Feb. 2 when the average rose 10.72. That gain alone was the best since Nov. 15, 1957.

The advance restored some three billion dollars to stock valuations.

There was little in the news to generate much enthusiasm, although favorable company reports were many. American Machine & Foundry rose fractionally on a report by its president that sales and earnings this year would rise sharply. Douglas saw the possibility of a slight profit in the quarter ended Feb. 29 and the stock jumped more than 2.

Steels were a drag on the market in the early trading but the group came to life in the late afternoon with gains of more than a point in U.S. Steel, and Jones & Laughlin, and more than 2 in American Steel Foundries.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures were moderately irregular Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was unchanged to up ⅜; corn off ¼ to up ⅜; oats unchanged to up ½; rye off ½ to up ¾; soybeans off ⅛ to up ¼; and lard off 5 to 3 points.

Trading was slow, although some buying appeared following release of President Eisenhower's farm message. The message was in line with trade expectations.

There are no months on the futures board which would be directly affected by recommended legislation, since any laws would pertain to the 1961 crop.

In wheat, some commercial buying appeared in the March contract. Prices were mostly steady. Some early selling came from a house with Western connections.

Corn was mostly steady. Early offerings were light. A resting demand existed for March, while spreaders wanted May in exchange for March at 2⅞ cents difference. Commission houses sold. The spot basis remained steady.

Oats were steady to firm in a light and mixed trade. Cash and commission houses were on both sides of March.

Rye futures were mixed.

Soybeans recovered from early easy tones to close steady. There was a good demand for July. One processor bought March and sold May at 2¼ cents difference. Oils were steady.

Outside markets were mixed.

Chemicals, Metals Spark Late Stock Market Rally

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chemicals, metals and leading steels triggered a late afternoon rally in the stock market Tuesday.

The list moved timidly through the first three hours, rising and falling as trader sentiment waxed or waned. Prices at all times favored the upside.

Market analysts agreed that technical aspects of the market more than any specific news accounted for the rise. Some saw the advance as only an interruption of the downward trend which again is expected to put the September lows to a further test before any sustained rally can develop.

The industrial stock average closed at 628.45 up 9.02, the widest gain since Feb. 2 when the average rose 10.72. That gain alone was the best since Nov. 15, 1957.

The advance restored some three billion dollars to stock valuations.

There was little in the news to generate much enthusiasm, although favorable company reports were many. American Machine & Foundry rose fractionally on a report by its president that sales and earnings this year would rise sharply. Douglas saw the possibility of a slight profit in the quarter ended Feb. 29 and the stock jumped more than 2.

Steels were a drag on the market in the early trading but the group came to life in the late afternoon with gains of more than a point in U.S. Steel, and Jones & Laughlin, and more than 2 in American Steel Foundries.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures were moderately irregular Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was unchanged to up ⅝; corn off ¼ to up ⅝; oats unchanged to up ⅛; rye off ½ to up ⅛; soybeans off ⅛ to up ¼; and lard off 5 to 3 points.

Trading was slow, although some buying appeared following release of President Eisenhower's farm message. The message was in line with trade expectations.

There are no months on the futures board which would be directly affected by recommended legislation, since any laws would pertain to the 1961 crop.

In wheat, some commercial buying appeared in the March contract. Prices were mostly steady. Some early selling came from a house with Western connections.

Corn was mostly steady. Early offerings were light. A resting demand existed for March, while spreaders wanted May in exchange for March at 2⅞ cents difference. Commission houses sold. The spot basis remained steady.

Oats were steady to firm in a light and mixed trade. Cash and commission houses were on both sides of March.

Rye futures were mixed.

Soybeans recovered from early easy tones to close steady. There was a good demand for July. One processor bought March and sold May at 2¼ cents difference. Oils were steady.

Export circles reported Pakistan bought 260,000 bushels of spring and white wheat.

Outside markets were mixed.

Area Delegates Get Preview Of Road Plan

Del. Conlon Asks Written Schedule

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Western Maryland delegates got an advance look Tuesday at State Roads Commission plans for their share of a new "backbone" network of highways to be completed over the next five years.

Some were far from satisfied, but gave no indications they would oppose the plan.

The entire Legislature will hear about the program Wednesday night. The SRC is seeking permission to abandon timetables of the current 12-year roads program and concentrate on construction of 390 miles of main highways in the state.

At Tuesday's hearing, Washington County delegates protested the SRC's new plans to construct U.S. 15 south from the Pennsylvania line ahead of building a by-pass of heavily-travelled U.S. 40 east and west around Hagerstown.

May Be Switched

Bob Hajzyk, chief of the division of planning and programming for the SRC, said he thought the priorities could be rearranged to put the U.S. 40 project in front.

Del. Joseph H. McElwee (D-Washington) noted that all improvements scheduled for Washington County under the stepped-up program are in highways that will be 90 per cent financed by the federal government under the interstate program.

"We'd feel a lot better with state money in there," he said.

Dels. E. Park Geiger Jr. and Charles Coss argued for the change of priorities on the U.S. 40 by-pass.

Wants On Paper

Del. Thomas F. Conlon (D-Allegany) asked if it might not be wise to write into legislation the SRC's new proposed timetable for major construction. He said Western Maryland improvements had been related to the last half of the 12-year roads program and now that they're finally starting "we might be put on the end again."

Hajzyk assured him that improvements to U.S. 40 from Hancock west to Keyser's Ridge, some 44 miles, rate high priority among construction plans. He said the new timetable calls for completion of this mountainous stretch by 1963, except for the seven-mile Cumberland Thruway, which will be constructed from 1962 to 1965.

In addition, the remaining two uncompleted portions of U.S. 219 improvements in Garrett County would be finished by 1965 giving motorists good highways all the way to Deep Creek Lake. The 4.8 mile stretch from Hoyes to Deep Creek would be finished by 1962, and from Keyser's Ridge to Accident by 1965.

Outlines Plan

Here is the way Hajzyk outlined other improvements in the stepped-up roads plan:

U.S. 40 from Hancock east to Frederick would be completed by 1967, reconstructed as dual-lane, controlled-access Interstate Route 70. The Hagerstown By-pass portion of this would be speeded up, and possibly opened to traffic by 1963, if plans are revised as indicated.

The remainder of Interstate 70, from Frederick to Baltimore, would be completed after 1965. This is already dual lane highway from Frederick to the city line.

Interstate 81, which will run from Pennsylvania to the West Virginia line, would be completed to the point where it intersects with present U.S. 11 above Williamsport. The southern portion of this route would be deferred if U.S. 40 by passing Hagerstown is pushed ahead of it.

Gets Priority

The first priority in Frederick County would go to U.S. 340 from the Catoctin River to Sandy Hook. Next, about 1963, would come construction of one lane of U.S. 15 from the Frederick By-passs to the improved section in the Catoctin area. U.S. 15 will be dualized from the Pennsylvania line to Point of Rocks under the program.

Widening, relocating and modifying curves on Maryland 26 from Eldersburg to Winfield—six miles—is to be advertised this summer for completion by 1961. That will complete improvements of Maryland 76 from the Baltimore County line to Frederick.

Also to be undertaken during the 1960-65 program is construction of one lane of an ultimate dual highway for 10 miles along Maryland 97 from Westminster to Taneytown.

Hundreds Volunteer Aid In Heart Fund Campaign

Hundreds of volunteers throughout Allegany County are offering their services in the 1960 Heart Fund campaign of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Heart Association.

James W. Bishop is president of the association, which seeks $20,205 as its goal in the two westernmost counties of Maryland during the month of February.

George R. Hughes Jr., local attorney and former member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County, is general chairman of the campaign. Mrs. William H. Macy, 207 Fayette Street, is Heart Sunday chairman for the special door-to-door solicitation on February 28.

Other leaders include Walter W. Neff, downtown business chairman; Richard P. Dailey, South Cumberland business chairman; David E. Kirk, county chairman, and Paul W. Weisenmiller, plastic heart chairman.

Nine communities in Allegany County also have their own campaign chairmen. Among them are Mrs. Lola Green, Barton; Joseph Garlitz, Corriganville and Ellerslie; Francis Fatkin, Eckhart and Clarysville; William T. Preston, Frostburg business chairman; James Berry, Lonaconing; William E. Orr Jr., Midland; Mrs. John Knepp, Mt. Savage and Barrelville; James Wills, Westernport, and Willis Scott, Vale Summit.

Frostburg also has Heart Sunday co-chairmen. They are Mrs. Marshall Ferce and Mrs. Thomas R. Jackson.

These Heart Fund campaign leaders are emphasizing the fact that the heart diseases are the nation's number one health enemy.

A report by the National Office of Vital Statistics, U. S. Public Health Service, shows that the heart diseases are responsible for almost 900,000 deaths a year. This is more than 54 per cent of all deaths in this country.

More than half of all the cardiovascular deaths are in the 45-64 age group, the most productive years of life.

"These figures are dramatic evidence that diseases of the heart and circulation are our number one health enemy," Mr. Hughes emphasized. "They show that the heart diseases kill more Americans each year than all other causes of death combined. They demonstrate that the heart diseases are not just a problem of old age but a problem that threatens every age group."

The Heart Association pointed out that it has been estimated that more than 10,000,000 living Americans are affected by diseases of the heart and blood vessels. More than half a million of this number are children with rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease and inborn heart defects.

City Collects 84.2 Per Cent Of Year's Levy

The City of Cumberland ended the seventh month of the current fiscal year with 84.2 per cent of its $1,849,510 levy collected as spending lagged 10 points below par.

This was revealed in the Condition of the Levy report issued yesterday by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson. The report is prepared each month to advise department heads on the city's financial condition and deparmental spending.

The report showed that collections by January 31 totaled $1,557,070.64, which is 84.2 per cent of the $1,849,510 levy. This leaves $296,474.42 to be collected from funds levied, offset by $4,035.06 of excess collections.

Most Taxes In

The $1,181,976.07 collected on the tax levy represents 94.3 per cent of the levy, and leaves only $71,100.93 still to come in.

One of the six sources of state-shared income went over the top and may help compensate for another source which will probably fail to meet expectations.

Receipts from state horse racing income totaled $44,035.06 and this is $4,035.06 higher than the levy. All of the city's share for the current fiscal year is in.

Mr. Gibson said the extra funds may help offset state gas and auto revenues, which were only $43,540.65 when the report was prepared. Since then, the city received a payment of about $18,000, but the last payment will have to be $28,000 or more if the expected $90,000 is received.

Departments In Black

Appropriations for city services were in good shape as the $769,577.09 spent to date represents only 48 per cent of the funds appropriated. Par for the end of the seventh month is 38.3 per cent.

All departments appeared to be operating within their budgets.

Nothing had been spent on two construction items, $68,700 set aside for special street and sewer projects and $56,400 alolted toward the five-year street construction and resurfacing program.

Frostburg To Ballot On Mayor, Council

April 5 Set For Election

Citizens of Frostburg will elect a mayor and four council members April 5, and William Vogtman, city clerk, said last night that candidates may file at his office in the city building.

To be eligible to file as a candidate for mayor or for one of the council seats, Mr. Vogtman explains, each applicant must be a citizen of the United States, a resident of Frostburg for at least one year, be a qualified registered voter, and must be on the assessment books for real estate to the value of $500 or more for one year preceding the election date, and may be either male or female.

The mayor receives a salary of $700 per year and each council member is paid $500. The mayor and councilmen are elected for two-year terms.

However, an effort is being made to extend the term of office to four years, and at the election in April, residents may be given an opportunity to ballot on such a charter amendment.

At a recent meeting of the town council, Edward J. Ryan, town attorney, was instructed to compile an ordinance changing the terms from two to four years. If the ordinance is adopted by the council at next Monday's meeting, it can then be submitted to referendum in April.

Mr. Vogtman noted that the date of finality to filing candidacy for municipal office in Frostburg is two weeks prior to the election, or this year, no later than 5 p. m. March 21.

All officers elected on April 5 will take office on the first Monday in May.

At the city election two years ago, Mayor Joseph James was re-elected for his second term. Councilmen elected included Herbert Loar, re-elected for a second term; James P. Kenney, elected to a first term; William Sluss and William Preston, who had previously been appointed to council to fill vacancies caused by a death and a resignation.

Emmanuel Honors Rector

About 150 members of Emmanuel Episcopal Church turned out last night to stage a surprise party at Ali Ghan Country Club for Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, who has been rector of the church for the past 10 years.

Rev. Richardson actually will observe his 10th anniversary as rector at Emmanuel next Monday, but last night was chosen as the date for the dinner so that Right Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of Maryland, could attend.

Bishop Powell spoke on Rev. Mr. Richardson's career in the ministry, which included four years as rector of the Church of the Epiphany in Baltimore before he came to Emmanuel in February 1950.

Rev. Mr. Richardson, the 24th rector in the 157-year history of the local church, is only the fourth to have served as long as 10 years. The others were David Hillhouse Buel, 1847-57; William Cleveland Hicks, 1906-16; and Ambrose Henry Beavin, 1916-1926.

Robert Little Ebert, Sunday school superintendent at Emmanuel, was toastmaster at last night's dinner, and William L. Wilson, a member of the Vestry, presented Rev. Mr. Richardson with a watch as a gift from the congregation.

Episcopal clergymen at the head table were Rev. Lawrence Crawford Butler, rector of St. George's Church in Mt. Savage, who gave the invocation; Rev. Leslee E. Schwindt, vicar of St. Peter's, Lonaconing, who gave the benediction, and Rev. William J. Cox, vicar of Holy Cross and St. Philip's, Cumberland.

Rev. Mr. Richardson was born November 26, 1913 in Worceseter, Mass. He was educated in Worcester schools, including Clark University, and was graduated from Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., in 1941.

He served as assistant at St. Stephen's Church, Pittsfield, Mass., in 1941 and 1942, and then entered the Navy as a chaplain. He served with the Marine Corps in the Pacific Theatre, and at the Navy hospital in Newport, R. I. Upon his release from service in 1946 he became assistant rector of the Church of the Redeemer in Baltimore, and later was rector of the Church of the Epiphany there until he came here.

PTA Groups Seek Boosts For Teachers

Legality Of Tawes' Plan Is Questioned

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Armed with banners and statistics spokesmen for Maryland Praent - Teacher groups pleaded with the Legislature Tuesday to grant teachers a 15 million dollar pay raise.

They told a joint session of the House and Senate Finance committees an alternate $4,300,000 proposal backed by Gov. Tawes would be inadequate and a usurpation of local rights.

State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr. questioned whether the governor's plan is constitutional.

Only one of the 15 speakers in the jammed House chamber opposed the 15 million dollar increase. He obliquely suggested that Russia is the place for teachers who put money first.

Tawes Is Opposed

The governor was reported firmly opposed to any compromise calling for a tax increase.

Banners draped from the House galleries mentioned a 12 million dollar kitty which the governor has set up in his budget proposal for next fiscal year as "rainy day" insurance against a possible tax-depleting recession.

"It's raining in our schools now," said the banners. "Let's raise the roof a bit and get the needed repairs."

Mrs. Fred L. Bull, legislative chairman of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, supplied statistics. She said 47 per cent of newly hired Maryland teachers last year had only emergency certificates, the state has dropped from third to 11th on the national list of average salaries for teachers, and the state is now shouldering only 37 per cent of the financial burdens for schools.

Cites 1959 Bill

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., recalled that the 15 million dollar MSTA plan is essentially the same as one endorsed by Tawes in the 1959 legislative session, only to die in the final hours.

"If this was a good bill last year," asked Raver, "why isn't it a good bill this year?"

Raver said the MSTA would support a bill to finance its pay plan by applying the three per cent sales tax to restaurant meals costing 50 cents or more and to purchases of at least 14 cents on other items, instead of the 51-cent base now in effect.

Under no circumstances, said Raver, could the MSTA back the administration plan originally proposed by a legislative committee under Sen. William S. James (D-Harford).

This plan would provide $300 a year raises for teachers credited with at least 10 years of experience.

The MSTA plan would provide increases ranging from an average of $363 a year per teacher in Baltimore County to $672 in Calvert County.

Questions Legality

Pullen said the James plan may be unconstitutional because it would require each county to levy a different tax rate to finance a different minimum scale. This is being done by the counties voluntarily, he acknowledged, but the element of compulsion by the state might change the legality of such action.

The speaker who mentioned Russia was Henry Nordin, a Baltimore County resident. After hearing several previous speakers refer to high-paying Montgomery County's attraction for teachers from smaller, less generous counties, he quoted a report that "top teachers or professors in the Soviet Union" receive $50,000 a year. He then abruptly stepped down from the rostrum.

William Tutton of Baltimore, legislative chairman for the Restaurant Assn. of Maryland, told the committees his group opposes any move to tax restaurant meals.

Dankmeyer susstained a broken arm and laceration on his head in the fracas and is still under a doctor's care. His medical expenses to be paid by Friend and Day amount to about $100.

Fatal Accident Trial Opens In Keyser Today

A 28-year-old Purgitsville, W. Va., man will go on trial this morning in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser on a charge of negligent homicide by motor vehicle in the highway death of another Purgitsville man on December 10 last year.

Hugh R. Anderson Jr. faces the petit jury trial as a result of the death of Loren Wright Shoemaker, 25, who was killed instantly when the auto rammed into a tree along Mineral County Route 13 near the Mineral-Hampshire county line at Russelldale.

Injured in the accident was Orville E. Shoemaker, about 25, also of Purgitsville, a cousin of the dead man. He was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser with injuries sustained in the crash.

The car, driven east on the highway by Anderson, left the road about six miles south of Burlington and crashed into a tree on the right side of the highway.

Attorney for the defendant will be Vernon Rankin. Donald Hott, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County, will present the state's case. He said the jury was impaneled yesterday and is expected to go to the scene of the accident this morning.

The case will be heard by Judge Ernest See, and will begin at 10 a.m.

Census Crew Chiefs Test Set Up Here

25 Scheduled To Take Examination

Examinations will be held here Friday afternoon for positions as crew leaders in the 1960 census in Allegany and Garrett County.

George R. Hughes Jr., district supervisor for Maryland's Sixth Congressional District, said about 25 applicants from Allegany and Garrett counties will take the tests scheduled Friday, beginning at 1:45 p. m. in Room 115 of Fort Hill High School.

He said the crew leaders, four for Allegany and one for Garrett County, will be selected on the basis of tests within a week or 10 days.

Similar tests are being held ending Monday in Hagerstown, for Washington County, to select the crew leaders who will head teams of enumerators who will do the leg work in the Sixth District census.

Applications for census enumerators are still being taken at the District Census Office, 38 West Patrick Street, Frederick.

Mr. Hughes said yesterday there have been a number of questions asked on the procedure for securing enumerators.

Those interested, he said, should write, call or visit the district office to make application. The office will make a card file of all applicants.

Will Select Teams

After crew leaders are selected and testing plans completed, post cards will be sent to enumerator applicants, notifying them of the date, time and place of qualifying tests which will be used to make selections.

Crew leaders will be responsible for training enumerators, and current plans call for all personnel to be selected and trained by April 1.

The Allegany County census will be made by a team headed by four crew leaders and 76 enumerators. Garrett County will have one crew leader and 16 enumerators.

Mr. Hughes reported yesterday that applications for enumerator positions should be submitted as soon as possible. He added that while the number of job applicants is quite heavy in some areas, applications from Garrett County are not, and that additional applicants can be taken.

Pay Scale Set

Enumerator openings will be available for any resident over 18 years of age in the various counties. The enumerators, who will be required to make the house-to-house canvass must necessarily be in good health and of average intelligence.

Enumerators will be paid about $12 per day, either on a piecework or hourly basis. Mr. Hughes said the method of pay will depend on how densely populated the districts are. Some mileage will be available for enumerators working in rural areas. Crew leaders will be paid about $15.60 daily.

Enumerators and crew leaders will be required to attend three, three-hour training sessions.

Begins April 1

The census will be conducted in conjunction with a U. S. Bureau of the Census housing questionnaire, which will be left at every fourth house for the owner or renter to complete.

The actual census will begin at midnight Thursday, March 31, which has been designated as T (transient) Night. At this time, all hotels and motels housing 50 or more persons will be enumerated.

The regular house-to-house canvass will begin April 1.

The first stage of the census will consist of the actual counting of each resident and the housing questionnaire. The second and concluding stage will have the enumerators calling back to pick up the questionnaires that were not mailed to the district office.

The project is expected to be completed by the latter part of April.

Case Taken To High Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals was asked Tuesday to decide whether the State of Maryland could collect from the estate of an Allegany County man who died while a patient at Springfield State Hospital.

The Department of Mental Hygiene has billed the estate for $7,423 toward part of the cost of treating Harry E. Kooken at the Sykesville institution from 1947 to his death in 1958. Kooken left an estate of $4,465.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., administrator of the estate, appealed an Allegany Circuit Court decision which upheld the funds sought by the state.

Whitworth argued that the county commissioners and Kooken's family had agreed on payments of $125 a year toward the man's care, and that these payments were met up until Kooken's death.

Maryland law allows the state to recover any payments not made under the agreement but not to recover additional money toward care.

The high court took the case under advisement.

Area Delegates Get Preview Of Road Plan

Del. Conlon Asks Written Schedule

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Western Maryland delegates got an advance look Tuesday at State Roads Commission plans for their share of a new "backbone" network of highways to be completed over the next five years.

Some were far from satisfied, but gave no indications they would oppose the plan.

The entire Legislature will hear about the program Wednesday night. The SRC is seeking permission to abandon timetables of the current 12-year roads program and concentrate on construction of 390 miles of main highways in the state.

At Tuesday's hearing, Washington County delegates protested the SRC's new plans to construct U.S. 15 south from the Pennsylvania line ahead of building a by-pass of heavily-travelled U.S. 40 east and west around Hagerstown.

May Be Switched

Bob Hajzyk, chief of the division of planning and programming for the SRC, said he thought the priorities could be rearranged to put the U.S. 40 project in front.

Del. Joseph H. McElwee (D-Washington) noted that all improvements scheduled for Washington County under the stepped-up program are in highways that will be 90 per cent financed by the federal government under the interstate program.

"We'd feel a lot better with state money in there," he said.

Dels. E. Park Geiger Jr. and Charles Coss argued for the change of priorities on the U.S. 40 by-pass.

Wants On Paper

Del. Thomas F. Conlon (D-Allegany) asked if it might not be wise to write into legislation the SRC's new proposed timetable for major construction. He said Western Maryland improvements had been related to the last half of the 12-year roads program and now that they're finally starting "we might be put on the end again."

Hajzyk assured him that improvements to U.S. 40 from Hancock west to Keyser's Ridge, some 44 miles, rate high priority among construction plans. He said the new timetable calls for completion of this mountainous stretch by 1963, except for the seven-mile Cumberland Thruway, which will be constructed from 1962 to 1965.

In addition, the remaining two uncompleted portions of U.S. 219 improvements in Garrett County would be finished by 1965 giving motorists good highways all the way to Deep Creek Lake. The 4.8 mile stretch from Hoyes to Deep Creek would be finished by 1962, and from Keyser's Ridge to Accident by 1965.

Outlines Plan

Here is the way Hajzyk outlined other improvements in the stepped-up roads plan:

U.S. 40 from Hancock east to Frederick would be completed by 1967, reconstructed as dual-lane, controlled-access Interstate Route 70. The Hagerstown By-pass portion of this would be speeded up, and possibly opened to traffic by 1963, if plans are revised as indicated.

The remainder of Interstate 70, from Frederick to Baltimore, would be completed after 1965. This is already dual lane highway from Frederick to the city line.

Interstate 81, which will run from Pennsylvania to the West Virginia line, would be completed to the point where it intersects with present U.S. 11 above Williamsport. The southern portion of this route would be deferred if U.S. 40 by passing Hagerstown is pushed ahead of it.

Gets Priority

The first priority in Frederick County would go to U.S. 340 from the Catoctin River to Sandy Hook. Next, about 1963, would come construction of one lane of U.S. 15 from the Frederick By-passs to the improved section in the Catoctin area. U.S. 15 will be dualized from the Pennsylvania line to Point of Rocks under the program.

Widening, relocating and modifying curves on Maryland 26 from Eldersburg to Winfield—six miles—is to be advertised this summer for completion by 1961. That will complete improvements of Maryland 76 from the Baltimore County line to Frederick.

Also to be undertaken during the 1960-65 program is construction of one lane of an ultimate dual highway for 10 miles along Maryland 97 from Westminster to Taneytown.

The Heart Sunday Organization

Mrs. William H. Macy, general Heart Sunday chairman, is shown explaining to some of her area chairmen how the organization of Heart Sunday works. Pictured, left to right, are Mrs. Mildred Short, Mrs. Macy, Mrs. Edwin VanMeter, chairman, East Side School area; Mrs. M. D. Colderwood, chairman, Cash Valley, Dressman's Addition and Braddock Farms, and Mrs. Earl Thompson, volunteer for Mrs. VanMeter. Heart Sunday will be observed February 28.

Hundreds Volunteer Aid In Heart Fund Campaign

Hundreds of volunteers throughout Allegany County are offering their services in the 1960 Heart Fund campaign of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Heart Association.

James W. Bishop is president of the association, which seeks $20,205 as its goal in the two westernmost counties of Maryland during the month of February.

George R. Hughes Jr., local attorney and former member of the House of Delegates from Allegany County, is general chairman of the campaign. Mrs. William H. Macy, 207 Fayette Street, is Heart Sunday chairman for the special door-to-door solicitation on February 28.

Other leaders include Walter W. Neff, downtown business chairman; Richard P. Dailey, South Cumberland business chairman; David E. Kirk, county chairman, and Paul W. Weisenmiller, plastic heart chairman.

Nine communities in Allegany County also have their own campaign chairmen. Among them are Mrs. Lola Green, Barton; Joseph Garlitz, Corriganville and Ellerslie; Francis Fatkin, Eckhart and Clarysville; William T. Preston, Frostburg business chairman; James Berry, Lonaconing; William E. Orr Jr., Midland; Mrs. John Knepp, Mt. Savage and Barrelville; James Wills, Westernport, and Willis Scott, Vale Summit.

Frostburg also has Heart Sunday co-chairmen. They are Mrs. Marshall Feree and Mrs. Thomas R. Jackson.

These Heart Fund campaign leaders are emphasizing the fact that the heart diseases are the nation's number one health enemy.

A report by the National Office of Vital Statistics, U. S. Public Health Service, shows that the heart diseases are responsible for almost 900,000 deaths a year. This is more than 54 per cent of all deaths in this country.

More than half of all the cardiovascular deaths are in the 45-64 age group, the most productive years of life.

"These figures are dramatic evidence that diseases of the heart and circulation are our number one health enemy," Mr. Hughes emphasized. "They show that the heart diseases kill more Americans each year than all other causes of death combined. They demonstrate that the heart diseases are not just a problem of old age but a problem that threatens every age group."

The Heart Association pointed out that it has been estimated that more than 10,000,000 living Americans are affected by diseases of the heart and blood vessels. More than half a million of this number are children with rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease and inborn heart defects.

City Collects 84.2 Per Cent Of Year's Levy

The City of Cumberland ended the seventh month of the current fiscal year with 84.2 per cent of its $1,849,510 levy collected as spending lagged 10 points below par.

This was revealed in the Condition of the Levy report issued yesterday by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson. The report is prepared each month to advise department heads on the city's financial condition and deparmental spending.

The report showed that collections by January 31 totaled $1,557,070.64, which is 84.2 per cent of the $1,849,510 levy. This leaves $296,474.42 to be collected from funds levied, offset by $4,035.06 of excess collections.

Most Taxes In

The $1,181,976.07 collected on the tax levy represents 94.3 per cent of the levy, and leaves only $71,100.93 still to come in.

One of the six sources of state-shared income went over the top and may help compensate for another source which will probably fail to meet expectations.

Receipts from state horse racing income totaled $44,035.06 and this is $4,035.06 higher than the levy. All of the city's share for the current fiscal year is in.

Mr. Gibson said the extra funds may help offset state gas and auto revenues, which were only $43,540.65 when the report was prepared. Since then, the city received a payment of about $18,000, but the last payment will have to be $28,000 or more if the expected $90,000 is received.

Departments In Black

Appropriations for city services were in good shape as the $769,577.09 spent to date represents only 48 per cent of the funds appropriated. Par for the end of the seventh month is 38.3 per cent.

All departments appeared to be operating within their budgets.

Nothing had been spent on two construction items, $68,700 set aside for special street and sewer projects and $56,400 alolted toward the five-year street construction and resurfacing program.

Frostburg To Ballot On Mayor, Council

April 5 Set For Election

Citizens of Frostburg will elect a mayor and four council members April 5, and William Vogtman, city clerk, said last night that candidates may file at his office in the city building.

To be eligible to file as a candidate for mayor or for one of the council seats, Mr. Vogtman explains, each applicant must be a citizen of the United States, a resident of Frostburg for at least one year, be a qualified registered voter, and must be on the assessment books for real estate to the value of $500 or more for one year preceding the election date, and may be either male or female.

The mayor receives a salary of $700 per year and each council member is paid $500. The mayor and councilmen are elected for two-year terms.

However, an effort is being made to extend the term of office to four years, and at the election in April, residents may be given an opportunity to ballot on such a charter amendment.

At a recent meeting of the town council, Edward J. Ryan, town attorney, was instructed to compile an ordinance changing the terms from two to four years. If the ordinance is adopted by the council at next Monday's meeting, it can then be submitted to referendum in April.

Mr. Vogtman noted that the date of finality to filing candidacy for municipal office in Frostburg is two weeks prior to the election, or this year, no later than 5 p. m. March 21.

All officers elected on April 5 will take office on the first Monday in May.

At the city election two years ago, Mayor Joseph James was re-elected for his second term. Councilmen elected included Herbert Loar, re-elected for a second term; James P. Kenney, elected to a first term; William Sluss and William Preston, who had previously been appointed to council to fill vacancies caused by a death and a resignation.

Emmanuel Honors Rector

About 150 members of Emmanuel Episcopal Church turned out last night to stage a surprise party at Ali Ghan Country Club for Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, who has been rector of the church for the past 10 years.

Rev. Richardson actually will observe his 10th anniversary as rector at Emmanuel next Monday, but last night was chosen as the date for the dinner so that Right Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of Maryland, could attend.

Bishop Powell spoke on Rev. Mr. Richardson's career in the ministry, which included four years as rector of the Church of the Epiphany in Baltimore before he came to Emmanuel in February 1950.

Rev. Mr. Richardson, the 24th rector in the 157-year history of the local church, is only the fourth to have served as long as 10 years. The others were David Hillhouse Buel, 1847-57; William Cleveland Hicks, 1906-16; and Ambrose Henry Beavin, 1916-1926.

Robert Little Ebert, Sunday school superintendent at Emmanuel, was toastmaster at last night's dinner, and William L. Wilson, a member of the Vestry, presented Rev. Mr. Richardson with a watch as a gift from the congregation.

Episcopal clergymen at the head table were Rev. Lawrence Crawford Butler, rector of St. George's Church in Mt. Savage, who gave the invocation; Rev. Leslee E. Schwindt, vicar of St. Peter's, Lonaconing, who gave the benediction, and Rev. William J. Cox, vicar of Holy Cross and St. Philip's, Cumberland.

Rev. Mr. Richardson was born November 26, 1913 in Worceseter, Mass. He was educated in Worcester schools, including Clark University, and was graduated from Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., in 1941.

He served as assistant at St. Stephen's Church, Pittsfield, Mass., in 1941 and 1942, and then entered the Navy as a chaplain. He served with the Marine Corps in the Pacific Theatre, and at the Navy hospital in Newport, R. I. Upon his release from service in 1946 he became assistant rector of the Church of the Redeemer in Baltimore, and later was rector of the Church of the Epiphany there until he came here.

PTA Groups Seek Boosts For Teachers

Legality Of Tawes' Plan Is Questioned

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Armed with banners and statistics spokesmen for Maryland Praent - Teacher groups pleaded with the Legislature Tuesday to grant teachers a 15 million dollar pay raise.

They told a joint session of the House and Senate Finance committees an alternate $4,300,000 proposal backed by Gov. Tawes would be inadequate and a usurpation of local rights.

State School Superintendent Thomas G. Pullen Jr. questioned whether the governor's plan is constitutional.

Only one of the 15 speakers in the jammed House chamber opposed the 15 million dollar increase. He obliquely suggested that Russia is the place for teachers who put money first.

Tawes Is Opposed

The governor was reported firmly opposed to any compromise calling for a tax increase.

Banners draped from the House galleries mentioned a 12 million dollar kitty which the governor has set up in his budget proposal for next fiscal year as "rainy day" insurance against a possible tax-depleting recession.

"It's raining in our schools now," said the banners. "Let's raise the roof a bit and get the needed repairs."

Mrs. Fred L. Bull, legislative chairman of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, supplied statistics. She said 47 per cent of newly hired Maryland teachers last year had only emergency certificates, the state has dropped from third to 11th on the national list of average salaries for teachers, and the state is now shouldering only 37 per cent of the financial burdens for schools.

Cites 1959 Bill

Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Assn., recalled that the 15 million dollar MSTA plan is essentially the same as one endorsed by Tawes in the 1959 legislative session, only to die in the final hours.

"If this was a good bill last year," asked Raver, "why isn't it a good bill this year?"

Raver said the MSTA would support a bill to finance its pay plan by applying the three per cent sales tax to restaurant meals costing 50 cents or more and to purchases of at least 14 cents on other items, instead of the 51-cent base now in effect.

Under no circumstances, said Raver, could the MSTA back the administration plan originally proposed by a legislative committee under Sen. William S. James (D-Harford).

This plan would provide $300 a year raises for teachers credited with at least 10 years of experience.

The MSTA plan would provide increases ranging from an average of $363 a year per teacher in Baltimore County to $672 in Calvert County.

Questions Legality

Pullen said the James plan may be unconstitutional because it would require each county to levy a different tax rate to finance a different minimum scale. This is being done by the counties voluntarily, he acknowledged, but the element of compulsion by the state might change the legality of such action.

The speaker who mentioned Russia was Henry Nordin, a Baltimore County resident. After hearing several previous speakers refer to high-paying Montgomery County's attraction for teachers from smaller, less generous counties, he quoted a report that "top teachers or professors in the Soviet Union" receive $50,000 a year. He then abruptly stepped down from the rostrum.

William Tutton of Baltimore, legislative chairman for the Restaurant Assn. of Maryland, told the committees his group opposes any move to tax restaurant meals.

Fatal Accident Trial Opens In Keyser Today

A 28-year-old Purgitsville, W. Va., man will go on trial this morning in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser on a charge of negligent homicide by motor vehicle in the highway death of another Purgitsville man on December 10 last year.

Hugh R. Anderson Jr. faces the petit jury trial as a result of the death of Loren Wright Shoemaker, 25, who was killed instantly when the auto rammed into a tree along Mineral County Route 13 near the Mineral-Hampshire county line at Russelldale.

Injured in the accident was Orville E. Shoemaker, about 25, also of Purgitsville, a cousin of the dead man. He was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser with injuries sustained in the crash.

The car, driven east on the highway by Anderson, left the road about six miles south of Burlington and crashed into a tree on the right side of the highway.

Attorney for the defendant will be Vernon Rankin. Donald Hott, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County, will present the state's case. He said the jury was impaneled yesterday and is expected to go to the scene of the accident this morning.

Census Crew Chiefs Test Set Up Here

25 Scheduled To Take Examination

Examinations will be held here Friday afternoon for positions as crew leaders in the 1960 census in Allegany and Garrett County.

George R. Hughes Jr., district supervisor for Maryland's Sixth Congressional District, said about 25 applicants from Allegany and Garrett counties will take the tests scheduled Friday, beginning at 1:45 p. m. in Room 115 of Fort Hill High School.

He said the crew leaders, four for Allegany and one for Garrett County, will be selected on the basis of tests within a week or 10 days.

Similar tests are being held ending Monday in Hagerstown, for Washington County, to select the crew leaders who will head teams of enumerators who will do the leg work in the Sixth District census.

Applications for census enumerators are still being taken at the District Census Office, 38 West Patrick Street, Frederick.

Mr. Hughes said yesterday there have been a number of questions asked on the procedure for securing enumerators.

Those interested, he said, should write, call or visit the district office to make application. The office will make a card file of all applicants.

Will Select Teams

After crew leaders are selected and testing plans completed, post cards will be sent to enumerator applicants, notifying them of the date, time and place of qualifying tests which will be used to make selections.

Crew leaders will be responsible for training enumerators, and current plans call for all personnel to be selected and trained by April 1.

The Allegany County census will be made by a team headed by four crew leaders and 76 enumerators. Garrett County will have one crew leader and 16 enumerators.

Mr. Hughes reported yesterday that applications for enumerator positions should be submitted as soon as possible. He added that while the number of job applicants is quite heavy in some areas, applications from Garrett County are not, and that additional applicants can be taken.

Pay Scale Set

Enumerator openings will be available for any resident over 18 years of age in the various counties. The enumerators, who will be required to make the house-to-house canvass must necessarily be in good health and of average intelligence.

Enumerators will be paid about $12 per day, either on a piecework or hourly basis. Mr. Hughes said the method of pay will depend on how densely populated the districts are. Some mileage will be available for enumerators working in rural areas. Crew leaders will be paid about $15.60 daily.

Enumerators and crew leaders will be required to attend three, three-hour training sessions.

Begins April 1

The census will be conducted in conjunction with a U. S. Bureau of the Census housing questionnaire, which will be left at every fourth house for the owner or renter to complete.

The actual census will begin at midnight Thursday, March 31, which has been designated as T (transient) Night. At this time, all hotels and motels housing 50 or more persons will be enumerated.

The regular house-to-house canvass will begin April 1.

The first stage of the census will consist of the actual counting of each resident and the housing questionnaire. The second and concluding stage will have the enumerators calling back to pick up the questionnaires that were not mailed to the district office.

The project is expected to be completed by the latter part of April.

Keyser Attorneys Seek New Trials

Attorneys have made motions for new trials for two men who were tried in Mineral County Circuit Court during the past week on a charge of breaking and entering Weese's Appliance Store in Keyser last November.

Donald Hott, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County, said last night the sentencing of the two men will be delayed until motions for the new trials are considered by the court, which may be about the middle of this month.

William Mahoney of Beryl and Stanley Bonney, of Keyser, this past week were found guilty of breaking and entering the store by a petit jury which heard the cases.
